Egg Producer Bob Armstrong Heads Lancaster County Poultry Association

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — Bob Armstrong feels much more comfortable dressed in a flannel shirt and jeans and servicing chicks than donning a suit and addressing about 500 members of the Lancaster County Poultry Association. But, that's his job as the newly appointed president of the Association, and he will not let his uncomfortableness stand in the way of helping make the Association a viable force in the poultry industry.

Because most past presidents of the Association have worked in industry positions rather than in the production end, Armstrong admits that he is at a disadvantage when it comes to "upfront time" before an audience. But advantage is on his side when it comes to understanding the needs of the producer and the educational seminars that are needed during the Association's annual Poultry Progress Day.

"As a producer, I probably have a better idea of the smaller things that affect farmers that the allied industry doesn't think about," he said.

"I was educated in the chicken house, not the classroom," Armstrong said. Although he would be happy to add a degree to his accomplishments, and has checked into the possibility, he said, "With a wife and two children, it's both a time and a financial impossibility."

In his present job of managing and servicing the half million layers for Garber's Farms in Milton Grove, Armstrong's lack of a degree doesn't hinder his responsibilities and abilities. But he is limited in job opportunities for many companies that require a degree for doing the same work that he does for the Garbers.

Armstrong grew up on his grandfather's dairy and poultry farm in the Glenville area of York County. As an FFA'er at Dover High School, Armstrong knew that farming would be his career choice, although his grandfather's farm was sold in 1979.

Lou Elgin, serviceman for Pennfield Feeds, convinced Armstrong that chickens had more of a future than cows. But at that time,

Newly appointed president of the Lancaster Poultry Association Bob Armstrong said that for him, taking care of chickens is as much of a hobby as it is a job. "I'm fortunate to have the opportunity of working in the industry," he said. "A lot of people don't get to do what they like."

Pa. State Grange Adopts Policies, Presents Awards, Elects Officials

CLARION (Clarion Co.) — The Pennsylvania State Grange held its 121st annual convention this week at the Gemmel Complex of the Clarion University, in Clarion, to discuss issues, adopt policies and positions, present awards and elect officials.

The Grange is an organization representing an estimated 35,000 rural Pennsylvanians. More than 600 members attended the four-day event.

In addition to providing political clout for its rural membership, it also offers member benefits, such as insurance, a credit union, community service and social activities.

Alice McDowell, of Grove City, received the award, one of the highest honors made by the Grange to its members, in recognition for her dedication to her community and the organization in her 59 years as a member.

McDowell, secretary for Venango County's Wesley Grange No.1675, is also the pianist of the (county) Pomona Grange, lecturer at the county Demeter Club, and a member of the 1993 State Session Steering Committee.

Though active for 59 years in the Grange, she continues to remain acitve in her church and other community organizations, and for the past five years, she has also served as a delegate to the state session.

She has twice received "Granger of the Year" recognition by her local affiliate, Wesley Grange, but this is the first year she received the state recognition.

In other awards, the State Grange presented community service awards to a number of local Granges, as well as four county Granges.

Recipients of the community service awards to a local Grange include North Jackson Grange No. 1740, in Lebanon County; Perry Valley Grange No. 1804, in Perry County; Virginville Grange No. 1832, Berks County; and Fort Granville No. 1902, in Mifflin County.

Those county Grange recipients were Jefferson No. 20; Berks No.

Calf To Be Given To Holstein Youth

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.)—This frisky two-month-old calf will be given a new young owner Tuesday evening at the Lancaster County Holstein Association annual meeting at the Family Style Restaurant. As in previous years the Association and a county breeder together give a calf to the intermediate youth in the association who has the top record book score.

The calf this year comes from the Lowell and Deb Brubaker family's Hilltop-Heritage herd and is a Black Star out of a Russ with 3y 22,419m 824f 699p. A maternal sister to the calf is VG with over 20,000m at 2y and the grand dam is VG86 with records to 20,146m at 8y5m. The Brubaker children showing the calf for the camera Wednesday afternoon are from left, Crystal, Heather, Blake, and Candice. Reservations for the dinner meeting can still be made by calling any of the county directors. Photo by Everett Newswanger, managing editor.

Committee Asks Chester Holstein Members To Help Support 4-H Center

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

ATGLEN (Chester Co.) — Members and friends of the Chester County Holstein Association were asked to play a significant role in the funding of the new Romano 4-H Center at a banquet here Tuesday night.

According to Walt Wurster, Chester County agent, a committee was recently formed to plan a sale to be scheduled in the spring next year to raise money toward the construction of the center. More importantly, according to Wurster, it will help the committee raise the awareness of the need for the center to other organizations whose donations are needed.

"Rather than keep asking you for a buck here and buck there, we've put together a committee that's going to have a sale in the spring," said Wurster. The committee is chaired by John St. John and Mildred Seeds.

The Romano 4-H Center will be located along Rt. 322 north of Guthriesville and just south of Honey Brook. The center, to cost about $950,000, will include two pole buildings, two show rings, and a headquarters office. The estate and hiers of Fiorre A. Romano of West Brandywine Township donated 15 acres of land and have allowed an option to build on another five acres in the future for the center.

"We're going to ask the dairy people in this county to donate an animal to a sale that we're going to have," Wurster said. "The sale is not going to raise enough money to build the 4-H center, but it's going to tell some of these other charitable organizations and foundations out there that the dairy industry in Chester County, one of the largest in the state, is behind the center."

Delmarva Broiler/Fryer Market

Wednesday, October 27, 1993

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was noted as moderate at most plants. Seller offering were fully adequate. Live supplies were moderate. Weights were desirable, instances lighter than desired. Processing schedules remained very heavy in spite of some plants trimming operations. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 52 to 64 cents. Trade sentiment was steady. In the parts complex, leg quarters were in firm hands. Boneless skinless breasts were not as available as earlier. Grade A whole breasts cleared well, but other stocks were ample. Wings were in heavy supply. Increased demand was noted on thigh.

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, Mo.
Wednesday, October 27, 1993

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY WHEAT PRICES WERE PUSHED LOWER, WEDNESDAY, ON LIGHTER EXPORT SALES AND ACTIVE WHEAT PLANTING; CORN PRICES EXTENDED LOSSES DUE TO HARVEST PRESSURE AND LACK OF EXPORT NEWS; SOYBEAN PRICES TURNED HIGHER IN REACTION TO CRUSH REPORT AND LOWER SOYOIL INVENTORY ESTIMATE. WHEAT 2 TO 6 CENTS LOWER. CORN UNCHANGED TO 1 CENT LOWER. SORGHUM 1 TO 3 CENTS LOWER. SOYBEANS 1 TO 5 CENTS HIGHER. WINTER WHEAT SEEDING IS UNDERWAY AND CROP CONDITION REPORTS ARE GOOD. EX- PORT DEMAND HAS BEEN GOOD THIS WEEK BUT VOLUME OF SALES HAS SLOWED DOWN IN MID-WEEK. SPILLOVER WEAKNESS FROM CORN PITS ADDED TO WHEAT PRICES DECLINES. CORN PRICES SLIPPED LOWER AGAIN, PRESSURED BY ACTIVE HARVESTING AS MIDWEST WEATHER HAS BEEN FAVORABLE TO FARMERS. THERE IS STILL PLENTY OF CORN TO BE HARVESTED AND THE WEATHER OUTLOOK IS FOR COOLER TEMPERATURES WITH THE POSSIBIL- ITY OF RAIN. THIS WEEK'S CRUSH REPORT FROM THE CENSUS BUREAU FORECAST LOWER SOYOIL INVENTORIES THAN EXPECTED. LIGHT FARMER SELLING OUT OF FIELDS STRENGTHENED BEAN PRICES. BEAN HARVEST COMPLETED IN SOME AREAS AND IN FULL SWING WHILE WEATHER PERMITS IN OTHER AREAS.

EXPORT NEWS: USDA ACCEPTED A BID TO SELL 12,000 TONNES WHEAT FLOUR TO EGYPT UNDER EEP, FOR OCT/DEC SHIPMENT. Northeast Chicken Parts

Wednesday, October 27, 1993

Trucklot buying interest was fair and improving. Supplies of boneless skinless breasts were balanced with a fair demand with most trading reported at current prices. However, the trade sentiment was firm going into late week. Grade A breasts for retail needs were in fairly good shape at unchanged prices; line run breasts were offered and slow to clear. Most further processors wait for the market to develop before booking late week needs. Leg quarters were well cleared at current prices and the undertone was firm to higher for first of the month retail demand. Wings struggled to clear, and prices trended lower.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

NATIONAL FIG WEEK

AND THE WINNER IS . . .

On November 7, 1876, nobody won the presidential election Although Governor Samuel J Tilden of New York carried the popular vote with 4,287,670 votes to Ohio Governor Rutherford B Hayes's 4,035,924 votes, Tilden was one electoral vote short of the 185 needed to win To resolve the dispute, Congress appointed a special electoral commission made up of five senators, five representatives, and five Supreme Court justices. After nearly four months of deliberation and bargaining, the commission awarded all 20 of the disputed electoral votes to Hayes, giving him the 185 necessary to claim victory. On March 3, 1877, Hayes was declared the winner and new president of the United States

Modern politics is a struggle not of men but of forces. — Henry Adams

TIP OF THE WEEK

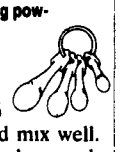
EAR-WISE

If you're buying new tires before the season of ice and snow gets underway, here are some things to consider. Radial tires result in the best gas mileage, and steel-belted radials are usually the most efficient. Keep your tires properly inflated — underinflation can waste up to 5% of a car's fuel due to increased rolling resistance Patronize a dealer who will recycle your old tires They may charge a few dollars for the service, but the dump will charge you too, and the cost to the environment is much greater at the dump

FIGGY PUDDING

2 cups dry bread crumbs
1 cup flour
2 cups ground dried figs
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 eggs, beaten
milk



Combine first 6 ingredients and mix well. Stir in eggs and enough milk to moisten well. Turn into greased mold and steam on rack for about 2 hours (or pour into double-boiler top and steam over hot water). Steaming may also be done in pressure cooker for about 1 hour at 10 to 15 pounds Serve with hard sauce

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

NORTHEAST: Showers and mild, clearing and warming south and west, rainy and colder New England.

SOUTHEAST: Sunny and hot then heavy rain and cooler coast; cold wave with rain and snow west.

MIDWEST: Sunny and warm then rainy and cool, freezing rain north.

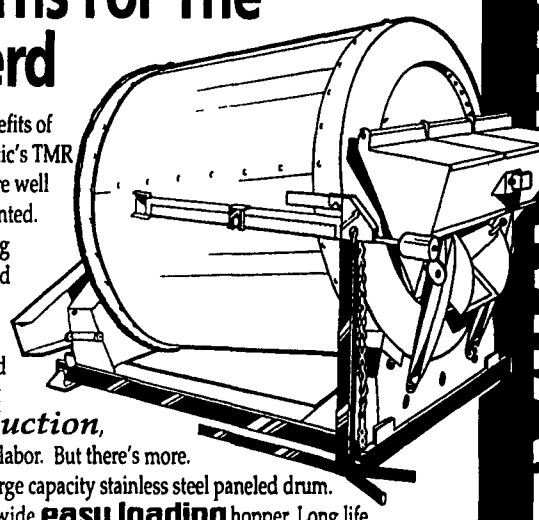
Make A Few Good Turns For The Herd



The benefits of Silo-Matic's TMR Mixer are well documented. Including improved herd health, increased milk production, and less labor. But there's more. Like a large capacity stainless steel paneled drum. Six foot wide easy loading hopper. Long life exterior auger bearings. And a control-flow system for adjusting the discharge rate. There's even a standard beam scale or optional digital scale for ration accuracy. So why wait? Give a few good turns for the herd with a Silo-Matic TMR Mixer.

OPINION

Well-Fed People Faced With Self-Preservation

Our fellow farmers in the Midwest, who have suffered from the floods, now face other blows: the clean-up and the environmentalists.

According to Kyle Vickers, Missouri Agriculture Department, there are at least 450,000 acres of prime farmland in Missouri alone that are covered with sand and silt, reaching depths of eight to ten feet. Owners of least 90,000 acres of worst-hit land will likely never be able to farm again because the cost to remove the sand is greater than the value of the farm.

Restoration of sand and silt-covered farmland can be accomplished by scraping off the sand or by tilling the sand into the soil. Removing the sand is too expensive, and tilling decreases the quality of the soil. The farmers are literally "caught between a rock and a hard place."

But maybe the most discouraging blow to the farmers who have suffered from the flood is that now some environmental groups have come forward to block the return of farming to the rich river bottom land. Initially the Army Corps of Engineers indicated it would pay for 80 percent of the needed repairs to levees that were damaged or destroyed in the floods. But they have already reneged on some of their promises. Many farmers believe this change of attitude toward the farm victims has come because of pressure from environmentalists who want the flood plains in something other than agriculture.

Here's just another report of opponents of agriculture using political and regulatory powers to achieve goals that will destroy agriculture, the foundation of the nation. As we see the food production system in America under attack from so many sides, we can't help ask: "How soon will the grocery shelves in food markets be bare?"

When this starts to happen, the riots in the streets from well-fed people suddenly faced with self-preservation will not be a pretty sight.

NOW IS THE TIME

By John Schwartz
Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Use Old Tires For Bedding

Dairy farmers are continually looking for ways to improve cow comfort and cleanliness, while also reducing bedding requirements and labor demands.

According to Glenn Shirk, extension dairy agent, one way to accomplish this is to use old tires. For a number of years, old tires have been used in freestalls, by partially imbedding them in earth or concrete and covering them with bedding.

The tires keep cows from gouging holes in earthen stall beds and they help retain bedding in the stalls. These two factors contributed to the comfort and cleanliness of cows.

Shirk reports a more recent concept has drawn a lot of interest. This new use of used tires calls for placing a 4- to 6-inch layer of chopped or shredded tire rubber in the base of cow stalls and covering it with a tough nylon-like fabric, which is then covered with a light application of bedding.

The chopped rubber is inert and does not decay, and it provides a soft, resilient cushion for cows.

To Exercise Horses

One of the most common mismanagement practices of today's horse owner is infrequent exercise for pleasure horses.

Horses used for work and transportation receive daily exercise. However, the confined horse is more susceptible to poor health because of lack of activity.

A vigorous workout for about 30 minutes per day is necessary for the confined horse to maintain proper muscle tone and reduce boredom. Boredom often causes wood chewing, cribbing, stall kicking, stall weaving, and pacing.

Once one of these vices is acquired, it is difficult or impossible to break the habit. Make sure your pleasure horse receives your daily attention and exercise.

To Become Better Before Bigger

Many people believe that you must become bigger in order to become profitable.

This is not true. Profitability is determined by controlling costs and receiving the highest price for your product. Size may be a factor, but it is not the only factor.

A recent study by Kansas State University points this out. Economists analyzed data from 91 farrow-to-finish operations in Kansas for the year 1992. This study included farms with 650 litters or less per year.

The greatest profit differences were within herds of the same size than between herds of different sizes. The study then divided the herds into the top third and bottom third based on profit (return over cost).

Some interesting differences are evident. The top third farms weaned 0.7 more pigs per litter and marketed 338 more pounds per litter. Feed costs were $55 lower per cwt of hogs produced, and total costs were $142 less per cwt produced.

Some factors involved are better feed conversion, more hogs marketed per litter, conception rates, and management efficiencies.

This follows a similar observation with laying hens, where there is as much as 5 cent per dozen difference in price received by farmers in one week. This difference is due to the number of cracks and dirty eggs.

These studies point out it is management, not size, that determines profitability. Examine your operation and look for ways to increase productivity, reduce costs, and improve product quality.

There are many excellent people available to help you. Solicit their advice and make the necessary changes to insure you are in the top 10 percent of the farmers for your commodity.

NAFTA: The Issue Is Sovereignty.

The North American Free Trade Agreement isn't about free trade. It will not abolish restrictions on trade in North America, but rather creates 32 appointed international committees, councils, working groups, secretariats, and subcommittees to rule on trade matters previously the sole domain of the elected U.S. Congress. In fact, the Clinton Administration's side agreements would make NAFTA a net inhibitor of trade.

According to U.S. Trade Representative Mickey Kantor's August 17th Wall Street Journal column, NAFTA's side agreement on the environment would lock in forever all existing federal environmental regulations, no matter how expensive or oppressive: "no country in the agreement can lower its environmental standards — — ever."

It certainly says something about the real intention of many NAFTA supporters when they stipulate that regulations can never be eased or abolished.

Despite the fact that the details of financing the U.S.-Mexican Border Commission are not nailed down, U.S. Trade Representative Mickey Kantor announced at a September 15th press conference that the NAFTA side agreements include an outstanding that the United States would supply nearly $8 billion in foreign aid.

I compare NAFTA to President Clinton's budget package, which raised taxes immediately and promised future spending cuts unlikely ever to materialize. NAFTA raises an army of trade-

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

"GOOD GUYS" vs. "BAD GUYS"
October 31, 1993

Background Scripture:
Genesis 25: 19-34
Devotional Reading:
Genesis 25: 19-34

The story of Jacob and Esau is not a story about a "good guy" versus a "bad guy". Neither of them is wholly "good" nor "bad". Both of them are very much like real people we all know.

The difference between them was not moral superiority — the Bible does not indicate that one was more righteous than the other. Although they were twins, there was nothing identical about them. They were simply different in almost every way. They looked different from minute-one. Esau was red and hairy. (His name is a play on both these characteristics — "red" is a play on the word Edom, the nation that Esau would found, and "hairy" is a play on the name Seir, the region of the Edomites.) Jacob, in contrast, was not a hairy man. (His name, Jacob, was a play on the word "heel" or "he supplants" — a reference to the fact that as they were born, Jacob was grasping the heel of Esau and eventually supplanted him.) In the womb, it seemed to Rebekah that these two unborn children were already contending with one another.

Even their vocations typified two very different ways of life. Esau was the macho hunter, "a man of the field," while Jacob "was a quiet man, dwelling in tents" (25:27,28). There is nothing wrong with either vocation or lifestyle; they are simply different — although the Israelites traditionally identified more with the shepherds than the hunters — and the two styles of life sometimes clashed.

DIFFERENT TEMPERAMENTS

Furthermore, Esau and Jacob were different temperamentally. Esau was a man of the flesh; physical things were basic with him, like hunger or thirst. He was not ambitious to get ahead; he lived pretty much day to day. Jacob, by contrast, was a man who lived by his intelligence rather than his physical might. He was crafty and he did plan and scheme ahead. He knew what he wanted and was determined to get it.

There was a difference even in parental favor. This is not a case of the "good" parent against the "bad" parent. Both of them are very much like real parents today. Without planning it that way, Isaac favored Esau and Rebekah favored Jacob. The writer of this story suggests that Esau was like Isaac, while Jacob was more like his mother.

In the passage where Jacob cons Esau out of his birthright, it is again not a case of the "good guy" and the "bad guy". On the one hand, we fault Esau for being so careless and stupid to give up his birthright for the sake of something to eat. He didn't seem to have any sense of value. On the other hand, we can fault Jacob for being so conniving as to take advantage of his brother's stupidity.

VALUE & SIN

That's the way it is with people today. Often, it is not a case of the righteous versus the unrighteous, but that people are different and imperfect. There is value and sin in every life. Even so, God can use each of us to achieve his purpose. Jacob, despite his dishonesty, has the capacity to be the father of the tribes of Israel. And Esau, despite his limitations, will be the father of the Edomites.

In emphasizing their differences, we must not overlook their similarities. They had the same mother and father and they came from the same family. Different as they were, they ultimately had the capacity to recognize their bonds as well as their differences.

So, in our own families there are the same potentials and pitfalls. But God can use and bless all of us — and does.

GRADE YOUR TOBACCO!

PARADISE TOBACCO SALES

DON'T STRIP TOO DAMP!

Paradise Tobacco Auction will be opening the first week of December

Think About Stripping Tobacco early. Possible early market to be the best. Strip on the dry side - best weight with early strip.

We were asked to send 1993 609 tobacco samples to the manufacture processors. Looks like a lot of interest for 1993 - good crop tobacco.

Think twice before signing a contract, you wish you didn't. Think tobacco auction - the best place to sell tobacco.

Order your Kentucky bale box & pay when you deliver or sell your tobacco at Paradise.

Bradford To Hold Groundwater Meeting

TOWANDA (Bradford Co.) — Since we cannot see groundwater, it is one of our most misunderstood natural resources. However, because 87 percent of Bradford County residents depend solely upon groundwater as their sole source of drinking water, it is vital that the general public become familiar with the basics of groundwater.

The public will have an opportunity to become more familiar with the topic of groundwater on Tuesday, November 16 at 7:30 p.m. at the Sheshequin-Ulster Elementary School in Ulster, Pa.

The topics will include groundwater basics, groundwater contamination, and how to properly drill a well.

One of the featured speakers will be Bryan Swistock, Penn State water quality project associate, who will address which contaminants Bradford County residents should be most concerned about.

This public meeting will be presented by the Bradford County Water Quality Task Force.

Brochures and more details can be obtained from psu cooperative extension in Bradford County at (717) 265-2896.

PSU Deer Pens Are Tourist Attraction

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The best place to spot white-tail deer this November might be right on Penn State's University Park Campus.

Along with being a center for study, Penn State's Deer and Duiker Research Facility — known as the Deer Pens — is one of University Park's most popular tourist attractions. Each year thousands of visitors come to see the 22-acre facility, which is home to 145 white-tailed deeer and 18 blue duikers, an endangered species of miniature antelope native to South Africa.

"During the fall, visitor numbers peak as people come to see the large bucks," said Dr. Margaret Brittingham, assistant professor of wildlife resources in the College of Agricultural Sciences. "In late spring, parents bring their children to see the fawns."

To better accommodate visitors and to provide them with educational materials, Brittingham and Dr. William Sharpe, coordinator of forest resources extension, have established an information center called Deer Pens Camp. Located in a one-room building next to the pens, the center is open from May through November. It contains information on the animals and research projects at the facility, along with general information on deer hunting and management.

"This fall, we put up a display that tells where the large bucks, yearling bucks, does, fawns and duikers are located," said Brittingham. "Right now, the center has displays showing how to tell a deer's age from its teeth and jawbones and one demonstrating the difference between antlers and horns. Next spring we're going to provide publications and fact sheets for children."

Deer Pens Camp was established in the fall of 1992 as a project for students in a course on wildlife information and education. As part of the course, the students surveyed visitors to the facility. During 10 weekends that fall, they recorded a total of 6,400 visitors coming from 49 Pennsylvania counties, 10 states, and two countries.

"Sundays after home football games were the most popular visiting days, averaging 340 visitors," said Brittingham. "Most people surveyed said that they came to the pens about four times a year to view, watch and photograph deer."

The Penn State Deer and Duiker Research Facility is located along Fox Hollow Road a mile north of campus, just past the Route 322 bypass. It's managed by the Department of Dairy and Animal Science, and the School of Forest Resources is in charge of public education at the center.

Researchers have used the deer to study the effectiveness of repellents and fencing, to determine how nutrition influences antler growth and to develop health profiles.

The deer also have been used to determine food preferences and to quantify the impact of browsing. The duikers, originally used for ruminant nutrition research, now are kept for visitors to see. Their offspring are donated to zoos.

Pa. Trout Production Valued At $4.48 Million

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania's 39 commercial trout growers sold 1.78 million pounds of trout valued at $4.48 million during the 12 month period ending August 31, 1993, according to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service (PASS).

PASS, a joint operation of the National Agricultural Statistics Service and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, complies data on Pennsylvania food and fiber production as part of a nationwide effort.

Sales of food-size trout (usually 12 inches or longer) by the state's growers totaled 1.42 million pounds, or 80 percent of the total production sold during the period. Averaging $2.40 per pound, the food-size trout were valued at $3.40 million. Fee and recreational sales accounted for 50 percent of the food-size production.

Sales of stocker trout (usually 6 to 12 inches long) by Pennsylvania growers totaled 737 thousand fish, or 357,000 pounds liveweight during the period. At an average of $2.81 a pound, stocker sales were valued at $1 million, with 72 percent of the volume sold to fee and recreational establishments.

The National Agricultural Statistics Service surveyed over 630 commercial trout growers in Pennsylvania and 14 other states: California, Colorado, Georgia, Idaho, Michigan, Missouri, New York, North Carolina, Oregon, Tennessee, Utah, Virginia, Washington and Wisconsin. Information was collected by mail, telephone and personal interview.

For the 15 selected states, all trout sales during the year ended August 31, totaled 58.5 million pounds valued at $62.8 million. Food-size trout sales accounted for 93 percent of the pounds sold with 63 percent of that amount purchased by processors.

Sanner Farm Switches To No-Till, Intensive Grazing Finds Savings

GAY N. BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

ROCKWOOD (Somerset Co.) — Lynn and Debbie Sanner have been farming for 17 of their 21 years of marriage.

Because they used available resources to their advantage, their Holstein dairy herd has grown to 95 head, including dry cows.

Heifers number 110. They started with 20.

Herd production is now 21,200 pounds of milk, compared to 13,000 pounds in the early days.

Fat percentage is now 3.6 and protein stays around 3.2 or 3.3 percent.

In 1992, Sanner, whose brother Keith shares the farming responsibilities, switched to the intensive grazing method and said recently that he is well-pleased with the results.

"Everything is going real well as far as herd health," he said.

Sanner said he enjoys learning ways to improve his operation and saving time and money in the process.

"The benefits I've seen are the savings in feed," he said. "We always put our cows out in the summer. When the cows start dropping in production, I start feeding the stored feed." He uses total mix ration.

When Lynn and Debbie took over the farm, around 1976, Sanner had made the choice to quit college after attending the West Virginia University at Morgantown for two years. Nobody else in the family wanted to run it, even though Sanner and his brothers were the fourth generation on the farm.

Lynn said his dad was into the coal business and the farming end was hanging on by a mere thread with Sanner's mother and brother keeping it going.

It was a gutsy move for the young couple who lived a mile away from the barn and had to drag the babies along at milking time. With them came the playpen, then the walker, which they tied fast with just enough leash to allow a satisfying mobility for the toddler.

Debbie did the feeding and Sanner's mother continued to help them.

Memories of those early days are vivid for Debbie. "When we took over," she said, "there were no silos, they didn't soil test or spray. There were only the basics.

"We baled 20,000 bales of hay each year," then, grinning she added, "Lynn's grandfather taught me to unload a wagon real fast."

Today the Sanners put away just 2,000 small bales.

Together they worked hard. As the operation grew, and milk production increased, silos were added. There are now three of varying sizes for haylage, high-moisture corn and corn silage. No-till farming was begun 10 years ago.

The biggest silo was installed in 1989 for haylage. Its size is 25 by 80 feet. A 20-by 80-foot concrete silo was built around 1984.

The first silo, for high-moisture shell corn, was erected in 1979. It's 20 by 55 feet.

Sanner said he wouldn't go back to plowing, but said that no-till is not a complete panacea: "You still have to pick rocks."

Herd health is as much a concern as with any dairying.

Sanner credits much of his success to a close association with Bob Brown, the county agent. "I use Bob Brown... and A.J. Walker, two people who have the knowledge," he said. Walker operates a local farm service business.

Sanner said that through the years he has continued to educate himself by reading a lot, but a home computer is also a valuable tool in the operation's record-keeping.

"They sure are fascinating," he said. He added a computer in 1983 and said it greatly helped manage the farm.

Five years ago, their new house was built near the barn. And because she would rather work outdoors than inside, Debbie has planted big, beautiful flower beds all around the well-kept lawns.

Their house faces, across the lawns and driveways, the solid stone house of Sanner's parents, built in 1811. Recorded as one of the oldest in Somerset Co., the landmark house was constructed, it is said, by a Peter Bradford, whose own nearby log house was consumed by fire. Bradford, according to rumor, determined that his next house would not be easily destroyed.

Sanner and Debbie said they look with satisfaction upon their accomplishments. "It's all come from the cows," they said.

But their conversation reveals their desire to be as self-sufficient as possible in every way. They do much of their own butchering with Sanner curing and smoking hams from several hogs they raise. Home-grown produce from Debbie's vegetable garden is also preserved for the family.

A sawmill beyond the roadway appeared well used. Sanner said it belongs with the farm and is used for cutting wood from their own stand of timber when necessary. Of 500 acres, 275 are actually farmed. The remainder is woodlands.

In fact, Sanner said it was the farm's timber that supplied the lumber for both his and his brother's house. All of it was sawed on site.

Sanner said he plants 120 acres in corn, 90 in alfalfa and the remaining land in other grains and hay.

"My dad helps when he's around," said Sanner. "You really look forward to having him around because he's an extra hand."

Debbie, who also operates a beauty shop, doesn't usually help on the farm anymore unless there's an emergency.

As it now stands, the four Sanner daughters — Amy, 20, Christy, 18, April, 16 and Darci, grade 7 — aren't showing the least interest in entering ag-related work. But they are sports nuts who participate in basketball, volleyball, track and others.

Amy attends the University of Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh. Christy attends Shippensburg State College. April and Darci are students in the Rockwood school district.

These Holsteins line the fence of their pasture to observe a group of people walking a pasture to observe the cow operation.

NDB Gives Kids Dental Tips

ARLINGTON, Va. — Snacking is a favorite pastime for everyone, especially kids. Knowing that, the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board developed a packet of materials with snack recipes that include dairy foods.

Many kids come home to an empty house after school, and even those that have a parent at home in the afternoon like to show their independence. So the recipes found in "Power Packed Dairy Snacks" are simple enough for kids to make with some supervision.

Along with the recipe leaflet, a brochure titled "Snacking and Your Child's Dental Health" was part of the packet of materials distributed to 740 supermarket chains for dairy merchandisers and consumer affairs specialists to order for distribution to their shoppers. The National Dairy Board joined the American Academy of Pediatric Dentistry (AAPD) to develop that brochure.

"Snacking and Your Child's Dental Health" discusses the causes of tooth decay and ways to prevent it as well as the benefits of choosing nutritious snacks, including chocolate milk. This brochure also supports the chocolate milk promotion being conducted this fall.

Each year, the National Dairy Board distributes two supermarket kits with free dairy information materials tailored to a certain subject. The "Power Packed Dairy Snacks" kit, also included offers for a cooking demonstration videotape, recipe card with two children-friendly recipes, food recipe and photo to use in other printed materials like a store circular and background information about snacking and nutrition. Supermarket personnel can order unlimited quantities to use in providing information to their customers.

"Because we (dairy farmers) care about kids' health and kids are current and future consumers, they remain an important market target," said Maynard Lang, Iowa dairy farmer and chair of the National Dairy Board's Public Relations Committee.

"Since the kits were mailed out in late August, we have filled orders for more than 800,000 recipe and dental brochures," Lang said. "That confirms consumer demand for information about and ways to use dairy foods, and that can lead to increased sales for America's dairy farmers."

MILK AMERICA'S HEALTH KICK

Wisconsin Cow National Grand Guernsey

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — Dairy enthusiasts from around the world gathered in Madison, Wisconsin, on Sept. 29, to see who Judge Ray Kuehl of Waunakee, Wisconsin, would pick as his grand champion of the National Guernsey Show. As the suspension mounted, Judge Kuehl made his final decision and made Westlynn Tom Dee his grand champion of the open show.

"Tom Dee", a 4-year-old Westlynn Emory Tom daughter, is owned by Mark Rueth, Randy Kortus and Clark and Joy Vilter of Jefferson, Wisconsin. Besides being named grand champion, "Tom Dee" was awarded with senior champion and best uddered cow honors. The reserve grand champion title went to the aged cow, Wincrest Fayette Cocheta, an 88 point Fayette daughter owned by Robert Ludy Griggs of Seminole, Oklahoma.

The prestigious total performance cow award went to Wincrest Vayette Grace, the 4-year-old owned by John and Bonnie Ayars and Ken Winters of Mechanicsburg, Ohio. This award is presented to the cow earning the most points based on production, placing in the show, yield deviation, appraisal score, and bonus points if the animal is bred by the owner. "Grace", who was scored Excellent-91 at show time and is now Excellent-95, has production records to 27,900M* 4.5% 1,245F* 3.2% 905P* at 2-03 in 365 days. She was bred by Ken Winters of Mabton, Washington.

Four Winds Farm received awards for the best three females and exhibitor's herd. Rankin Farms of Atlanta, Illinois, won the premier breeder title. Mark Erdman and Robert Griggs of Chenoa, Illinois, received the premier exhibitor banner. 21st Century Genetics won the premier sire award for Dutch Mill Telestars Fayette. The state herd title was won by the Guernsey breeders of Wisconsin.

Sebaugh Fayette Ginger, an Excellent-92 aged cow owned by Jennifer Lynn Mithoefer of Silver Lake, Indiana, was awarded with grand champion and senior champion honors of the national junior show. Reserve grand champion and reserve senior champion awards went to Guernsey Grove F Babe, a 90 point aged cow owned by James Kern of Wadena, Minnesota.

A Wampanoag Fayette Smokey daughter purchased through an American Guernsey Association sponsored Guernsey Gold Heifer Sale received junior champion awards. GR-Lantz Farm Kanterbury is a senior heifer calf owned by Matthew Huset of Ridgeland, Wisconsin. Marlee Bionic Rosie, a senior yearling heifer owned by Kenlee Calvin of Mount Vernon, Missouri, was named reserve junior champion.

The juniors who participated in this show on Sept. 29, were easily recognizable to the crowd of foreign and domestic dairy enthusiasts gathered in the show coliseum. All junior exhibitors were ıred in gold sweatshirts with a Guernsey cow emblem on the front. These sweatshirts were sponsored by many loyal individuals and businesses throughout the dairy industry.

The American Guernsey Association is the national organization for the registration and promotion of Guernsey cattle and is headquartered in Reynoldsburg, Ohio.

UDIA Develops Cooperative Promotion Strategies

ROSEMONT, Ill. — The United Dairy Industry Association (UDIA) has resolved to leverage dairy producer promotion dollars more efficiently and effectively by strengthening key partnerships in 1994.

At UDIA's annual meeting in St. Louis Sept. 16-17, chairman Herman Brubaker cited several significant developments in this area, including:

• A joint business plan developed by UDIA and the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board (NDB) for implementation in 1995.

• A coordinated fluid milk advertising plan, characterized by a national media buy jointly funded by the two dairy promotion organizations and the selection of a single advertising agency for fluid milk.

These actions help exemplify the meaning of the annula meeting theme, "Leadership through Partnership: The Power of Grassroots Promotion," said Brubaker, a dairyman from West Alexandria, Ohio.

Both UDIA and NDB are "making changes - giving up a little 'control' in exchange for doing the right thing for milk," Brubaker said. "Who can argue with the idea of a strategic thrust guided by a single agency and directed on behalf of both the nickel and the dime?" he asied, referring to the division of dairy checkoff dollars between NDB and the UDIA federation of state and regional promotion groups.

Brubaker reported that UDIA and NDB are also making progress in jointly planning advertising and promotion efforts for cheese and butter.

A joint business plan developed for 1995 will go even further to incorporate the principles of partnership in the areas of nutrition education and communications, he explained.

In the meantime, UDIA and NDB are working together on projects like building participation in the federal government's school breakfast program, Brubaker stressed. As a result of that partnership, nearly 1.4 million more students are participating in school breakfast, resulting in as much as 125 million additional pounds of milk sold each year.

In addressing the future of partnership with NDB, Brubaker said, "Our limited resources won't allow for separate schemes, redundant programs and similar strategies... The days of division are over. They represent past mistakes, not future change."

The commitment to partnership was further emphasized by Thomas Gallagher, chief executive officer of UDIA, who reminded delegates that between June 1992 and December 1993, NDB will have provided more than $1.7 million to jointly fund programs administewred by National Dairy Council.

"NDB brings over $14 million to the table to enhance programs jointly planned with the American Dairy Association in fluid milk, cheese, ice cream and butter promotions, and trade communications," Gallagher said.

Gallagher cited strong UDIA partnerships with other important food industry players, including: Beef Industry Council, Nabisco, Hershey, Wonder Bread (Continental Baking), and restaurant chains like Arby's and Subway.

In the areas of diet, health and nutrition, Gallagher pointed to partnerships with NDB and the National Milk Producers Federation, as well as with numerous decision makers in the scientific, educational, governmental and health professional areas.

These partnerships are essential in working within an environment marked by "tighter money, more product attacks and more competition" by competing beverages in the marketplace, Gallagher said.

Gallagher explained how promotion dollars are being used to combat flat or decreased per capita consumption of dairy products. He pointed out that dairy promotion operates with only $168 million (dollars adjusted for inflation) now, compared to $203 million in 1984.

Despite the decline in available dollars, Gallagher said, producer demand for services continues to rise. This can be attributed in part to the increased activity of advocacy groups and high levels of advertising and competing beverage companies (nearly $500 million spent on soda and almost $230 million spent on juices each year), he explained.

In addressing UDIA's response to this situation, Gallgaher identified three major UDIA priorities for 1994 and beyond:

1. Take a "zero-based approach" to program planning and funding, meaning the willingness to change existing programs in order to meet agreed-upon objectives and stategies for successful promotion.

2. Improve promotion by working better with other groups, such as NDB.

3. Continue working to publicize the facts about dairy products as they relate to diet, health and nutrition.

"The organizations that have a plan to meet the challenges presented by these facts can create their future from strength. UDIA will be one of those organizations," Gallagher said.

United Dairy Industry Association is a member-driven federation which conducts a total promotion program for U.S.-produced milk and other real dairy foods.

Dairy Board Promotes Chocolate Milk

ARLINGTON, Va. — To help boost fluid milk sales, the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board is conducting a chocolate milk promotion this fall. Advertising began airing across most of the country on Sept. 27.

Supported by a 15-second commercial, the promotion positions chocolate milk as a snack, an eating occasion typically low for white milk consumption.

The goal of the promotion is to increase total fluid milk sales, so the campaign promotes all chocolate milk, whether ready-to-serve chocolate milk or white milk for mixing.

After the promotion, the National Dairy Board is to compare the impact on fluid sales of three advertising and promotion methods conducted during the seven-week campaign. In one set of markets, the National Dairy Board airs only white milk advertising on TV.

In another set of markets, white and chocolate milk advertising airs. In the third set of markets, white and chocolate milk advertising airs in addition to promotional activities for chocolate milk.

Each method will be evaluated based on the increase of total fluid milk sales in its respective markets. The board will also measure retail sales of chocolate syrups and powders in the various markets since many people mix their own chocolate milk at home rather than buy ready-to-serve chocolate milk.

The promotion and advertising will target kids, ages 6-11, and teens, ages 12-17.

Building on the chocolate milk promotion held last year, the National Dairy Board joined up with the American Academy of Pediatric Dentistry (AAPD). Dentists — members of the Academy —, reviewed research (some of it funded by America's dairy farmers via the checkoff) about chocolate milk and its effects on diet, health and teeth. From that research, the dentists determined chocolate milk is a preferred snack.

To help support this fall's chocolate milk campaign, the National Dairy Board developed a brochure titled "Snacking and Your Child's Dental Health," with the AAPD. It was distributed to 740 supermarket chains for dairy merchandisers and consumers affairs specialists to order for distribution to their shoppers. Over 300,000 copies have been ordered to date.

For a free copy of the brochure, write to: National Dairy Board, "Snacking and Dental Health," 2111 Wilson Blvd., Ste. 600, Arlington, VA 22201.

Students Can Show An Animal, Raise Money For Tuition

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Any student who is going to college or who plans to enroll in a trade school, technical school, junior or community college, or school of nursing can qualify for one of six $1,000 scholarships to be presented at the 1994 Pennsylvania Farm Show.

The Pennsylvania Farm Show Scholarship Foundation unveiled the details of the new college scholarship program during the recent Keystone International Livestock Exposition in Harrisburg.

Any FFA'er or 4-H'er is eligible for the scholarship. The scholarship concept was created at the Farm Show Sale last January when Mark Simmon of Lebanon 4-H, after accepting only $5,000 of the original $15,100 bid, donated the remaining $10,100 to a new endowment fund to provide scholarships to agriculture students.

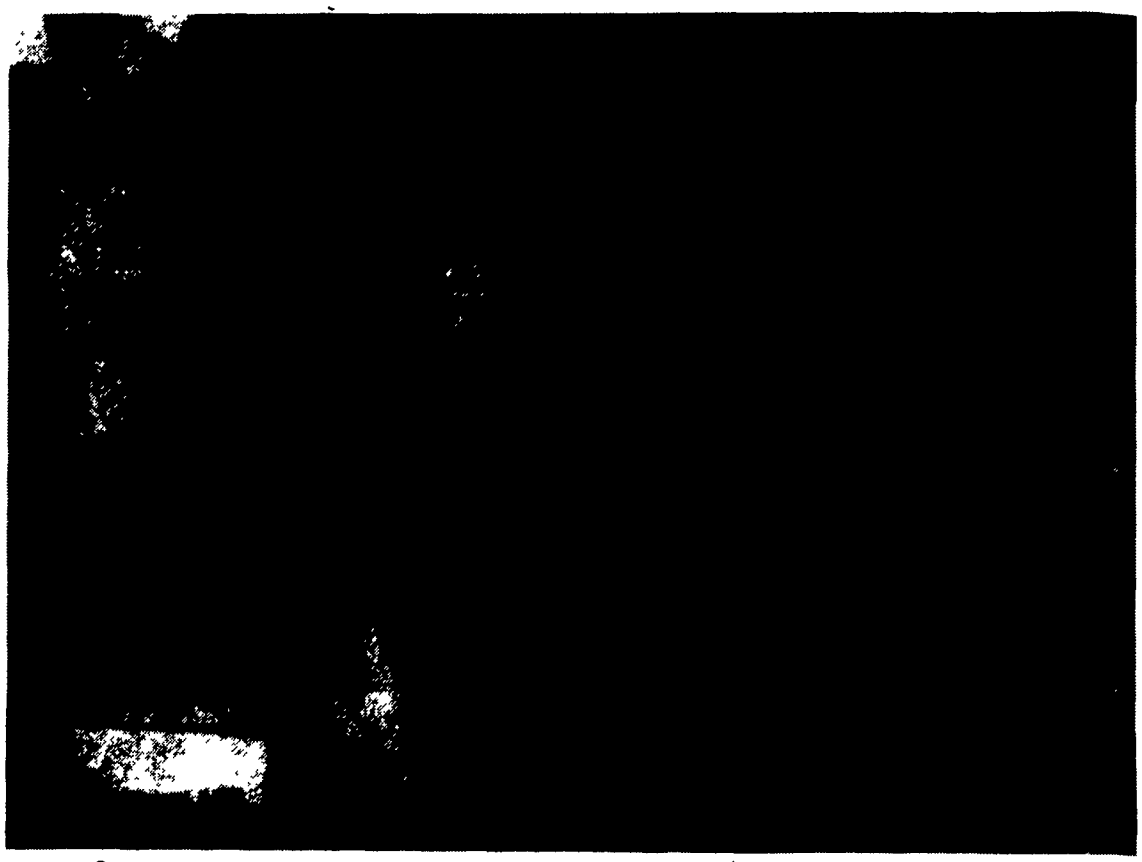
To be eligible, a student must have exhibited at the 1993 Pennsylvania Farm Show Junior Market Livestock Show, and must be enrolled in a post-secondary educational institution. If they exhibited prior to 1993, they are not eligible. If they exhibited junior breeding livestock and not junior market animals, they are not eligible, according to the scholarship guidelines.

Half of the awards will go to students studying agriculture, but half may be in any field of study. The scholarship committee has chosen to reimburse students for tuition already paid rather than send the award through the institution's financial aid offices.

According to the guidelines, six awards of $1,000 each will be given at the beginning of the sale of champions at the 1994 Pennsylvania Farm Show, to be held January 8-13. Sale date is Thursday, January 13, at 10 a.m.

Buyers of livestock at the Junior Market Livestock Sale will be encouraged to donate back the market value of the animals they buy to the scholarship fund. The committee is actively involved in getting more businesses involved in the junior sale. A portion over a set amount of high-selling animals will be deducted for the scholarship fund. Also, 4 percent of the sale price of all animals will be used to support the scholarship fund.

Seventy-five percent of the sale price over the following prices will be deducted and used for scholarships: market steers, $12,000 for grand and $4,000 for other champions; market swine, $5,000 for grand and $3,000 for other champions; and market lambs, $2,000 for grand and $1,200 for other champions. The prices were arrived at by average sale price for the sale of champions during the last five years at the junior livestock sale. Highs and lows were exempted from this average.



Students can qualify for one of six $1,000 scholarships if they exhibit at the Pennsylvania Farm Show Junior Market Livestock Show. At the 1993 Farm Show, Mark Simmon, holding the banner to his grand champion market swine, helped start the scholarship foundation fund by giving $10,100, from a syndicate of buyers, from the proceeds of the sale to the fund. From left, Robert Kilgore, manager of a Paso Fino horse farm owned by buyer Glatfelter Agri-business Insurance of York, and Glatfelter representative Tony Dobrosky; Butch Clemmens, president of Hatfield Quality Meats; Bill Campbell, chief executive officer, Hoss's Steak and Sea House; and Boyd Wolff, state secretary of agriculture.

Students who have sold junior livestock animals at the Pennsylvania Farm Show since 1993 may obtain scholarship applications by calling Ken Winebark at (717) 270-4391. Application deadline is November 12. For information on how to apply, contact the local cooperative extension office or local FFA adviser.

Quality 5-Year-Old Takes New Holland Dairy Championship

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — A large 5-year-old Holstein from a Roybrook Tempo sire, which would look "good in any state show you'd want to put her in" according to the judge, was chosen grand champion cow at the New Holland Sales Stables Annual Dairy Show and Sale Wednesday afternoon.

Paul King, Moorefield, W.Va., chose Lydor Tempo Jackie, a cow exhibited by Harold and Donald Welk of Stonehurst Farm, Strasburg, champion of the show. King told the exhibitors and buyers at the start of the sale that the "gal is a big cow" with a lot of show quality. The grand champion was purchased by Harold Fraley, Muncy, for $3,450. Fraley said the cow was purchased for a farm in Quarryville.

Reserve champion, a 4-year-old Holstein, was exhibited by Jacob Kramer, Mechanicsburg, and Charles Myers, Lancaster. The cow sold to Marvin Miller, Strasburg, for $3,700.

The grand champion's records included, three years, 13,620 pounds of milk, 541f, 450p and five-year records of 15,260 pounds of milk, 648f, 525p. Dam was Lydor Triple Justene, VG-85, V+EV at five-year record of 19,890 pounds milk, 740f, and 674p. The champion won best udder dry cow.

Show champion Harold Welk attributes the championship to pedigree and feed.

Reserve champion cow was C Bernhaven Haywood Lola, a 4-year-old from a Shaver Farm Haywood-Red sire and Carvale Hurricane Lulu dam. She was selected best udder milking cow.

Of all the classes, top selling animal came from the 2-year-old dry heifer class, Walkerville Roxy Conquest, which sold for $3,850, exhibited by Stonehurst Farm.

In the mixed breed dry cow class, Danny Albright sold his first place cow for $2,550. Stonehurst Farm sold the second place animal for $1,575. Third place shown by Leroy Baker was sold for $1,325.

In the 2-year-old fresh heifer class, Jay McCoy sold the first place animal for $3,500. Second, shown by Leroy Smucker, sold for Companion Hybrids. For A Better Shot At A Bigger Yield.

Spread your risk and avoid a hurry-up harvest with this team of top-yielding corn hybrids from DEKALB.

9=Poor, 1=Excellent

DK [illegible]

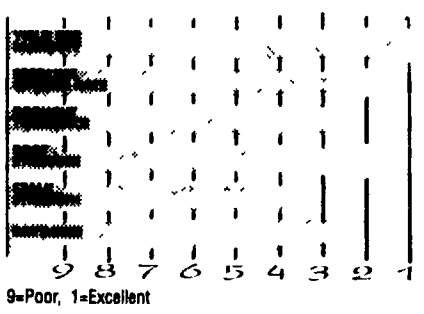
Key traits: Good seedling growth. Very good plant health. Excellent root strength.

Management tips: Adapted to a wide range of soil types and tillage practices. Responds to higher populations. Very early hybrid for mid-Atlantic growers, with yield and health required to take advantage of early corn premiums. Excellent full-season grain hybrid for northern growers with very good silage characteristics.



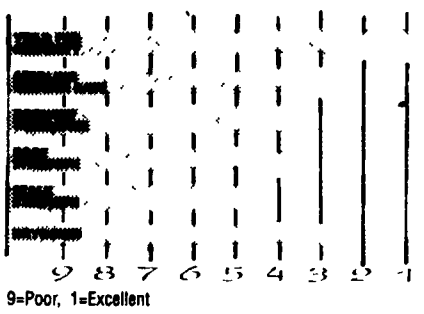
9=Poor, 1=Excellent

DK 623 "H"

Our 111-day yield leader. Produces big yields under a wide range of environmental conditions.

Key traits: Good stalk quality and excellent root strength. Very good stress tolerance. Good early stand establishment and seedling vigor. Medium tall plant with medium ear placement. Medium shank and husk cover. Girthy ear with very good test weight and grain quality. Tied for 1st Place in the 1992 New Jersey NCGA Yield Contest (Class A Non-Irrigated) for Rustin Farms of Trenton with 219.84 bpa.

Management tips: Widely adapted. Excellent top end yield potential under irrigated and favorable conditions. Relatively small seed size. Very good resistance to Southern Corn Leaf Blight. Average 1st and good 2nd generation resistance to corn borer.



9=Poor, 1=Excellent

DK 646 "H-D-V" RR

Top yielding 114-day hybrid.

Key traits:
Contest winning yields. Fast seedling growth rate. Very good plant health. Tall hybrid with medium ear placement. Large ear, excellent ear flex — length and girth. Shows yield well. Excellent ear retention. Took 1st Place in the 1992 New Jersey NCGA Yield Contest for Rustin Farms of Trenton with 209.07 bpa (Class A, Non-Irrigated), and for Richard Tindall of Trenton with 198.02 bpa (Ridge-Rill, Non-Irrigated).

Management tips: Adapted to varied soil types and weather conditions, but highest yields come from better soils at moderate plant populations. Adapted to bean and corn ground. Massive plant — excellent silage choice for tonnage, protein & digestibility

Lebanon Holstein Club Honors Youth

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

SCHAEFFERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — About 170 people attended the Lebanon County Holstein Club's annual meeting Thursday evening at the Schaefferstown Fire Hall.

In addition to holding its annual banquet, the group presented a number of youth production awards, reviewed past business and elected three directors.

All the youth production awards were based on 305-day lactation production.

Stephanie Wagner's Ju-Vindale Melvin Valid swept the 2-year-old production class with a record of 24,637 pounds of milk, 850 pounds of fat, and 776 pounds of protein.

Among the youth with 3-year-old registered Holstein cows, Ryan Miller's Lime-Rock Kirk Boy Cupcake was top producer for milk with 26,216 pounds. Christopher Wagner's Ju-Vindale Beautician Dove-ET posted the best fat production record with 1,006 pounds. Amanda Martin's Dlb-Lee-Dee Dixiecrat Angel recorded the highest protein production with 820 pounds.

In the 4-year-old class, Darren Nolt's Stumpland Melvin Ladonna made 28,476 pounds of milk, and 936 pounds of protein. Stephanie Wagner's Ju-Vindale Beautician Bev was tops for fat production with 1,105 pounds.

In the 5-year-old class, Justin Troutman's Oakenbound Chief Frost produced the most milk, recording 31,402 pounds of milk, while Christopher Wagner's 5-year-old was first place for fat production with 1,116 pounds, and protein with 894 pounds.

In the election of three directors, Jim Hill, Dan Brandt and Curwin Good were named to replace outgoing president Mike Arnold, Jay Weaver, treasurer, and Eugene Martin, who served as reporter.

Alan Hostetter, who has served for the past six years as the club's state director, announced that his term limit has expired and that the experience he had, representing the county at the state level, was both rewarding and educational.

According to Hostetter, the state association is seeking sponsors for portions of the February state convention, set to be held in Gettysburg.

Additionally, the association is seeking consignments for the annual convention sale.

In other business, the club makes available an annual scholarship of $500 and this year's winner was Michelle Mase, daughter of Kenneth and Irene Mase. She was unable to attend the club meeting, because she is currently a student at Penn State University in State College.

In other news, Clarence Stauffer, field representative for the Pa. Holstein Association, reminded members of the association's search for bred heifers for a shipment to Saudi Arabia, but even more imminent is a small sale of short-bred heifers to Bolivia.

According to Stauffer, he is looking now for heifers whose pedigree and index is such that the sire and service sire have at least a PTAM of +1,000 pounds milk, that the heifer's dam be classified at minimum a Good Plus-83, with a Good Plus mammary, and have a minimum production of 17,000 pounds of milk with a 3.4 percent fat.

The heifers must also have been bred between July 15, 1993 and Oct. 15. Acknowledging that a confirmed pregnancy may be too early as of now, Stauffer said not to worry, but to submit the bred heifer for consideration. If she is confirmed pregnant later, she will still be eligible.

Stauffer said that any actual movement of those heifers is not required prior to the Bolivian buyers accepting the animals. He said he needs the papers for the animals, but the deadline is Nov. 10.

Anyone with a heifer that may fit the requirements should call Stauffer at (717) 738-2406.

In his talk to the group, Stauffer also urged members to talk to neighbors who may be eligible for getting their animals into the Qualified Herd Book. The qualified book is a way to eventually have the offspring of a grade cow become registered.

In the United States, it takes a minimum of four generations for a line to achieve registered status. However, Stauffer told the group that Canadian Holstein breeders accept into its registered book, first generation qualified animals, which accounts for why sometimes a registered Canadian animal is not recognized in the United States as registered, though it may qualify or be considered an identified grade animal.

Overall, as of Oct. 16, state registrations have been down by 5 percent over last year, Stauffer said. He reported that, as of October, for the year, 8,293 animals were entered into the association's qualified book.

Hayden Speaks To New York Grange

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. — The quality of education in New York's rural school districts is below that of districts in more urban areas, a member of the New York State Board of Regents said.

Carl T. Hayden, speaking to more than 200 members of the New York State Grange gathered here for their 121st annual meeting, said a commitment to a more astute use of technology might help bridge the gap.

"Kids in rural areas are being shortchanged when it comes to education," said Hayden, an Elmira attorney who attended high school in the tiny Marathon Central School district. "Rural schools need to make a mighty noise as to the entitlement to available technology. We need to get our schools wired."

Hayden added that it's no longer enough for students to focus only on the basics. "It's not sufficient for our children to know what we know if we expect them to compete," Hayden said. "We'd be dooming them to a second-class citizenship."

Hayden is one of several speakers who addressed Grangers during the four-day convention. Richard McGuire, state commissioner of agriculture and markets, also visited.

State Grange Master William Benson, Jr. opened festivities during a Friday evening banquet attended by more than 300 people. Benson outlined a number of problems now facing New York State. He was particularly critical of the National Rifle Association and its opposition to any form of gun control.

"If the NRA is the patriotic, flag-waving, all-American institution it proclaims to be, isn't it time for its leadership to start considering our families and friends instead of its own self-centered interests? The rights of the American citizen to bear arms can be protected without being ridiculous."

Nearly 200 convention delegates will have considered some 130 policy resolutions by the conclusion of business.

Expansion Strategies Dairies Conference Set

ITHACA, N.Y. — Dairy farmers, extension staff, agricultural lenders, builders, equipment dealers, and veterinarians are invited to an important regional conference, "Expansion Strategies for Dairy Farms: Facilities and Financial Planning," to be held on November 18 and 19 in Mercer, Pa. The conference is being planned by faculty at Penn State and Ohio State Universities, with assistance from the Northeast Regional Agricultural Engineering Service (NRAES).

"Many farmers are at a crossroads," said Bob Graves, professor in the Department of Agricultural and Biological Engineering at Penn State. "They're having to decide whether to make major changes to their facilities to stay competitive and modern into the 21st century. This conference gives them a chance to review their options."

Dairy farmers must consider the long-term effects expansion will have on their finances, the health and productivity of their cows, the efficiency and comfort of their workers, and the surrounding environment. "Expansion Strategies for Dairy Farms" will bring together experts on these issues and more so that dairy farmers and others involved in the expansion process will be better able to make sound decisions. Presentations will focus on incremental expansion as a strategy to ensure the debt load is reasonable when compared to anticipated cash flow.

Everyone involved in the expansion process will benefit from this educational experience. Dairy farmers and managers considering dairy farm expansion will learn about the many facets of planning and executing a successful expansion — from financing to manure management plans. Extension agents, facilities planners, engineers, builders, and equipment suppliers will learn up-to-date techniques for selecting freestall floor plans, ventilation systems, milking center designs, and materials. Financial and management advisors and veterinarians will improve their ability to evaluate proposed dairy facilities.

The conference will begin with a series of case studies. Several dairy farmers will detail the pros and cons of their experiences with expansion. The remainder of the conference will consist of short, 25-minute minipresentations from specialists in dairy facilities, agricultural lending, facilities planning, manure handling, and construction. Informal discussion periods will be interspersed with the presentations to allow participants time to talk with speakers and each other about specific concerns and issues.

The conference will be held at the Mercer County Extension Office in Mercer.

Registration fee for the conference is $90 if received by November 8 and $110 after November 8 or for walk-ins. The fee includes admission to the conference, two lunches, break refreshments, and a notebook of information related to dairy expansions. For a brochure containing a complete conference agenda, a map to the conference, and a registration form, contact NRAES, Cooperative Extension, 152 Riley-Robb Hall, Ithaca NY 14853-5701, or call (607) 255-7654.

Wurster said if the members don't support the youth of the county, "we're not going to have a dairy industry in the future."

Also at the meeting, the activities and plans of the association were presented in the coming months.

In the treasurer's report by Dick Hostetter, as of October 20, 1992, there was a balance of $1,471.79. Expenses for the year included $7,358.41 with an income of $7,192.14. Pending balance is $1,619.33.

The profit of the 1992 cheese sale was $1,010.

Other business reviewed at the meeting includes the Saudi Arabia shipments, plans for the upcoming cheese sale, membership overview, and the election of directors to a three-year term. Those elected to the board of directors include Duane Hershey, Arden Landis, Jim Miller, and John St. John.

Also, the association awarded the following:

- Mature cow, high protein, awarded to Duane and Marilyn Hershey, Cochranville, for AR-Joy Secret Avis, 4-02, 305d, 35,742 pounds, 3.3%, 1,193p.
- First lactation, high protein, to Arden Landis, Christiana, for Rothrock Secret Gillen-ET, 2-09, 305d, 26,727 pounds, 3.5%, 934p.
- High BAA, to Galen C. Martin, Honey Brook. BAA was 107.9.
- High lifetime production to Herman and Victor Stoltzfus, Cochranville, for Herbeth Emily Marvex Wayne, 265,869 pounds of milk.

Youth awards included:

- Outstanding Dairy Student, Owen J. Roberts FFA, to Theresa Inhof, Spring City. She serves as chapter president.
- Outstanding FFA, Brian Nolan, Cochranville. He is vice president of the Octorara FFA.
- Outstanding FFA, Jeff Reyburn, Oxford, vice president of Oxford FFA.
- First-year 4-H, Kasey A. St. John, Lincoln University.
- 4-H Holstein Project, Krystal St. John, Lincoln University.

About 100 members were present at the meeting.

Outstanding FFA award went Brian Nolan, Cochranville. He is vice president of the Octorara FFA.

Dutch Country Calf Sale Provides Forum For Youth

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — A purebred Angus calf sold for $750 to top last Saturday's sixth annual Dutch County Calf Sale and Show, held at the Lebanon Area Fairgrounds.

The annual sale is sponsored by the Berks/Southeast Cattlemen's Association, in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association and is held as a way to make steer and heifer calves available to raise as 4-H or FFA project animals or otherwise to show, or to add to a breeding program.

Also held in conjunction with the sale and show is an instructional evening, held the night before the sale, for youth intending to purchase and/or raise a beef cattle calf for a 4-H or FFA project.

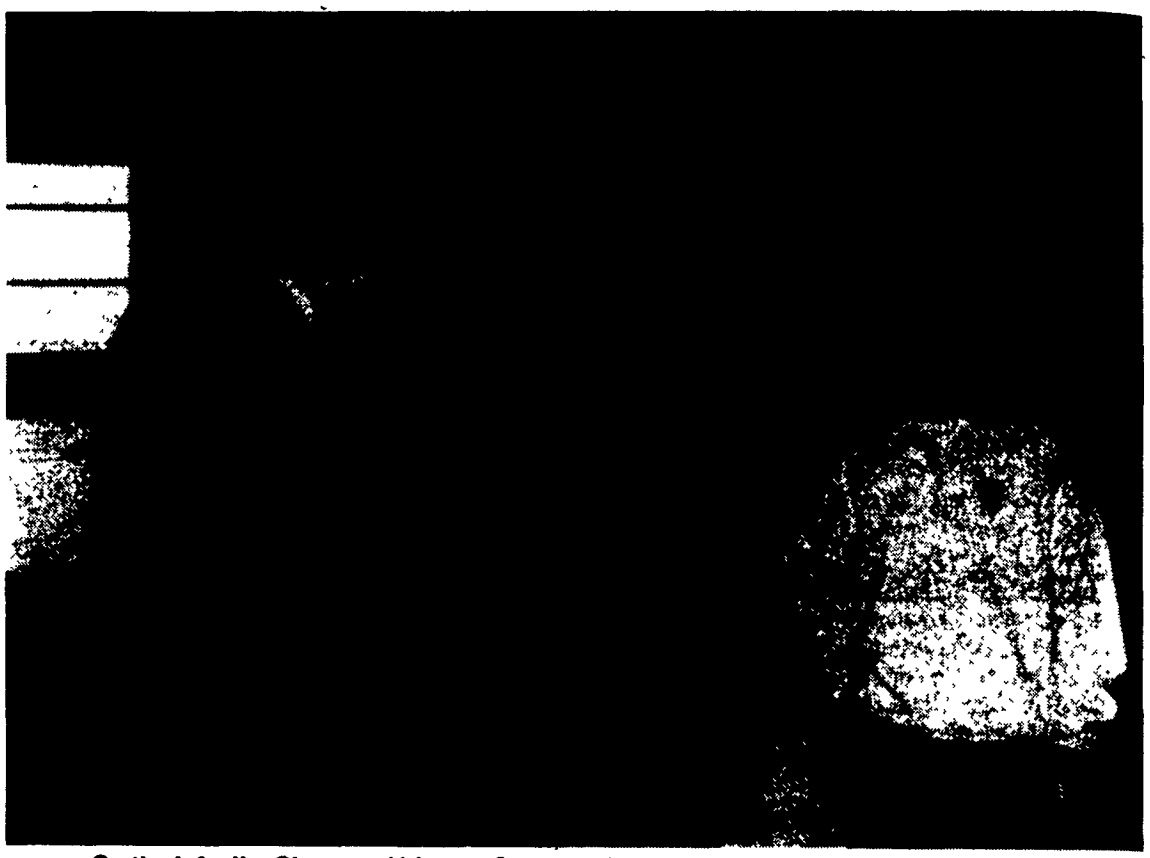
During the instructional evening, Rebecca Sonnen, a former county 4-H club member who now works for the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Agency, presented a motivational and instructional talk on career opportunities in agriculture.

Practical demonstrations and talks came from Dr. Lynn Sammons, a Myerstown-based large animal veterinarian who discussed feeder calf health care, and Elene Hitz, who demonstrated techniques for grooming and fitting cattle for show.

According to Sheila Miller, representative of the Southeastern Pa./Berks County Cattlemen's Association, the Dutch Country Calf Sale was designed to be more of a genetic sale, more of a club calf sale, which has been growing in popularity and success.

"We had kids from as far away as Northampton and Centre counties and a lot of interest in the pre-sale youth conference," she said.

Rebecca Sonnen, with Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Agency, talks to a group of 4-Hers about career planning and opportunities in agriculture.



On the left, Jim Simo, and his son Cory, on the right, stand with the purebred Angus calf they bought at the Dutch County Calf Sale which brought the highest-price paid, and C.J. Haffner, who holds the halter.

During the sale, which offers all animals for sale on a per-head basis, instead of a per-pound basis, a total of $12,595 was raised on 21 head offered, for a sale average of $599.76.

The top selling calf was a purebred Angus calf consigned by Salunga Acres, of Mt. Joy, and purchased by Jim Simo, of Lancaster, for son Cory, 13, who is a member of the Lancaster County 4-H and an eighth-grade student in the Conestoga Valley School District.

Two calves tied for second-highest selling, bringing $675 each: a purebred Polled Hereford also consigned by Salunga Acres, and a purebred Angus consigned by Lester Schwartz, of West Winds Farm, in Kimberton.

There were two calves which tied for the lowest price paid, both were young Simmental-Limousin crossbred calves which brought $460 per head.

In the show held prior to the sale, Scott Hummel, judge, selected Lester Schwartz's purebred Angus to be champion, and the offspring of a Limousin crossed to a Simmental-Angus crossbred, as the reserve champion.

Both men received cash awards for placing as champions.

For Schwartz, who has been raising registered Angus for eight years, has 25 registered cows and uses all artificial insemination, Saturday was his first time consigning and showing at the Dutch Country Calf Sale.

Arnold, of Lebanon, has 17 commercial cows, mostly Angust-Simmental crossbred, a registered Limousin bull is the herd sire and he does all natural breeding. He raised the grand champion of this year's Lebanon Area Fair.

Dr. Lynn Sammons, a large animal veterinarian, demonstrates some basic beef calf treatment during a talk on feeder calf health.

obstructing international bureaucrats immediately while promising tariff reductions which won't be fully realized until the year 2009, and maybe not even then.

Among the nearly 2,000 pages of rules and controls in the NAFTA treaty and the Clinton Administration side agreements, are a half dozen escape clauses to the tariff reduction schedule listed elsewhere in the treaty. (For example, chapter 8 allows for emergency measures, chapter 3B allows for import quotas, and the side agreements on environment and labor contain provisions for trade sanctions.) NAFTA isn't about free trade versus protectionism, it is about whether American trade policy will be decided by the elected U.S. Congress or a collection of appointed international commissions not responsible to the electorate of any nation.

We should not forget that economic union precedes political union. Just like that which happened to the European Economic Community. Many of NAFTA's globalist-minded promoters have called the trade agreement the fruition of their goal of regional economic interdependence, which entails American dependency upon Mexico and Canada for certain industries and goods, and vice versa. Henry Kissinger had an article in the July 18, 1993 Los Angeles Times which carried a revealing title, "with NAFTA, U.S. finally creates a new world order." NAFTA is a giant step toward the new world order, which is economic and political control of mankind by a powerful elite.

As you can see, theose who support NAFTA as a free trade agreement do not understand the principles of free trade. Legitimate free trade is accomplished in the virtual absence of government. Sincere free traders, like the Ludwig Von Mises Institute and the Competitive Enterprise Institute, both free trade organizations, oppose NAFTA.

I encourage you to contact your Congressman and insist that NAFTA be rejected.

Somerset County Club Calf Sale Brings $69,105

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — The annual Somerset Co. Club Calf Sale, held Saturday at the county fairgrounds here, saw 92 steers and heifers bringing a $69,105 auction total.

The steer, which earlier in the afternoon was named the grand champion and Somerset County bred grand champion, belonged to H. Wayne Miller, Fairhope. It sold for $2,000.

Born last May, the steer weighed 465 pounds and gave Miller his first experience at owning a grand champion.

Weighing 550 pounds and born last March, the reserve grand champion steer was also owned by H. Wayne Miller of Fairhope. It sold for $2,350 and was the Somerset County bred reserve grand champion.

It was a rare sweep of all the top honors by steers owned by a person living in the county.

Officials chose to not release buyers' names to the public this year, but the grand champion stayed in the county, while the reserve grand champion went to nearby Indiana Co.

Other sale results found the top-selling steer bringing $2,500.

The sale average, on 92 head, including heifers, was $751.15, according to Dave Brant, Rockwood, a member of the Somerset County Beef Producers who were sponsors with the Pennsylvania Cattlemens Association.

Brant said the grand champion heifer sold for $800 and the reserve grand champion heifer sold for $825. About 21 heifers were auctioned during the event, which ended around 9:30 p.m.

Buyers came from New York, Ohio, West Virginia, Maryland, Virginia, and Pennsylvania, according to Brant. But he said that 28 of the 72 steers auctioned stayed with county buyers.

The sale auctioneer was John Spiker. Bruce Stertzbach was judge for the daytime show event.

The Steaks and Chops 4-H Club supplied food throughout the day for those attending the show and sale.

Wolff Reappoints PDPP Board

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — State Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff has announced the reappointment of six members of the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program (PDPP) Board of Directors. The Board oversees the administration of the PDPP.

"These farmers have given their time and skills to help promote dairy products statewide," Wolff said. "We're very pleased that they'll continue their efforts for another three years."

Reappointed board members include Harold W. Bailey of Roaring Spring, Blair County; Donald Cook of Drums, Luzerne County; Karl W. Kroeck of Knoxville, Tioga County; Richard G. Mains of Newville, Cumberland County; Janet Reynolds of Watsontown, Northumberland County; and Richard Shellenberger of Manheim, Lancaster County.

Warren Sets Water Quality Workshops

WARREN (Warren Co.) — Groundwater accounts for more than 95 percent of all fresh water available on earth. Surface water from lakes, streams, wetlands, and soil moisture accounts for the remaining five percent. Only about one half of one percent of this fresh water from groundwater is available for us to use. The protection of this valuable resource is a wise idea.

Cooperative extension will be conducting two water quality workshops to address these important water issues. One will be held on Thursday, November 4, 7 p.m. - 9 p.m. at the Tidioute High School. The other will be at the Sheffield High School, Monday, November 8, 7 p.m. - 9 p.m.

Topics to be covered include: groundwater - what is it? What pollutes it? How to protect it?, water resource legislation, water quality concerns, and testing drinking water and treatment options. Free water testing for iron, pH, and total dissolved solids will be available for owners of private wells or springs. Bring about one pint of water to sample.

If you get your water from your own well or spring, you're responsible for its quality. Unlike public water supplies, no governmental agency requires monitoring of private, individual water systems for contamination. And periodic water testing is an important step toward ensuring a supply that's safe and appealing to use.

Many substances can degrade drinking water quality. But testing for the presence of every possible contaminant would be very expensive. So the best course of action is to test for only-those contaminants that are likely to be present and to run tests that are broad in scope and provide a great deal of information.

Boar Sale Results Posted

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Meat Animal Evaluation Center has announced results of their recent 17th Performance Tested Boar sale. Bidding was quite spirited, with 24 performance-tested boars averaging $551.

Charles and Mark Hall of Rattlesnake Mountain Farms consigned the top-indexing pen of boars. The top boar in this pen of Yorks sold to James Mathis and Jeanne Beyer of Julian for $525.

The second highest-indexing pen of boars, bred by Neutzel Yorkshires, started off with the highest-individual indexing boar. This animal generated quite a bit of bidding excitement, bringing the top price of the day — $1,175 — from Charles Hall. The second boar in this pen sold to Hillside Acres in Lenhartsville for $900. The 13 Yorkshire boars averaged $560.

Baum Family Landrace consigned the only entries in this breed, but they were a good representation of the breed and were in demand. The highest selling Landrace sold to Roy Jamison of Chambersburg for $1,000. Kenneth Jones of Danville bought the second boar for $900. The four Landrace boars averaged $656.

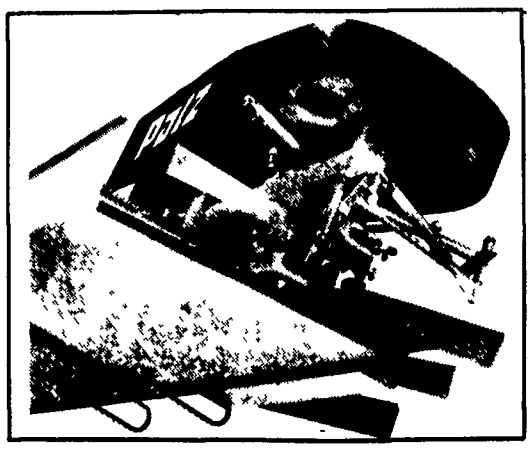
Penn State University had the top indexing pen of Durocs. Both the top indexing and top selling Duroc boar came from this pen. Hillside Acres purchased the animal for $500. The three Duroc boars averaged $467.

Four Hampshire boars averaged $481. Carl Rabenold and Franklin Feeser each sold a Hamp boar for $500 to Hillside Acres and Brian Hege of Fayetteville, respectively.

The Meat Animal Evaluation Center is accepting pens of progeny pigs for the fall-winter testing program. The next boar testing program will begin in March 1994, and the next performance-tested boar sale is scheduled for Wednesday evening, August 17, 1994.

For more information on any of Pennsylvania's performance testing programs, contact Glenn Eberly, director, Meat Animal Evaluation Center, 651 Fox Hollow Road, State College, PA 16803, (814) 238-2527.

Patz Gutter Cleaner



4.9% Financing

Fast Facts:

- Durable Patz hook-and-eye link chain allows easy maintenance. Progression forging builds extra strength in hook-and-eye link contact points. Final heat treating increases hardness, strength and wear resistance.
- Choice of two link sizes to match gutter length.
- Four-tooth sprocket drives every link. Each sprocket tooth drives each link behind the hook — the link's thickest and strongest point.
- Flexibility for various layouts.
- Select 2" steel angle flites for solid manure or 4" high flites for slurry manure. Flites are welded to Patz links.
- Three drive unit sizes match your gutter length and allow expansion.
- Corner wheel top-and-bottom flanges guide the chain around the corner. Corner wheel assemblies remove easily for service without concrete breakout.
- Automatic chain tightener.
- Heavy-guage steel slide with steel center beam for added strength.

Ag Policy Group Cautions Policymakers

WASHINGTON, D.C. — America's efficient production of food and fiber can be seriously jeopardized by emerging environmental and food safety regulations, according to a new report commissioned by the Washington, D.C.-based Agricultural Policy Working Group.

Speaking on behalf of the coalition of food and agribusiness firms, author and economist Dr. Bruce L. Gardner said that, despite U.S. agriculture's efforts to consistently meet consumers' demands for wholesome and economical food, that ability may be threatened by unreasonable environmental and food safety goals.

"Policymakers and the public need to understand the strengths and vulnerabilities of the U.S. agricultural economy before they consider changes in regulatory policy," he cautioned.

The Agricultural Policy Working Group released an extensive study by Dr. Gardner and colleagues that explores a series of regulatory options and their consequences to food and fiber production. Included are regulations aimed at species and habitat protection, land use, water quality, chemical use, food safety, consumer and worker safety, and biotechnology.

"Legislative and regulatory actions on environmental issues have such substantial potential costs to U.S. agriculture, farmers, agribusiness, and rural communities that such actions should be carefully structured to minimize effects on farm costs, while ensuring the desired environmental benefits," Dr. Gardner said. "Moreover, the cumulative impact of these regulations makes it equally important that they not be carried out in a piecemeal fashion."

Consequences of restrictive environmental regulations, according to the APWG study, could include: 1) higher consumer food costs of up to $250 per household, with heaviest burden falling on lower income families; 2) net farm income losses of up to several billion dollars; 3) falling farm asset values that could force many farmers out of business; 4) job losses in environmentally sensitive rural areas; and 5) declines in U.S. exports of up to $10 billion annually, opening opportunities for U.S. competitors to expand their food and fiber production.

With the study in hand, the Agricultural Policy Working Group today called on Secretary of Agriculture Mike Espy to conduct an agricultural impact statement on the effect of major environmental bills on the agricultural economy, prior to their consideration by Congress.

These agricultural impact analyses should be sent to the chairmen and ranking minority members of the House and Senate agriculture committees to ensure that producers, agribusiness and consumers are fully aware of the economic impacts of each major environmental bill pending before Congress, members of APWG emphasized.

They noted that each analysis should include economic impacts of the legislation on costs of production, farm income, exports, food prices, rural employment, and asset values, plus estimates of cumulative effects.

APWG members emphasized that House and Senate members need to be fully informed of the economic impacts on agriculture.

Copes of the full APWG report, entitled "The Impacts of Environmental Protection and Food Safety Regulations on U.S. Agriculture," are available from: APWG, c/o Lesher & Russell, Inc., 1919 S. Eads Street. Suite 103, Arlington, Virginia 22202. Telephone: 703/979-6900.

Pa. State Grange Adopts

43; Crawford No. 26; and Perry No. 69.

Douglas Bonsall, community service coordinator for the State Grange, said the awards recognize those Granges who have made a significant contribution to their communities.

"The community service awards demonstrate that these Grange members care about their hometowns and are trying to make a difference in the world they live," Bosnall said. "The community service award is a tribute to their dedication, perserverance and hard work during the past year."

Community service award winners are judged based on a notebook they keep during the contest year. Included in the notebooks are to be written articles about their projects, photographs, and media coverage.

Also honored at the banquet was Dr. Joseph Fotos, a retired superintendent of the Clarion Area School District, who received the Grange's Community Citizen Award, for being instrumental in arranging this year's convention to be held at the Clarion University.

In other business, Gordon Hiller, master of the Pennsylvania State Grange, opened the covention by reviewing the past year's accomplishments while offering a vision toward the future.

"One of the first steps when I took office was to implement our Grange initiative for the 1993 and Beyond campaign," Hiller said. "The program has been well received across the state and we look for the Grange to continue to grow as we approach the year 2000."

More timely, Hiller said that there were several legislative accomplishments made during the past year. He cited the creation of the Nutrient Management Act; sales tax exemptions for manure storage facilities; reform of workers' compensation; tax relief for conservation easements; and securing funding for the University of Pennsylvania Veterinarian School.

"In the coming year, the Grange is expected to chair the revamped Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources Ag Advisory Baord, a very influential body advising DER on agricultural policy, regulations and enforcement. Current laws and new legislation will be monitored according to Grange policy," he said.

According to Hiller, the past accomplishments of the Grange coupled with a vision will guide the organization.

"Many opportunities for Grange involvement are presenting themselves across the state," Hiller said.

"Research and legislation is brewing that will affect our lives and livelihoods. Health care, for humans and animals, water regulations, labor requirements, rural development, transportation, education, taxation and a whole host of pertinent issues are on tomorrow's horizon."

In addition, more than 130 resolutions were discussed during the convention, including issues such as the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), conservation of Agricultural Security Areas, organ donor legislation, emission inspections, and federal estate tax.

The policies of the Grange begin in the form of resolutions made at the local level, which are then considered at the county level, the state level, and ultimately at the federal level.

Neither the results of the delegates' voting on policy, nor any of the election results were available by presstime.

Poultry Association Elects President, Directors

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

WILLOW VALLEY (Lancaster Co.) — "Seize the moment," Mike Harrold advised the 460 persons attending the annual Lancaster County Poultry Association banquet on Tuesday night at Willow Valley Convention Center.

Harrold, outgoing president of the Association, encouraged members to work together in product promotion.

"If you take one single pencil, it is easy to break, but put a bunch together it's like a lot of people working for a common good and it's hard to whip," he said.

Harrold said of his one-year-term on the board, "The more you learn about this organization, the more you like it."

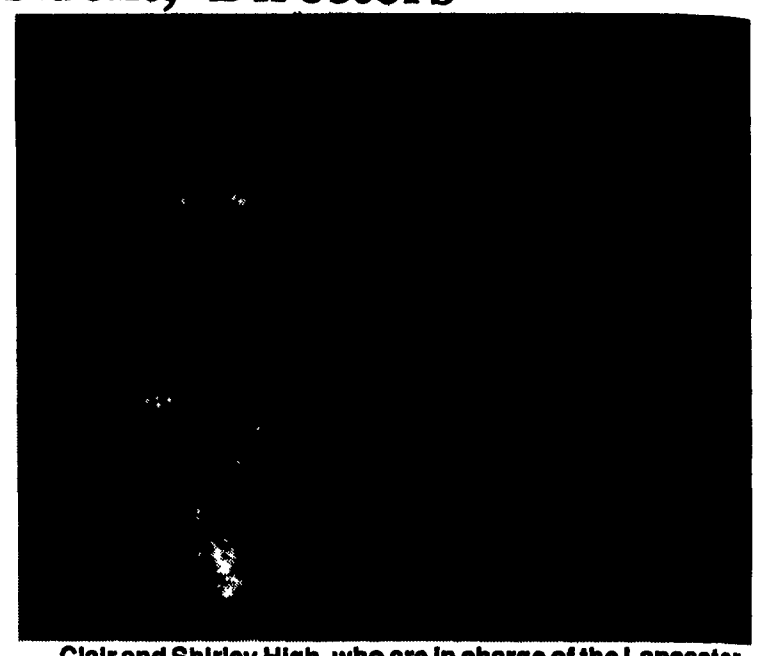
Bob Armstrong of Mount Joy was appointed president by the board to serve a one-year term. Members elected the following directors: Liz Martin, Martin's Hatchery; Alissa Stolzenbach, Pennfield Farms; Dennis Herr, Kevin Starner, Kreider Farms; and George Georges, Wenger's Feed.

The annual banquet is a time to recap the past year's activities. The Association remains strong financially, according to treasurer Roger Moyer.

Clair and Shirley High, who are in charge of the Ephrata Fair food booth for the Association, presented a $4,359 check, the second largest profit in its history.

Vice president Guy Martin expressed the board's appreciation for the promotional work done by Melissa Stauffer, both Pennsylvania and Lancaster County poultry queen, and by Mindy Dulio, county alternate.

Recognized for past services were outgoing board members Clyde Slaymaker Jr., Robert Kreider, Robert Groff, and Roger Moyer.



Clair and Shirley High, who are in charge of the Lancaster County Poultry Association's food booth at the Ephrata Fair, raised $8,755 this year. With a $4369 profit, it was the second best year ever for the fund raiser.

Armstrong said, "The big boys (in poultry) were not that big that they needed to hire a full-time worker and I couldn't afford a place of my own."

Armstrong spent his next years working for Frey's Turkey Hill Dairy. Although he liked cows, he desired to switch to the poultry end of farming. That opportunity arose with Agri-General in Shippensburg where he worked with layers, in the hatchery, and doing whatever needed to be done.

"I kept doing whatever they asked me to do and I learned a lot that way," Bob said.

He credits his grandfather's advice to enabling him to come so far in the poultry industry.

"My grandfather always told me to listen to older people," Armstrong said. "Over the years I listened to others. I learned how the big operators deal with problems, how they do things, then I implemented their ideas."

Growing up on a farm, Armstrong was not paid an allowance. "I needed to work for everything I got," he said. "That taught me respect for the value of money.

"I work for Garbers but I spend money as conservatively as if it were my own," said Armstrong, who considers himself extremely frugal.

Never afraid to try something with which he has no experience, Bob said that his job with the chickens also includes running the on-farm feed mill.

"It was all new to me, but the mill is the best part of all," Armstrong said. Feed is made for the 700 sow farrow-to-finish operation and for the half million chickens. Armstrong tends and does maintenance on the two chicken houses on the farm and services the remainder of chickens kept on nearby farms.

When he started working for the Garbers two years ago, about 20 to 100 tons of feed was made weekly. That amount has jumped to 250 to 300 tons weekly.

"We can't afford a mistake with the feed," Armstrong said of the need to keep the rations for both hog and chicken feed separate. He enjoys the challenge of working faster and more efficiently and is grateful for the opportunity to learn something new.

Armstrong said that the Poultry Association membership has

District Meetings Set

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The district meetings for local DHIA directors are planned for November.

There are five meeting schedules around the state, corresponding to the five director districts. These meetings are held every year, primarily for directors of local DHIA committees or boards.

It is an opportunity for directors and management to get together for discussion of issues and developments affecting DHIA members statewide.

Discussion from the board representatives will explain in detail the changes to the association that will occur when the new bylaws are adopted.

Anyone interested in attending the meeting in their district may contact their county committee or local board.

The meetings will begin at 10 a.m. and end no later than 3 p.m. Lunch is to be provided and all members are welcome to attend.

Nov. 1: Southeast District at Berks County Ag Center, in Leesport.

Nov. 2: Southwest District at Ramada Inn, in Somerset.

Nov. 3: Central District at Family House Restaurant, in Mifflintown.

Nov. 4: Northeast District: Pink Apple Restaurant, in Tunkhannock.

Nov. 5: Northwest District: Bonanza Restaurant, in Franklin.

Delegates please mark your calendars now for this very important information meeting. The subjects discussed will affect the election of your member representatives, due to redistricting, on the Pa.DHIA Board of Directors, starting in 1994.

changed over the years because most poultry operations are owned by industry. "Few producers are left. And it's getting harder and harder to survive. It's at the point where you almost need to expand or get out. Definitely, you need to be more efficient," he said.

Armstrong has his own ideas on how to become more efficient by reducing the amount of egg dirties and cracks. He knows other farmers have good ideas, too. He'd like to see the Association hold a day-long session just to share those ideas so producers can learn from the other.

For himself, Armstrong said that the best way to identify the problem is to candle your own eggs the day after they are laid. Hairline cracks around the belly of the egg or star burst cracks are telltale signs of mechanical problems. Armstrong picks eggs off rows to find which row has a problem. Timing belts sometimes need to be adjusted, holes or sagging in the cage floor or a feed trough hanging too low can result in dirties and cracks.

"If you straightened out your mechanical problems you can greatly lower your percentage of cracks and dirties," he said.

This past year, the Association placed 16 billboards along county highways to promote the poultry industry.

"The idea was good, but we were not 100 percent happy. We want to improve it and do it again," he said. Some of the billboards set back too far from the roadway and were hard to read. The color should be changed and a few other details that will make the billboards more presentable, he said.

Armstrong would like the Association to offer a half day seminar on pest control. "We (producers) spend a lot of time on eliminating flies and rodents. We each try to experiment with different types of methods. Some of us have learned what works best, but some guys don't have as much time to experiment. If we put all the experts and farmers in the same room, something someone says is sure to catch your attention and be the solution for you," he said.

Armstrong said that he doesn't worry about the flocks he tends contacting salmonelle.

"We are cautious in cleaning, where we purchase our chicks, using clean equipment and supplies, and I don't forsee it being a problem," he said.

During his one-year term, Armstrong would also like to offer a seminar to teach different ways to cook and serve poultry and eggs.

This past year, the Poultry Association participated in Kreider Dairy Days by having a tent where they distributed red beet eggs, literature, and coupons.

"It was surprising to see the amount of people who had never tasted red beet eggs before," he said.

Because many requested recipes, the Association recognizes the importance of handing out recipes and food samples to encourage people to use more eggs and poultry in everyday cooking.

When he is not working, Armstrong enjoys being at home with his wife, Lisa, and children, Bryan, 7, and Stephen, 2, fishing and woodworking.

"Chickens are a hobby as much as my job. I never look at it as being a job. I always loved it. It's never boring and I thrive on challenges," he said.

"I have a reputation of trying to do 110 percent," Armstrong said. "I look at it this way. A lot of people don't get to do what they like to do. God gave me a talent to take care of chickens — I want to do it the best."

As president of the Association, it is Armstrong's responsibility to not only look out for the layer producer but also for the turkey, game bird, and broiler producer.

"Each has its own concerns. The Association wants to help as much as possible. If anyone has any ideas or problems, we want to help. They should contact a member of the board and share their ideas," Armstrong said.

AGA Announces Top CPI Cows

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — Ten of the most genetically superior Guernseys are being recognized by the American Guernsey Association with the release of the top 300 cows for cow performance index.

Animals that make the list are cows that produce, reproduce and pass on desirable traits to their offspring. The ratio for these indexes is five protein to one fat to one predicted transmitting ability for type.

This list is frequently used as a screening tool by artificial insemination organizations for selecting dams for tomorrow's A.I. sires. The following are highlights of the top 10 CPI cows in the breed.

Spring Walk Victorys Streak: An 89 point Bettswards Telestar Victory daughter, Spring Walk Victorys Streak made her own "streak" to the top of the July 1993 high CPI list. Moving from third to first with a CPI of +424, "Streak" has USDA PTA totals of +1,851M +93F +$250 +58P +$248 CY +$255. At 3-02 she made 20,600M 4.7% 967F 3.5% 713P in 305 days. Her gold star dam, an 87 point Choice Admiral daughter, has records to 27,260M 4.5% 1,233F 3.1% 848P at 5-04 in 305 days. The grandam, the well-known EX-91 Spring Walk LH Etta, has records to 24,750M 5.1% 1,268F 3.2% 794P at 7-02 in 305 days. "Streak" also has two sons in A.I. and a family member ranked seventh on the CPI list. She was bred by Floyd Wachtel and Family of Big Prairie, Ohio, and is owned by the Streak Syndicate, West Salem, Ohio.

Nells Glow Pender Bianca: In her first appearance in the list of top 10 CPI cows, this Kellogg E Choice Pender daughter has records to 22,790M 4.4% 997F 3.9% 878P at 3-04 in 349 days. She has July USDA PTA totals of +1,657 +62F +$207 +64P +$223 CY +$250 and a +422 CPI, "Bianca" is the breed's top living protein pounds producer and has a brother being sampled by Western Guernsey Sires and Tri-State Breeders. Her dam, an 85 point Able daughter also ranked in the top 300, has records to 23,769M* 4.6% 1,088F* 3.4% 801P* at 1-11 in 365 days and is a gold star cow. The 80 point grandam has records to 20,920M 4.9% 1,028F 3.5% 733P at 4-02 in 354 days. "Bianca" was bred by David and Doris Cruickshank of Dayton, Oregon, and is owned by Dennis Nelson, Hilmar, California.

Golden Whey Fays Ellie: Ranking third on the July high CPI list is Golden Whey Fays Ellie, an 84 point Fayette daughter with records to 15,080M 4.7% 714F 3.8% 570P at 2-03 in 365 days. With a CPI of +398, "Ellie" has July 1993 USDA PTA totals of +1,518M +79F +$207 +56P +$218 CY +$238. She also has two sons in A.I. Her 90 point Volcano gold star dam has records to 18,740M 5.4% 1,003F 3.7% 791P at 3-08 in 305 days. She is bred and owned by Paul and Rhonda Myhre of Houston, Minnesota.

Trotacre Fayette Loretta: The well-known Trotacre Fayette Loretta, an Excellent-92 Fayette daughter, appears in fourth place on the July 1993 high CPI list. A gold star cow, "Loretta" has a CPI of +396 and has records to 32,250M* 3.6% 1,145F* 3.3% 1,070P* at 2-11 in 358 days. She has July USDA PTA totals of +2,031M +48F +$232 +59P +$223 CY +$222. She has won the New England Guernsey breeders award for the highest 305 day mature equivalent lactation the past two years. "Loretta" also has four sons in A.I. Her Telestar dam is scored Very Good-86 with records over 16,500M. "Loretta" is bred and owned by James Trotter of Enon Valley, Pennsylvania.

Myrtledales Andy Hannah-ET: Moving from ninth to fifth to round out the top five is Myrtledales Andy Hannah-ET, a Prince Andy daughter with records to 20,690M 4.0% 819F 3.5% 721P at 3-08 in 365 days. Her CPI is +394, and she has USDA PTA totals of +2,141M +62F +$253 +54P +$232 CY +$217. She has one son in A.I. Her Excellent-90 Rondas Hornet dam has records to 24,350M 4.3% 1,051F 3.2% 769P at 4-02 in 365 days. The Excellent-90 grandam has records to 21,340M 5.3% 1,125F 3.6% 804P at 3-07 in 323 days. "Hannah" is from the same family as Myrtledales Able Hope, the former highest ranking CPI cow in the Guernsey breed. She is bred and owned by Perry Hamm, Newberry, South Carolina.

Rozelyn Prince Juliann: Earning a spot in the top 10 for the first time is Rozelyn Prince Juliann, an 80 point Pats Prince daughter with a CPI of +393. She has USDA PTA totals of +1,555M +75F +$208 +63P +$227 CY +$257 and a 2-year-old record of 17,740M 5.0% 888F 3.9% 683P in 305 days. Her Excellent-90 Rondas Hornet dam has records to 32,850M* 4.9% 1,611F* 3.9% 1,271P* at 2-03 in 365 days. The grandam has several records over 20,000M. "Juliann" is bred and owned by Rozelyn Farm of Lynden, Washington.

Twin L Farms Fayette Farrah: Moving up one placing from eighth to seventh with a CPI of +391 is Twin L Farms Fayette Farrah, an Excellent-90 Fayette daughter. This gold star cow has USDA PTA totals of +1,776M +73F +$227 +54P +$223 CY +$227 and records to 27,610M* 4.5% 1,236F 3.2% 885P at 3-02 in 365 days. Her 88 point Volcano dam, a gold star cow, is also ranked in the top 300 and has records to 22,580M 4.3% 979F 3.2% 727P at 5-01 in 365 days. "Farrah" is bred and owned by Jack Krull of Bonduel, Wisconsin.

Spring Walk BM Rosie: Tying for seventh place is Spring Walk BM Rosie, an 89 point Telestar daughter. At 2-00 she made 19,800M 4.3% 847F 3.1% 620P in 364 days. She has July USDA PTA totals of +1,805M +91F +$244 +51P +$234 CY +$231 and a CPI of +391. Her Excellent-90 Choice Admiral dam, a gold star cow also ranked in the top 50 for CPI, has records to 25,930M 5.4% 1,390F 3.2% 833P at 5-09 in 305 days. Her grandam is Spring Walk LH Etta, also the grandam of Spring Walk Victorys Streak, the number one CPI cow. "Rosie" was bred by Floyd Wachtel and Family of Big Prarie, Ohio, and is owned by Sherma Farm and Mike Landers, Bellevue, Ohio.

Pinebreeze Frankly Delightful: Appearing for the first time on the top 10 list with a CPI of +390 is Pinebreeze Frankly Delightful, an 88 point Frank daughter. She has records to 20,290M 4.3% 866F 3.3% 671P at 2-02 in 365 days and July USDA PTA totals of +2,026M +72F +$250 +55P +$236 CY +$228. Her Fayette dam, also ranked in the top 300 for CPI, has records to 24,000M 4.2% 1,004F 3.6% 871P at 3-08 in 365

Feed Alternative To Poor Corn Silage

GEORGE F.W. HAENLEIN
Extension Dairy Specialist
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. — Many dairy farmers made corn silage this fall from poor, drought damaged, low-ear-yielding corn fields. They had no choice; it's better than nothing at all.

After fearing the worst and testing this silage for nitrates, most farmers did not find high nitrate levels. (Some did, however, so test!) Those farmers who found their corn silage relatively clean assumed they could proceed with feeding this corn silage as in other years.

Wrong. The low ear content makes most of this silage energy-deficient.

In this situation, what can you feed your cows so that they milk as they should or as their genetics allows them?

In recent years, especially for fresh and peak-yielding cows, the direction has been to seek higher energy density in the cow's feeding ration. After all, she has only so much stomach capacity and digestion time, which will determine how much of her ration meets her requirements.

It is basic nutrition that most cows in early lactation produce milk first, and then look to how they meet such requirements from the feed ration or, when the ration is deficient, from their body reserves.

After losing body condition for a while, cows adjust their milk production down, usually irreversibly. This upsets dairy farmers, who know from previous lactations that their cows have better genetic potential.

This could be the scenerio this fall and winter on many dairy farms if farmers depend on silage made from drought-damaged corn.

How can we increase the needed energy density of the dairy cow rations?

Add fat.

This is not an easy solution because the microbes in a cow's rumen have trouble with fat supplementation, except within very narrow limits. Fat increases energy density of a ration because fat has 2.25 times as much energy as any other feed nutrient.

But what kind of fat supplement?

Fat comes in many different types — plant fat, animal fat, liquid, solid, saturated, unsaturated, oilseeds, homogenized, etc.

Much-needed research has focused on the question of fat, but more clear-cut answers are needed. Some commercial fat supplements have met with success while many others have resulted in lower milk production.

It is known that fat supplementation can reduce feed consumption, milk fat contents and milk yield. It also will affect rumen digestion of fiber, which is crucial for healthy cows and normal fat levels in the milk.

So what are safe levels of fat supplementation? Forages normally contain little fat and mixed grain or commercial concentrate rations contain no more than absolutely requested, simply because it costs money.

Recent research in Wisconsin (Journal of Dairy Science, September 1993) with high-yielding cows sheds some light on this question. Tallow was studied as a supplement at the levels of 0, 1, 2 or 3 percent per dry matter of the total dairy ration, which was fed twice daily free choice as a total mixed ration.

All cows continued their usual feed intake, milk production and milk composition regardless of the level of fat supplementation.

This proves that these 3 levels were not detrimental. It also proves that the cows were already so well fed that the additional fat made no difference in production.

Now these were no ordinary cows. These were 16 1,500-pound Holsteins beyond their first lactation, averaging 47 days in lactation (between 21 and 105 days) and milking on average 100 pounds per day.

To cover their nutrient requirements, their ration on a dry-matter basis consisted of one-third alfalfa silage, one-third ground corn, 12 percent corn silage, 9 percent soybean oil meal, 14 percent roasted soybeans, 1.2 percent dicalcium phosphate and limestone half and half, 0.2 percent magnesium oxide, 0.5 percent salt, 20 percent protein with an 8 percent undegradable protein portion, 22 percent neutral detergent fiber, plus the 4 experimental supplement levels of 0, 1, 2, or 3 percent tallow fat.

The remarkable thing about this ration was that it already contained 3 percent fat from the roasted soybeans, to which the experimental tallow levels were added. Thus, the high supplementation group of cows received a total of 6 percent fat from the roasted beans and the tallow combined.

Although this feed was without detrimental effects, there was also no boost to milk production. The basic ration with the roasted soybeans alone already satisfied the nutrient requirements of these high-producing cows.

The lesson is this: With drought-damaged corn silage and its poor ear contents, the energy density of the ration must be increased in order to have high-genetics cows produce high milk yields. This is especially true now, in fall, when most cows should be in their beginning lactation. Roasted soybeans are one of the most effective ways nutritionally to accomplish this energy density increase.

Mobile bean roasters make this an affordable alternative to fat supplements. The nice thing about roasted beans is that a cow's rumen microbes seem to like them better than, for instance, tallow or oil. And roasted soybeans have a considerable protein content, especially undegradable protein, which helps ration balancing considerably.

Here in this region we don't have as much alfalfa silage as in the Wisconsin study cited above. However, many of our dairy farmers have excellent alfalfa haylage in uprights or in plastic bags or wraps; some have early-season rye with vetch or clover haylage; and some have canola or rye grazing as alternatives.

Instead of assuming corn silage is fine this year, even from short stands, the low ear content should warn dairy farmers that it is short on energy. Given this, we must do something about increasing the energy content of the ration. Roasted soybeans, or some fat, are ideal to assist our cows in producing at their genetic capability, which, in turn, will help us pay our bills.

Bradford Extension To Meet

TOWANDA (Bradford Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension of Bradford County will hold its eightieth annual meeting on Thursday, November 4.

The meeting will be held at the Wysox Presbyterian Church. It will begin with a dinner served at 7:45 p.m. The cost for dinner is $6.75 per person.

Guest speaker will be Ken Hunter, a wildlife artist, writer, photographer, and lecturer. Hunter also photographs and sketches underwater. In addition, he also mixes paint underwater to assure accurate color.

As a certified scuba diver,

The evening's program will also include the presentation of the Bradford County Extension Cooperator Award to two county residents, and two new members will be elected to the extension executive committee.

Contact the extension office for more information.

Introducing the revolutionary Super II v-belt with performance that blows the cover off conventional wrapped belts. Test the Super II v-belt on your toughest drive.

Now there's a belt that beats the toughest drive problems.

Many heavy-duty industrial machines demand more than conventional wrapped v-belts can stand Their punishing drives make ordinary belts crack under pressure The result unnecessary and expensive downtime
Now there's a solution to the consistent costly problem of replacing or retensioning belts It's the revolutionary new Super II™ v-belt from Dayco The Super II belt was designed specifically for the most brutal applications And its performance blows the cover off conventional wrapped belts
In heavy torque high horsepower and extreme shock load comparisons it's not even a contest The Super II v-belt is stronger more flexible and lasts far longer

Innovative design & construction provide extra strength and stamina

The secret to the Super II v-belt's durability is its unique construction The central position of the polyester cords in the neoprene rubber core provides greater strength balance and longer life Multiple fabric plies top and bottom, enhance flexibility And Dayco's unique raw-edged construction gives it a better grip for controlled slippage
These attributes, combined make the Super II belt superior to conventional wrapped belts in every way

Test the Super II v-belt on your toughest drive

The Super II v-belt was field-tested for two years on the most severe applications rock quarry shaker screens lumber mill tree debarkers and pipe descalers In every case it outperformed conventional wrapped belts by a wide margin But the only test that really counts is the one you do on your own equipment
Try the Super II belt on your toughest drive problem You'll be so amazed by its incredible endurance that you'll want to put it on all your drives In fact, we're so sure you'll be pleased with the performance of the Super II v-belt that in the unlikely event you're not satisfied, we'll refund the original purchase price or replace it with a conventional wrapped v-belt

Dayco's unique raw-edged belt sidewalls grip pulleys better minimizing belt slip noise and drive vibration
Hi modulus polyester cord located in the belt mid section is specially treated to maintain extreme belt loads & shock without stretching
Multiple fabric plies relieve stress on the load-carrying center cord allow greater flexibility A belts have three plies top and bottom B belts have four and C belts have five
Special 100% neoprene rubber compound supports cord more evenly top and bottom dissipates heat more easily and provides more oil heat and ozone resistance

U.S. Soybean Production Down

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — The U.S. Department of Agriculture forecasts a 1.91 billion bushel soybean crop for 1993, 13 percent less than last year's crop, and, if realized, the lowest since 1988. Above-average rain in the Mideast and drought in the Southeast contributed to a lower production forecast for the crop.

Agriculture officials say expected lower soybean production resulted in a price forecast of $6-$7 per bushel for the 1993-1994 season. The season average price of soybeans has not exceeded $6 per bushel since 1988-1989, when the drought pushed the average price to $7.42 per bushel.

The USDA crop production report shows that Pennsylvania farmers expect to harvest 295,000 soybean acres and realize an average crop yield of 10,915,000 bushels of soybeans in 1993.

"Eligible producers may obtain price support loans on their 1993 soybeans at $5.12 per bushel," Richard Troutman, chairman of the Berks County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), said. Local producers placed about 200,000 bushels of 1992-crop soybeans under price support loan, obtaining operating cash and holding their crop for possibly higher prices later in the year.

Troutman said farmers have until May 31, 1994 to obtain a price support loan on their 1993 crop of soybeans.

Lancaster To Hold 17th Ag-Industry Banquet

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Agriculture Committee of the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce has announced it's plans for a 17th annual Agriculture-Industry Banquet to be held at the Lancaster Host Resort, on Nov. 23.

The annual event is held to encourage a mutual understanding of the business enterprises and to recognize outstanding leaders within the agricultural and agribusiness sectors of Lancaster County.

Among the awards to be presented are the George C. Delp Award, which is presented annually to a resident of Lancaster County who has been influential in promoting agribusiness within the county.

Also to be recognized are the 1993 Century Farm Family recipients, a recognition based on the number of consecutive years a working farm has remained within a family.

Featured speaker of the banquet is to be Orion Samuelson, an internationally recognized agriculture broadcast journalist, whose syndicated radio program, "National Farm Report," has been aired daily for more than 30 years and is now carried by 350 stations, according to a news release.

In addition to the daily radio programming, Samuelson produces a weekly half-hour television show called, "U.S. Farm Report," which is included in the programming offerings of 160 independent stations and 7,000 cable systems.

His past talks have dealt with farming and rural life in this country through his observations on family values, observations on human behavior, and his opinions on a range of subjects, including the federal administration.

Possessing a deep, full broadcasting voice and technique, Samuelson has entertained both radio and convention audiences for years.

The deadline for registration for the annual event is Friday, Nov. 12. The cost per person is $30; $25 for Chamber Farm Associates.

In order to attend, contact the Chamber at (717) 397-3531. The fax number is (717) 293-3159.

Introducing the first CHORE-TIME DURAKO cage system

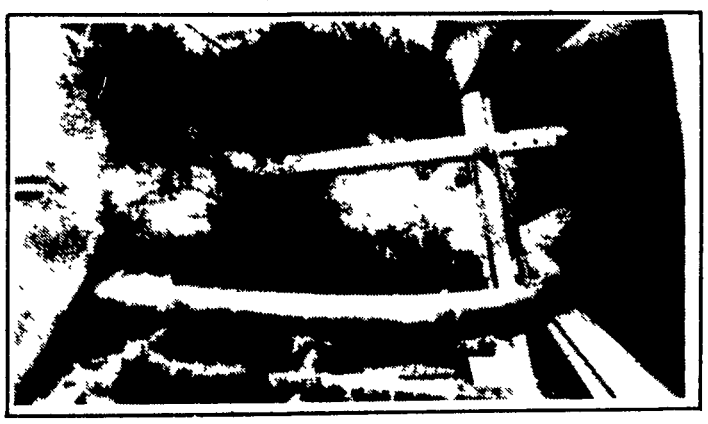
6 row 4 tier CHORE-TIME DURAKO dropping board cage system with CHORE-TIME Turbo ventilation system and Turbo scraper system.

Introducing Durako - Chore-Time's new layer cage designed with customer input.

1. You asked for no manure pass through to get cleaner eggs. This is a new dropping board system available with Chore-Time's plastic rails and plywood dropping boards or all plastic dropping boards.
2. You asked for better nipple placement. The 16 inch high cage top allows nipples to be placed high to stop accidental triggering and birds waste less water because they reach straight up to drink. There is enough space between tiers to put nipples on stands which allows birds to reach nipples from anywhere in the cage. And the cages are spread out so nipples are in the light plus back away from the feed trough.
3. You asked for more space for your layers for better protection. This cage is 16 inches tall in the front and 12 inches tall in the rear with nothing cut off for a curtain. The front tips out for additional bird comfort.

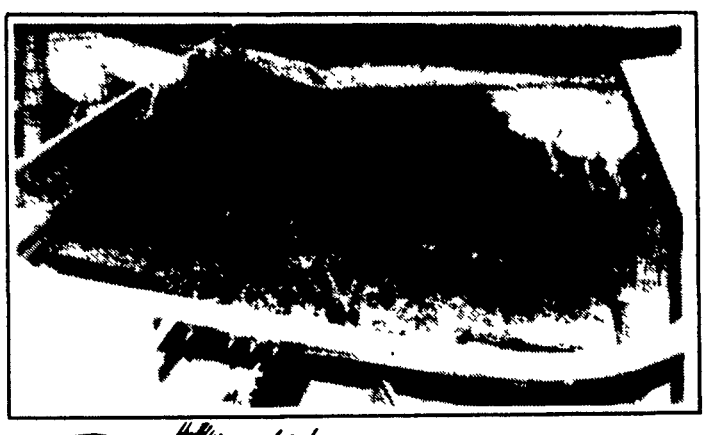
CHORE-TIME • variable speed rubber finger collector
CHORE-TIME • dual auger fill system CHORE-TIME Turbo air inlet for each row of cages

CHORE-TIME • Uni Back top cage, plywood dropping boards with plastic rails, solid steel scraper sled w/stainless steel blades and cables



CHORE-TIME Durako cage 16" tall at front and 12" tall at back for maximum bird comfort

CHORE-TIME • 45° bracket with 2x4 step rails protects cages and gives easy access to top tiers



CHORE-TIME Turbo scraper system with dual stainless steel blades

Rug Weaver Finds Time To Preserve Dying Craft

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

BELLEVILLE (Mifflin Co.) — It's a old-fashioned handicraft that's easy to learn, inexpensive, and in demand. So why is it a dying art? Because it requires one more ingredient most people now days, unfortunately, are short of — time.

Mrs. Verna Renno of Belleville, Mifflin County, takes that last important ingredient and puts it to good use braiding rugs out of wool or knit remnants. By making as mahy as 18 to 20 braided rugs each year, Renno is carrying on the craft her mother, grandmother, and her husband's mother used to do to add warmth and color to the wood floors in their homes.

"It's a wonder what you can do with material," she says, sitting in her spacious, finished-off basement surrounded by boxes and boxes of cloth material. "It's a good way to use worn out clothing. People know I do this and give me material from rumage sales and yard sales to make them a rug."

Her average rugs measure three feet by five feet and take her about two weeks. The biggest she's made was four feet by eight feet, but she says the rugs get awfully heavy at that size.

Braided rugs can be made out of wool or knit. She prefers knit because it is cleaner to work with. Wool produces a lot of lint. Both both are easy to clean. Mrs. Renno suggests spraying both wool and knit rugs with a rug shampoo and using a sponge in warm water to take off the shampoo. Never put them in the washing machine, she suggests. It's hard on them and they may come apart.

In selecting material, Renno chooses bold colors like red, green, and black. She likes to keep one color consistent throughout, such as black, and tries to keep the color scheme, such as different shades of green, the same throughout. She also chooses plain material, but sometimes uses a very small print or plaid. "If I don't like the color of the knit, I just use the wrong side (of the material)," she adds. When braiding, she uses one dark color with two light ones. The rug she's working on how is various shades of blue with a constant black.

Renno starts by cutting the material into strips one and one half inches wide and as long as possible. Because wool is a heavier material, the strips can't be cut as wide or the finished braid, which should be a half inch across, would be too wide. Renno keeps half-inch scraps close by for thinner materials that might need a filler strip tucked inside to add bulk.

Shades of green, brown and beige form this four by five woven rug.

Using a large needle with a blunt end, Renno goes through the braids being careful not to catch any material to lace the rug together. All stitches are hidden both front and back.

If the strips are short, she cuts the ends on the diagonal and sews the strips together on the sewing machine to make longer strips that make braiding go faster.

To start a rug at the center, Renno takes three strips or plaits and puts their ends together, cuts off both corners to make a V-shape, sews these together, and then flips one plait over the raw edge to make a finished V-shaped end. Before braiding, each plait needs to be folded to cover raw edges. Fold each strip so the raw edges meet in the center, then fold in half again forming a long thick strand.

Renno braids a couple of yards to start, keeping the braids tight, then measures it. She believes charging one dollar a yard is the fairest way to come up with a price. It takes about 51 yards to make a 32 inch by 48 inch rug.

After braiding a while, Renno takes the first 20 inches, although it depends on the size of the rug, and starts stitching the braids together to form the rug's oval shape. She uses a sturdy black thread from a harness shop if the rug's continuous color is black. For tans and greens, she uses a beige thread.

Renno passes a "stubby" nosed needle through the braid, being careful not to catch any material in the process, then does the same with the braid beside it. By doing it this way, all stitches are hidden, front and back. Renno says it is important to keep the rug stretched out flat when lacing it together, and to not pull the stitches too tight, otherwise the rug will bulge. Because the thread she uses slips. Renno knots the ends before knotting a new thread on to continue stitching. She hides the knots within the folds of the braids.

When the rug is completely woven and stitched, taper off the final braid and end with the darker color. Then simply lace it to the rug to secure it.

Mrs. Renno began her craft after her husband Erie "retired" after 30 years as pastor of the Locust Grove Mennonite Church. He has spent the past 10 years ministering at Valley View Haven retirement home. They have three daughters.

"I always ask the children and grandchildren what they want for their wedding — a braided rug or a comfort. They always say a braided rug."

Renno knows how easily one can find material for a rug and hopes this will encourage others to learn the craft. One woman, Renno says, bought the beautiful deep red and black wool from the Woolrich outlet and had her make six rugs. Her nephew, a school teacher in Michigan, gave her 30 of the school's old knit uniforms. With only two colors, Renno wondered how the rugs would look, but she wove four circles of a blue/blue/gray scheme then four circles of a blue/gray/gray scheme, adding that they turned out just fine. She also told her nephew the rugs would out wear him!

Verna Renno of Belleville carries on a dwindling tradition — braiding rugs. By sharing tricks of the trade such as connecting lengths diagonally and folding them properly to plait, she hopes to inspire others to learn rug braiding.

Mrs. Renno measures the braids and charges by the yard.

Homestead Notes

On being a farm wife -And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

"Do you always have this many?" asked a friend, visiting a few weeks ago on a pleasant October afternoon.

An avid feeder of squirrels, she and her family were gleaning a few ears of corn from one of our fields that had been harvested for silage. What she had noticed "so many" of were woolly bear caterpillars, those brown and fuzzy larvae that actually lend some meaning to the phrase "cute as a bug." And, yes, at least here on the farm, woolly bears seem more prevalent this fall than they have for the past several years.

The first one I saw came crawling through in mid-August, which seemed like an ominously early start for a caterpillar that supposedly foretells winter weather forecasts. And, since mid-September, they seemed to be everywhere.

Each trip to the garden turns up woolly bears. They are on the porches, in the flower beds, in the basement, in the laundrybasket. One day last week, I nearly squashed — except for quick sidestepping — two woollies crawling northward uup the blacktop grade between the calf nursery and the old bank barn.

Folklore has it that the black to brown ratio of color on a woolly bear is an indicator of the coldness of winter. The more black, the colder the winter. It sounds nice, but our woollies are wearing a whole fashion statement of stripe widths. Some were completely brown. Others were completely black.

My corn-gleaning friend related that she had been told that the black-brown ratio is an indicator of how old the caterpillar was. Curious, I called those experts of just about everything — the folks at the York County Extension Office.

Master Gardener volunteer Sherry Rishel was handy to the phone; she checked some insect manuals and printed material. Sure enough, she found information backing up the black-brown ratio as an indicator of how close to maturity a woolly bear is. Woolly bears, she related eventually become "Isia isabella" moths, two-inch yellowish-brown-colored with random black dots. But, no details turned up on whether more black or more brown meant the caterpillar was still wet behind the ears or a senior citizen critter.

My friend collected two woollies in jars for her children to observe; overnight, one began to form a mass of silky spinnings and attached itself to the lid. Maybe she can get a grant for further studies.

Until we know more . . . figure it's going to be a long winter.

Meanwhile, another of our permanent resident "bug" species is keeping us decorated in the true, festive spirit of the season. For endless years it seems, I've waged the same battle fought by countless other homeowners and housecleaners.

Spider webs. Dangling from the ceiling. Draped from the curtains. Linking corners of the living room and ornamenting everything from lampshades to picture frames. Now, along with the wonderful orange pumpkins of the season, the clusters of cornstalks, the "scarecrows" perched on front porches, we have ornamental spider webs. Commercial, imitation spider webs. Gosh, ain't technology grand?

It's sort of a spooky feeling to have been on the cutting edge of Halloween ornamentation. And so early in the year — every year.

If you don't have your seasonal spider web yet, call us at Rent-A-Web.

Our spiders spin organic, all-natural webbing. And work real cheap. We might even throw in a woolly bear as a bonus.

Three To Vie For Honey Queen Title

LEWISBURG (Union Co.) — Three contestants will vie for the Pennsylvania Honey Queen and the Princess titles at the annual banquet of the Pennsylvania State Beekeepers Association (PSBA) on Saturday, November 13.

Contestants include Amy Schultz, Millersburg, 22-year-old daughter of Thomas and Evelyn Fink; Melissa McGiffin, Knox, 17-year-old daughter of Deanna McGiffin and the late Bill McGiffin; and Melissa Swartz, Shoemakersville, 17-year-old daughter of Jerry and Monica Swartz.

Although PSBA crowns the new queen and princess in November, the reign does not begin until the following February 1. The queen will compete for the American Honey Queen title at the end of her reign in January.

The coronation will follow a day-long agenda held at the Country Cupboard in Lewisburg. Admission is $5 for adults who attend the meetings and workshops on the the following topics:

- Determining the quality of your queen honey bee by Clarence Collison.
- The Eastern Apicultural Society by Maryann Frazier.
- Inspection Report by Jim Steinhauer, PDA.
- Strategies for Treating Tracheal and Varroa Mites by Jennifer Finley.
- Tax Info for Small Non-profit Organizations.
- Preparation of Honey for Market and Show; Comments on Beeswax by Clarence Collison;
- The Hopkins Method of Queen (Bee) Rearing by Tom McCormack and Al Stankus.

Reservations should be made by Nov. 6 by contacting Yvonne Crimbring, R.D.1, Box 315, Canton, PA 17724 or call (717) 673-8201. Buffet banquet tickets are $13 for adults; $10 for children 6-12; and children 5 and under free.

Fisher Represents Honey Producers

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Sandra Fisher, Stroudsburg, represented the Pennsylvania beekeeping industry at the National Honey Board's Nominations Committee meeting, held recently in Phoenix, Ariz.

Fisher was elected by the state beekeeping industry and appointed by the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture to represent Pennsylvania. Pennsylvania beekeepers produce nearly 2 million pounds of honey annually.

Fisher met with representatives from across the nation to nominate members to serve on the National Honey Board. The National Honey Board develops research, advertising and consumer information programs to increase the demand for honey.

Sandra Fisher

A beekeeper for nine years, Fisher and her husband Paul own Cherry Valley Apiaries. Her business manages 1,000 colonies of honey bees for honey production and pollination services.

Fisher is president of the Pennsylvania State Beekeepers Association and is the editor for the Monroe County Beekeepers newsletter. She is a board member of the Quiet Valley Historical Farm.

'Skinny Beef' For the '90s Cook

CHICAGO, Ill. — It's a book for the '90s cook, liberally sprinkled with nutrition information, cooking and food safety tips and other helpful hints. The new checkoff-funded cookbook, Skinny Beef, features more than 100 fabulous beef recipes created for contemporary lifestyles.

"These recipes were developed to demonstrate how today's leaner beef fits into today's lifestyle," says Marlys Bielunski, director of the Meat Board Test Kitchens. "The majority are quick and easy, perfect for everyday family meals, but easy entertaining recipes are featured as well."

Many of the recipes showcase beef in a combination with grain, pastas, fruits and vegteables to make nutritious one-dish meals. High quality prepared foods are used to cut time and add convenience whenver possible. Over 75 of the recipes can be prepared and served in 30 minutes or less.

The authors, Marlys Bielunski, C.H.E., Susan Lamb Parenti, C.H.E., and Irene Yeh, R.D., are home economists with the Meat Board Test Kitchens. They share 50 years of combined experience and between them they've developed thousands of recipes. In addition, they also experience firsthand the same everyday dinnertime dilemmas faced by many consumers, as all three work full-time and have families.

Skinny Beef will be sold in major bookstores nationwide (Surrey Books) for $12.95, however, copies can be ordered directly through the National Live Stock and Meat Board for $8.95. For a copy of Skinny Beef, please send $8.95 per copy to: National Live Stock and Meat Board; Materials Marketing, 444 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, IL 60611-9909, or call 1-800-368-3138.

Have A Safe Halloween

Halloween traditions — dressing up in costumes, carrying jack-o'-lanterns, telling stories around a fire, and trick-or-treating — have been around for centuries. This is one of the oldest celebrations we have, reflecting tradition and revelries, that has evolved over 2,000 years and through many cultures.

There is no real trick to making Halloween a treat for the entire family. However, the responsibility for a safe and enjoyable occasion is shared by adults and children. The dangers are not from witches or spirits, but rather from falls, pedestrian and car accidents, and deliberate Halloween hazards.

Will your child's costume be safe? Buy or design costumes so youngsters can walk easily without tripping or falling. Baggy pants, long skirts or wide capes can become entangled in bushes, hedges or fences.

Costumes should be lightweight and fit properly. However, they should be large enough so warm clothing can be worn underneath if it is cold outside.

Comfortable, sturdy, well-fitted shoes are a must. Clumsy, floppy clown feet, heavy boots, dad's old garden shoes and mom's high heels may contribute to falls and spilled treats.

Whiskers, beards, wigs and hats should be fastened securely and designed so they do not get into youngsters' faces, obscuring vision.

All costumes should be highly visible. Light and bright colors are preferable. At dusk and at night, reflective tape or trim is needed. Place it on the arms and legs or feet or across the chest and back for greatest visibility.

Buy flame-resistance costumes or make them from flame-resistant material. Look for the marking on the end of the material bolt or on the box the purchased costume is in.

Carrying flashlights will help children see better and be seen more clearly. Never allow anyone to walk using a lit candle for a light.

Masks can obstruct a child's vision. Facial make-up is safer, more colorful, and more comfortable. If masks are worn, they should have openings for the nose and mouth, and large eye holds for good visibility.

Plan and discuss the route trick-or-treaters intend to follow before they leave home. Do not allow young children to travel alone or unsupervised. They should be accompanied by an adult or responsible older child. Set a time limit if children are old enough to go with their friends, and know the names of the companions older children are with.

Review all appropriate trick-or-treat safety precautions, including pedestrian/traffic safety rules. Insist that youngsters are good manners, are courteous, and say "thank-you" for treats received.

To insure a safe and enjoyable trick-or-treat outing, I urge parents to: Give your children an early meal or a filling, nutritious snack before they go out, so they will not be tempted to eat candy or other treats before they get home. Insist that treats be brought home for inspection before anything is eaten. Wash fruit and slice it into small pieces. Report anything that appears suspicious about treats to the police, and when in doubt, throw it out.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 26

Lancaster Society of Farm Women 26 met at the home of Polly Kreider for their October meeting.

York Society 26

York County Farm Women 26 met October 12 at Deb's Restaurant for lunch. There were 17 members and one guest in attendance.

Twelve members will be attending the York County Convention on November 4 at Wisehaven Hall.

Officers were elected for 1994 and 1995. Doris Beshore will serve as president.

The next meeting will be November 9 at Two Brothers Restaurant on Robinhood Drive.

York County Farm Women 26 met September 14 at Deb's restaurant in Newberrytown for lunch. The business meeting was held at Paddletown Church. President Ruth Traver was in charge. Ruth Willis was hostess and Martha Huston was in charge of entertainment.

Donations were sent to the Heart and Cancer Funds, Salvation Army and 6 fire companies.

Lancaster Society 20

Lancaster Farm Women #20 met October 7 at the home of Barbara Stone with Marie Foose and Freda Wimer as co-hosts. For the scripture Barbara read from the 4th chapter of I John followed by the poem "Whispers of Love." All joined in praying the Lord's Prayer and the salute to the flag. The guest speaker was Senator Armstrong who gave some enlightening views on some prominent subjects.

The president, Nancy Axe, presided at the business meeting after the roll call at which time the members paid their dues and they were asked to give suggestions for 1994. The Sunshine Committee reported 5 cards and 2 bouquets were sent the past month. Dolly Keen was congratulated on her 80th birthday. The Bake Sale at TownsEdge was $142.00. Count was taken of those going to the County Convention, November 6, at the Farm and Home Center. The meeting closed by singing Brighten the Corner" to meet the next month with Dorothy Crawford instead of Pauline Reinhart.

Lancaster Society 18

Anna Esbenshade was hostess to the October meeting of Farm Women Society #18 at Calvery Fellowship, 502 Elizabeth Drive, Lancaster.

Twenty members and two guests attended. President Ruth Rohrer in charge. Dorothy Brubaker had devotions. Roll call question was "What legislative change would you like?" The program, "Canada's Maritime Provinces," with Pa Farm Women was given by Edna Buckwalter and Ruth Rohrer.

Thirty five members and friends took a bus trip to Fort Hunter Mansion and a boat ride on "The Pride of the Susquehanna."

Savor The Flavors And Aroma Of Crock Pot Cooking

For homemakers on the go, crock pots can be life savers. The ingredients can be placed in the crock pot in the morning hours and not even stirred or watched until eight hours later — presto — a wonderful savory meal.

You need not spend much time preparing food for the crock pot. In fact, Mildred Early of Annville writes that she often places a beef or pork roast in the crock pot and dumps half a package of instant onion soup or instant mushroom soup over it, about 1 cup of water and cooks meats on high for 4 to 4½ hours. You can adjust the temperature to medium and cook 8 hours. This turns into tender delicious meat with its own gravy.

Another easy idea from Mildred is to sprinkle seasoned salt on turkey thighs and cook on high for 4-4½ hours.

YELLOW RICE

2 cups raw long-grain converted rice
4½ cups water
¼ cup butter, melted
½ cup brown sugar
2½ teaspoons turmeric
2 teaspoons salt
½ to 1 cup raisins

Combine all ingredients in crockpot; stir well. Cover and cook on low setting for 8 to 9 hours or on high setting for 2 to 3 hours. Serves 6 to 8.

For Saffron Rice, substitute ¾ teaspoon saffron threads for the turmeric and omit brown sugar and raisins.

SEVEN LAYER BARS

¼ cup butter, melted
½ cup graham cracker crumbs
½ cup chocolate chips
½ cup butterscotch chips
½ cup flaked coconut
½ cup chopped nuts
½ cup sweetened condensed milk

Layer ingredients in Bread 'N Cake Bake pan in the order listed. Do not stir! Cover and bake in 3½ -quart crock pot on high setting for 2 to 3 hours or until firm. Remove pan and uncover. Let stand 5 minutes. Unmold carefully on plate and cool. Serves 6 to 8.

CREAMY SCALLOPED POTATOES

6 medium potatoes, sliced thin
1 small onion, thinly sliced
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons butter
1 can cream of mushroom soup
4 slices American cheese

Toss potato slices into the following:

1 cup water

½ teaspoon cream of tarter. Drain. Add remaining ingredients, except cheese; mix together. Cover and cook on low for 6 to 8 hours or on high for 3 to 4 hours. Before serving, top with cheese slices and melt.

Lisa Zimmerman

CREAMY SCALLOPED POTATOES

10 to 12 medium potatoes
1 stick butter
8 tablespoons flour
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
6 cups milk
1 medium onion

Peel potatoes, cut into thin slices. Heat butter over low heat until melted. Blend in flour, salt and pepper. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until smooth and bubbly; remove from heat. Stir in milk and onion. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Boil and stir 1 minute only. Layer potatoes and sauce 3 times. Cook on low heat for 6 hours or on high for 4 hours. These times may need to be adjusted to suit your crock pot.

McAlisterville Reader

BAKED NOODLES AND CHEESE

3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper
2 cups milk
2 cups Velveeta cheese, diced
6 cups raw noodles

Melt butter in saucepan. Add flour, salt and pepper, stir constantly. Slowly add milk and stir. Add cheese, simmer until cheese melts and mixture is a little thick, stirring often. Cook noodles in salted water. Drain. Put in crock pot. Add sauce, mix well and simmer on low for 1 hour.

Soups and stews simmered all day in a crockpot offer irresistible flavor and aroma.

ITALIAN MEAT LOAF

2 pounds lean ground beef
2 cups cracker crumbs
½ cup tomato soup
1 large egg
2 tablespoons dried chopped onion
1¼ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon garlic salt
1 packet Good Seasons Italian salad dressing mix
¼ teaspoon pepper

Fold a 30-inch long piece of foil in half lengthwise. Place in bottom of a slow cooker with both ends hanging over top edge of cooker.

In a large bowl, mix ground beef, cracker crumbs, ½ cup tomato soup, egg, onion, salt, garlic salt, Italian Seasoning packet, and pepper until well blended. Shape into loaf. Place in slow cooker on top of foil.

Cover tightly and cook on high for 2½ to 3 hours or on low for 5 to 6 hours or until beginning to brown and juices run clear.

Use ends of foil to lift meat loaf and transfer to a serving platter.

GREEN BEAN CASSEROLE

Layer in crock pot, making three layers:

2 pounds fresh cut green beans
10½ -ounce can cream of mushroom soup, undiluted
3-ounce can French-fried onion rings (reserve some for top)
1 cup grated cheddar cheese
8-ounce can water chestnuts, thinly sliced
Slivered almonds, optional
Salt and pepper, to taste

Add:

1 cup water and cook on high for 3 to 4 hours or low 8 to 10 hours. About 20 minutes before serving, sprinkle reserved French-fried onions on top.

If using frozen beans, use 4 10-ounce packages. Cook on high for 2 to 3 hours or on low for 6 to 8 hours.

Lynette Reinford McAlisterville

BROILED HAM

3 to 4 pounds smoked ham shank
1 bay leaf
Salt
4 to 5 peppercorns
2 cups water

Place ham in crock pot. Add seasonings and pour in water. Cover and cook on low setting for 8 to 12 hours. Serves 8.

BUTTERSCOTCH CREAM PIE

Yield: one 9-inch pie

Crust:
1 cup all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
½ cup (1 stick) butter, cut into pieces
Filling:
¾ cup firmly packed brown sugar
¼ cup cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons butter
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
½ cup whipping cream
Whipped cream, if desired
Toasted sliced almonds, if desired

For crust, combine flour and granulated sugar in work bowl of food processor. Add butter; process just until dough holds together. *Press into and up sides of 9-inch pie plate. (If dough is too sticky to handle, refrigerate 10 to 15 minutes.) Place in refrigerator about 15 minutes to chill. Preheat oven to 400°F. Remove crust from refrigerator. Bake 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from oven; cool on wire rack. Meanwhile, for filling, combine brown sugar, cornstarch and salt in saucepan. Gradually add milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils and thickens; remove from heat. Add butter and vanilla; stir until butter melts. Transfer to a bowl; cover and chill about 1 hour or just until mixture is cool. Beat whipping cream on high speed until soft peaks form, scraping bowl occasionally. Fold whipped cream into filling. Pour into cooled crust. Chill 2 to 3 hours. Top with additional dollops of whipped cream and toasted sliced almonds, if desired.

* To make crust by hand, combine flour and sugar in medium bowl. Cut in butter with pastry blender or two knives until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir (or work by hand) just until dough holds together.

Champion Fleece Belongs To Sheepberry Farms

HALIFAX (Dauphin Co.) — After years of raising sheep and exhibiting wool at fairs, John and Lynn Zerphey, Halifax, finally achieved the pinnacle, when one of the white fleeces grown from their sheep received the Grand Champion Fleece Award at the 1993 York Interstate Fair.

John and Lynn Zerphey own and operate Sheepberry Farms, an 84-acre farm in the Dauphin County area. The farm is home to 100+ sheep of a variety of breeds as White and Natural Border Leicester, Suffolk, Rambouillet, and commercial crosses, eight llamas, a border collie dog for herding, and several cats.

The winning fleece was grown by a 4-year-old Lincoln/Border Leicester cross ewe, with beautiful shiny luster. It measures 5" which represents one year's wool growth. The Zerpheys entered 13 fleeces into various wool categories of competition and received awards on each fleece. A fleece entered into Fine Wool Class received Reserve Champion White fleece, and a natural color fleece received a 1st Place Award plus Champion Natural Color Fleece. The sheep that produced that winning wool is a natural brown color Border Leicester ewe, the Zerpheys named, Miss Ewe-S-A!

The balance of the awards ranged three first place ribbons, two second place, two third place, and three fourth place awards.

Zerphey said, "We felt our wool crop was especially good this year, but we were really surprised and very happy."

The Zerpheys take extra steps in their farming practices and animal management practices to maintain a healthy sheep and to grow quality wool. Barn isles and bedding is kept clean daily, and the sheep are maintained in good nutritional state, with regular veterinary care.

Lynn Zerphey had trained in wool grading and classification through a National Sheep and Wool Growers Educational Seminar and currently holds a level I Wool Grading Certificate.

The Zerpheys are also active in the fiber arts field, John weaves and Lynn hand spins yarn from their own sheep and llamas.

Calcium

Calcium may protect against kidney stones

High calcium diets may actually protect against kidney stones, according to a study of over 45,000 men recently published in the New England Journal of Medicine. Middle-aged men who consume more than their Recommended Dietary Allowance of 800 milligrams for calcium have a lower risk of kidney stones than men with lower calcium intakes. Dairy products provide the calcium that protects against kidney stones; calcium supplements did not protect against this condition. The researchers recommend a re-examination of restricting calcium in the diets of people with kidney stones.

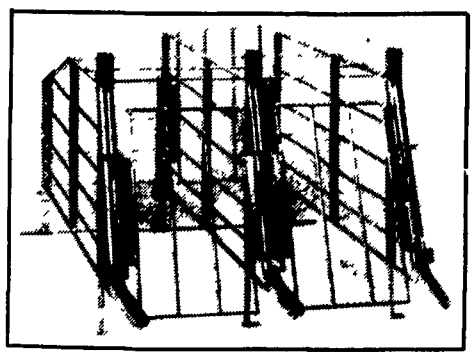
PIG SAVER "DUTCH CRATE"

Developed through testing in our research farms the goal was to develop a crate that nearly eliminates crushing, due to lay one, unmatched durability and be easy to work around. All this has been achieved by a unique gravity flip-rail that forces sows to lie down slowly and using stainless steel for rear doors and legs, proven horizontal and solid steel rod construction. All this at a reasonable cost. Crate also can be installed on an angle.

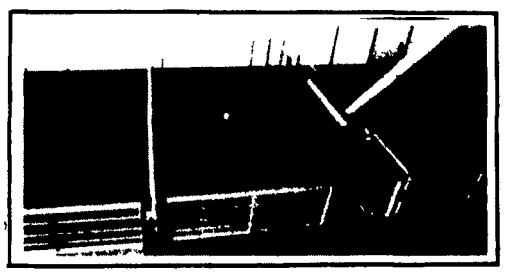


CONFINEMENT STALL

Developed recently in our R&D farm. Our goals were convenience, safety and durability. The low back and flat top rails are easy to reach over with no sharp edges. Stainless steel rear legs and front feet along with solid steel horizontal rods through punched uprights provide the strongest, most durable stall ever produced by Tri-County (21"-24" O.C. x 86")

NURSERY PENNING

Nursery penning has been improved by the use of an optional solid stainless steel panel on the front gates which keeps walkways clean. Stainless steel verticals on penning eliminates corrosion where penning attaches to the floor. Stainless steel drinker pipes & mounting brackets also increase durability.



FINISHING PENNING

Optional stainless steel verticals and fasteners offer improved durability over other similar types of penning. Loop and flapper latch arrangement eliminates the use of drop pins. Stainless steel fence line feeders provide excellent durability and a minimum of waste.

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — Ruth Cantello, Somerset, N.J., would like recipes for food gifts that are suitable for mailing.

QUESTION — Verna Howell, Schnecksville, requests a recipe for Carrot and Raisin Sauce.

QUESTION — Rebecca Johnson, Millville, would like a recipe for Amish Cinnamon Bread, which uses a box of instant vanilla pudding mix.

QUESTION — J. Haugh, Red Lion, would like a recipe to make fresh apple cake made with a boxed cake mix.

QUESTION — Lisa Zimmerman, Lancaster, wants to know what she is doing wrong because her macaroni and cheese always gets curdly.

QUESTION — Sheryl Wolfe, Wellsboro, would like homemade bread recipes made without yeast using all purpose flour She especially wants a peanut bread recipe made without yeast

QUESTION — Brenda Bradish, Latrobe, would like a cookie recipe for peanut butter logs. The inside of the cookie tastes like Zagnut candy bars and is rolled in either nuts or coconut

QUESTION — Louise Graybeal, Renick, W.Va., would like recipes for low-fat sauces, vegetables, noodles, and lean meats — but not for seafood. She writes that she had gallons of cod liver oil as a child (long before the nice little pills that kids eat now) so therefore she doesn't like fish. She doesn't like apple butter either since she had to take a spoonful of apple butter with a spoonful of the cod liver oil.

ANSWER — Marion Carter, Lincoln, Del., wanted a recipe that is made with tomatoes and sauerkraut, layered. Thanks to Josephine Matenus, Dallas, for answering.

Baked Tomatoes With Sauerkraut

Remove thin slices from the stem ends of smooth, medium-sized tomatoes. Take out the pulp, add an equal quantity of bread crumbs and an equal quantity of sauerkraut. Season with salt, pepper, and a few drops of onion juice. Refill tomatoes with the mixture. Place stuffed tomatoes in a buttered pan. Sprinkle each tomato with buttered crumbs. Bake 20 minutes in hot oven.

Escalloped Sauerkraut And Tomatoes

1 can tomatoes
4 cups sauerkraut
Cracker or bread crumbs

Drain liquid from the can of tomatoes and reserve liquid. Grease a baking dish. Cover bottom of baking dish with a layer of solid tomatoes. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dots of butter.

Cover with layer of cracker or bread crumbs, a layer of sauerkraut, and another layer of tomatoes, crumbs, and sauerkraut until all the ingredients have been used. Pour over the tomato liquid. Cover with buttered crumbs. Bake in 350 degree oven for 20 minutes.

ANSWER — Dorothy Miller requested recipes for rice salad. Thanks to Margaret Chapman, Rome, for sending recipes.

Rice Salad

2½ cups water
1 cup rice
1½ teaspoon salt
½ pound salami, Canadian bacon, pepperoni or cooked ham, cut into ¼-inch chunks
¼ pound mushrooms, sliced
½ cup ripe olives, sliced
½ cup diced green peppers
½ cup vegetable oil
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
½ teaspoon basil
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 garlic clove, minced
1 small tomato, chopped

Bring water to boil and stir in rice and 1 teaspoon salt. Cover tightly and simmer 20 minutes. Remove from heat and let stand, covered, until water is absorbed, about 5 minutes. Transfer to a large bowl. Cover and chill. Add meats, mushrooms, olives, and green pepper to rice. Mix well. Blend oil, vinegar, basil, pepper, garlic, and remaining ½ teaspoon salt. Add to rice mixture. Mix well. Cover and chill. Add tomato before serving.

ANSWER — Karen Kinnane, Shartlesville, requested a 1930s fudge recipe. Here are some recipes from Josephine Matenus, Dallas, and Donna Wolfgang, Ashland.

Creamy Nut Fudge

1 cup baking cocoa
½ cup sugar
2 14-ounce cans sweetened condensed milk
1 cup butter
1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts or pecans
1½ teaspoon vanilla

Combine cocoa and sugar in 4-quart saucepan; blend in condensed milk. Add butter; cook, stirring constantly, over medium heat until mixture boils and becomes thick. Boil and stir 10 minutes; remove from heat. Blend in nuts and vanilla; spread mixture evenly in a foil lined 9-inch square pan. Chill 2 hours or until firm. Remove from pan; remove foil. Cut into 1-inch squares. Store in airtight container in a cool, dry places.

Donna writes that she found this recipe in an old Hershey's Cocoa Cookbook.

Cocoa Fudge

2 cups granulated sugar
3 tablespoons cocoa
1/16 teaspoon cream of tartar
Pinch salt
¾ cup milk
1 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla

Blend together sugar, cocoa, cream of tartar, and salt; add milk. Mix well and cook over low heat, stirring constantly until mixture reaches boiling stage. Do not stir again, boil slowly until soft ball stage. Remove from heat; place pan in cold water to cool mixture. After it cools, beat until thick. Place in buttered dish.

Fanny Farmer Fudge

4½ cups sugar
1 can evaporated milk

Boil to a rolling boil for 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Add dash of salt. In bowl, combine:

3 packages chocolate chips
½ pound butter
18-ounce jar marshmallow fluff
2 cups chopped nuts

Pour boiling syrup over marshmallow mixture. Blend well. Pour into greased pans. Makes 5 pounds.

ANSWER — Betty Lou Stull, White Hall, Md., wanted to know what can be used for substitutions in alcoholic beverages. Thanks To Kekette Jurchak for writing that the best substitution is to use natural flavors and extracts and replace the beverage liquid with some other liquid such as milk, juice or water The choice would depend on the recipe. Non-alcoholic extracts for rum, bourbon, Kahlua, brandy and other flavors are available from KCJ Vanilla Co. For 18 recipes and a brochure listing all the extracts, send $1 (refundable with order) to KCJ Vanilla Co. Box 126-LF, Norwood, PA 19074.

ANSWER — Susan Howard, Mt. Pleasant Mills, wanted a recipe for fresh salsa not to be canned. Thanks to Beverly Hoover, Thomasville, for sending one that is easy and very good.

Fresh Salsa

28-ounce can whole tomatoes
2 fresh tomatoes
4-ounce can Old El Paso chopped green chilies
1 whole yellow onion
4 whole scallions
1 teaspoon taco seasoning mix
Pinch cilantro or corriander
Salt, to taste

Do not drain canned tomatoes. Place juice in large bowl. Chop tomatoes into small pieces, both fresh and canned. Save liquid and mix into large bowl. Finely chop onion and scallions. Add all ingredients. Refrigerate one hour before serving.

If preferred, adjust seasonings to suit your taste.

ANSWER — For the reader who wanted a good raisin pie recipe, here is one from Mrs. Paul Bricker of Glen Rock. She writes that she had clipped it more than 30 years ago, and the only one that she ever makes because her family loves it.

Raisin Pie

2 cups seedless raisins
2 cups water
½ cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon butter
9-inch pie crust

Boil raisins in 1¾ cup water for 5 minutes. Combine brown sugar, cornstarch, cinnamon, and salt. Moisten with remaining ¼ cup cold water; add to raisins, stirring until mixture returns to boiling. Remove from heat and add butter and vinegar. Pour into pastry-lined pan and cover with top pastry. Bake 25 minutes in 425-degree oven.

STUFFING

Melt:
1 cup butter
Saute:
2 cups chopped onion
2 cups chopped celery
¼ cup parsley sprigs or 2 tablespoons dried
2 4-ounce cans mushrooms, drained
Pour over:
12 to 13 cups slightly dry bread cubs
Add and toss:
1 teaspoons poultry seasoning
1½ teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoons sage
1 teaspoon dried thyme
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon marjoram
Pour on only enough to moisten:
3½ to 4½ cups chicken or turkey broth and diced giblets
Add:
2 eggs, well beaten

Mix well. Pack lightly in lightly greased crock pot. Cover and cook on high 45 minutes; then reduce to low for 4 to 8 hours.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Elizabeth Shay, Lebanon, wanted recipes that use applesauce in place of shortening in recipes. Thanks to Nancy VanCott, New Milford, and Susan Howard, Mt. Pleasant Mills, for sending recipes. A wonderful recipe brochure is available from Mott's Bake Lite. Call 1-800-225-3548. These recipes prove that you do not need to sacrifice taste to save substantial fat and calories as applesauce can be substituted for most of the oil, butter, margarine, or shortening in recipes for cake, rolls, bread, muffins, and cookies. Here are several recipes, but make sure you request the free brochure from Mott's if you need to lower your fat intake.

Oatmeal Cookies

1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons vegetable shortening
¼ cup cinnamon apple sauce
½ cup granulated sugar
½ cup light brown sugar
1 egg or ¼ cup egg substitute
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1⅓ cups rolled oats
½ cup raisins

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Lightly spray cookie sheet with cooking spray In large bowl, mix flour, baking powder, baking soda, and salt.

In a separate bowl, whisk together shortening, applesauce, granulated and brown sugars, egg, and vanilla until shortening breaks into pea-sized pieces.

Add flour mixture to applesauce mixture. Mix well. Fold in oats and raisins. Drop rounded teaspoonfuls onto cookie sheet two inches apart. Bake 10-12 mintues. Remove from oven and cool on cookie sheet for 5 minutes. Remove and place on cooling rack.

Pineapple Upside Down Cake

8-ounce can crushed pineapple, drained, juice reserved
½ cup brown sugar
6 maraschino cherries
1½ cups flour
2 tablespoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup Mott's applesauce
1 cup granulated sugar
3 egg whites.

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Spray a 8x8x2-inch square pan with cooking spray.

Drain crushed pineapple, reserving juice. Sprinkle brown sugar onto bottom of pan. Top with even layer of crushed pineapple. Slice cherries in half and arrange cut side-up in pan.

In a medium-size bowl, combine flour, baking powder, and salt. Set aside.

In a large bowl, mix applesauce, sugar, reserved pineapple juice, and egg whites. Add flour mixture and mix just to blend.

Gently pour batter onto pineapple layer in pan. Do not mix. Bake 30 to 40 minutes or until cake tester comes out clean. Remove from oven and allow to cool 10 minutes. Invert cake onto serving dish and cool completely before serving.

4 carrots, peeled and cut into bite-sized pieces
2 ribs celery, cut into bite-sized pieces
4 medium potatoes, peeled, cut into bite-sized pieces
28-ounce can whole tomatoes, undrained
10½ -ounces beef broth
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons parsley flakes
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca

Brown beef cubes in 2 tablespoons oil over medium heat. Transfer to crock pot. Add remaining ingredients, stir to blend. Cover and cook at low setting for 8 hours. Makes 6 servings.

SLOW COOKER APPLE BUTTER

Sugar
½ teaspoon ground cloves
Juice of 1 lemon
Water to cover half the apples
2 teaspoons cinnamon

Do not peel apples, quarter and remove seeds from apples. Place in slow cooker with water. Cook over low heat for 8 to 10 hours.

Puree fruit in blender. Add a half cup sugar per cup pureed fruit. Add remaining ingredients. Return to slow cooker. Cover and cook on low for 8 to 10 hours. Remove cover during last 30 minutes.

Seal in preheated jars and preheated lids.

Apply To Exhibit At Gourmet Fest

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Vendors of fancy foods, kitchens, cooking equipment and cookbooks are invited to apply for exhibitor space at The Gourmet Fest, the premiere event of an annual public food expo, to be held at the ARTWORKS Expo Center, Ephrata, on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 8, 9 and 10, 1994. Open to the general public, the event will include celebrity chef demonstrations and book-signings, including a nationally known chef from a public television cooking program and Georges Perrier, chef and owner of the world-famous Philadelphia restaurant, Le Bec-Fin.

Exhibitors are encouraged to offer samplings and tastings of fancy foods to visitors to the event, as well as sell full-size versions of their products. Approximately 95 booths measuring 8'x10' will be filled in the two-story, 17,000-square-feet exposition area. Contact Terri Lipman, show manager, for exhibitor information at 437 N. Lombard St., Dallastown, PA 17313, or call (717) 244-8438.

Co-sponsored by The ARTWORKS at Doneckers and Apprise magazine, a $5 admission fee will be charged. Proceeds of an invitation-only preview party on Friday, April 8 will benefit Apprise magazine, the publication of WITF, public broadcasting radio and television stations in central Pennsylvania.

ANSWER — Ressa Owens, Biech Creek, wanted a recipe for hot peppers cooked in oil to be canned. Thanks to Kim Croskey, Fredonia, for sending a recipe.

Canned Hot Peppers

20 hot peppers, cut in strips or rings, with seeds removed
2 cups white vinegar
1⅓ cups water
1 cup oil
¼ cup salt
2 cloves garlic
½ teaspoon oregano

Put cut peppers in large bowl. Mix remaining ingredients and pour over peppers. Let stand 8 hours. Drain peppers and pack in pint jars. Bring the syrup to a boil and pour over peppers and seal in boiling water bath. Makes 4 pints.

Twin Girls Raise Twin Donkeys

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

FRIENDS COVE (Bedford Co.) — When the school bus grinds to a stop in front of the home of William and Charlotte Schaeffer on Friday afternoon, there is excitement in the air.

It means double fun as Heather and Margaret, the Schaeffer granddaughters, age 11, get off the bus ready for a weekend on the farm.

During the week the girls live with their mother, Liana Alteamus. But, on weekends, they join farmer dad, Charles, and pack as much farm life as possible into every waking hour.

The girls carry their twin life into the animal world. Each spring they get a pair of lambs, as identical as possible. They feed, brush, and practice leading in preparation for fair time.

During the fair of '93, Margaret had a third place carcass lamb and won a showmanship trophy. Heather almost equaled her sister.

The girls tend their sheep and help their dad with the milking. If it's a busy season, they do most of the milking and help with the feeding.

Both twins love farm life and their most special reason might well be their two miniature donkeys. Heather has a donkey named, "Jennifer," and Margaret owns "Baby Doll."

Since they are the only donkeys entered at the Bedford Fair, the girls don't have much competition, but they do attract a lot of attention. Twins with twin donkeys!

The girls always like to share the story of the crosses on the donkey's backs.

"Mary, the mother of Jesus, rode to Bethlehem on a donkey," explains Margaret. "And, later, Jesus died on a cross. And, our donkeys both have a natural cross on their backs close to their manes. We think it is there because it is a symbol of Jesus on the cross."

All donkeys have this cross although it may be more difficult to see on those with a darker color.

A donkey is known as an equine in the animal world. There are only three types of equines, a horse, a donkey, and a zebra. A mule is a cross between a horse and a donkey.

Margaret especially had a great time in animal dress up competition at the fair last summer. She put butterfly wings on "Baby Doll," while she dressed as a sunflower.

Heather and Margaret with Baby Doll and Jennifer. Heather has the braid.

The twins have had their donkeys for about four years. "They are what started us going to the fair," Margaret explains.

Farm life isn't all play and Heather and Margaret both do their share of farmwork. In the summer, they help their grandma in the garden and enter fruits and vegetables in fair competition.

They also help with farm chores and take care of their own animals. "But donkeys don't take a lot of work," Heather points out. "They either graze or eat their hay. We keep them in plenty of water."

Both girls have been hoping that their donkeys might have babies in the near future. "But, dad says it's too early to tell," explains Heather. Until they find out, however, they have curtailed the donkey riding they often enjoy.

Why Leaves Change Color

Autumn coloration is primarily based on spices, genetics, and environmental factors as they relate to carbohydrate accumulation in the leaves. The pigment responsible for the pink, red and purple colors is anthocyanin. The accumulation of carbohydrates in the leaves favors the formation of this particular pigment. This pigment is generally found in the cell sap. Yellow and orange colors come from the pigments called carotene and xanthophyll.

As temperatures decline in the fall, the leaves stop producing chlorophyll, which is the pigment responsible for the green color of leaves. Species that contain large amounts of carbohydrdates begin to form anthocyanins in their leaves. As the chlorophyll in the leaves begin to break down, the anthocyanin pigments are unmasked. In those trees that do not produce anthocyanin, the breakdown of chlorophyll exposes the more stable yellow and orange carotene and xanthophyll pigments. Yellow-poplar and hickory are examples of species that have mostly yellow colorations. Some species produce some anthocyanin pigments and together with the carotene and xanthophyll pigments can produce brilliant orange coloration as is found in sugar maple.

Some species such as alders and black locust exhibit little color change and trees such as black walnut, elm, basswood, and sycamore range in color from rusty green to yellow. The yellow and brown coloration of beech and some species of oak is caused by the presence of tannins in the leaves. Poplars, honeylocust, ginkgo, beech, and birch change to yellow of various shades. The most dazzling displays of color are seen in the red, purple, and oranges of red maple, sugar maple, sassafras, sumac, and scarlet oak. Trees of the same species often exhibit different coloration and the color peak can occur at different times.

Any factor that influences the production of carbohydrates will favor anthocyanin formation and bright autumn colors. These important environmental factors include temperature, light, and water supply. Adequate rainfall during the growing season encourages the production of sugars and carbohydrates and contributes to a better coloration. However, other factors can offset good growing conditions. Maples that have been damaged by pear thrips or trees defoliated by elm spanworm will have less brilliant fall colors as defoliation lessens the amount of carbohydrates in the leaves.

Lowering the temperature above the freezing point favors anthocyanin formation. Severe early frosts actually make autumn colors less brilliant than they would be otherwise. Bright light also favors anthocyanin formation and these bright red colors are often only found in leaves exposed to bright sunlight. Dry conditions in the late summer and fall favor the formation of anthocyanin. Rainy and/or cloudy days during the time this pigment is being formed will decrease the intensity of fall colors.

Fall Is Ideal Time To Build Compost Pile

HUNTINGDON (Huntingdon Co.) — When the dog days of summer yield to the cooler days of autumn, homeowners may want to build a compost pile to recycle leaves, garden plants, kitchen scraps and grass clippings. And the composting process can continue through the coldest days of winter, says an expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Nearly 30 percent of the waste homeowners throw away each year can be composted," says Dr. J. Robert Nuss, professor of ornamental horticulture. "Composing turns wastes into a valuable soil conditioner to use in gardens, around trees and on lawns."

Composting is an inexpensive, natural process that decomposes organic matter into a dark, crumbly material similar to humus. Finished compost helps soil retain water by increasing its organic content. It also provides some nutrients.

To build a compost pile, start by deciding which type of compost bin to use. "Composting doesn't require a structure or bin, but uncontained heaps can be visually offensive to neighbors," Nuss says.

Ready-made compost bins are available at hardware or lawn and garden stores or from gardening catalogs. An inexpensive bin can be made from masonry blocks, boards, wire or snow fence. The bin should be at least three feet high and three feet wide.

Place the bin on level ground and fill it with organic household or yard waste, such as plant matter, vegetable scraps, egg shells, coffee grounds, sawdust — even small amounts of newspaper.

The pile should contain a mix of carbon-rich and nitrogen-rich materials because both are essential for the microorganisms that do the decomposing. "Green, leafy wastes generally are high in nitrogen, while woody materials tend to be high in carbon," Nuss says. "Fertilizer and manure also are good sources of nitrogen."

The composting microorganisms require water, so the pile should be kept moist. One way to gauge moisture is the squeeze test. "Tightly squeeze a handful of material from the pile," Nuss says. "If more than one or two drops of water come out, the pile is too moist. If the pile feels drier than a wrung-out sponge, it's too dry."

Decomposition without oxygen can cause bad odors, so turn the pile weekly with a pitchfork to aerate it. Using a fair amount of course material — dry leaves or bulky plants, for instance — also helps ensure that the pile gets proper aeration.

With proper aeration and ample amounts of carbon, nitrogen and moisture, the pile should reach at least 90 degrees Fahrenheit in the middle. Temperatures up to 140 F will kill weed seeds in the compost, but higher temperatures can kill the composting microbes. A soil thermometer can be used to check the soil temperature. If the temperature gets too high, turn thre compost pile. "As long as the pile is large enough to insulate itself, it will continue to decompose throughout the winter without being turned," Nuss says. "When warm weather returns in the spring, begin turning it again." The compost is ready to use when the pile cools and the material is dark, crumbly and sweet-smelling, like soil.

Complete information about starting a home compost pile is available in "Composting to Reduce the Waste Stream: A Guide to Small Scale Food and Yard Waste Composting," a 48-page publication featuring easy-to-read charts and guidelines. Copies of the guide are available for $4.00 from the Publications. Call your local Penn State Extension office for a copy or more information.

Pre-Teen To Teens Workshop For Parents

YORK (York Co.) — The Spring Grove School District and Celebrate Your Family Committee are co-sponsoring a workshop on November 6, 1993 on parenting pre-teens. Keeping the Celebration "Alive-Pre-Teens to Teens" is scheduled from 8:15 a.m.-1:00 p.m. November 6, at Spring Grove Middle School.

Topics include Raising Responsible Pre-Early Teens, Building Your Child's Self-Esteem, Raising Sexually Healthy Children, Substance Abuse and Youth-What's a Parent To Do?

In addition, a panel of Spring Grove Middle School students will share their feelings and experiences as pre-teen and early teens.

Cultivate A Tradition — Plant A Family Tree

NEWARK, Del. — For $50 you and your family could spend next weekend at a show or splurging on dinner at a favorite restaurant. Or, for about the same expense, you could devote your time to planting a tree.

"Tree planting is the pefect family activity," says University of Delaware Cooperative Extension horticulture specialist Susan Barton. "And, unlike the transitory pleasures of a night at the theater or dining out, you and your family will continue to enjoy the tree you've planted for many years to come."

Often, families imbue tree planting with symbolic meaning, notes Barton. They may plant a tree to mark the birth of a new baby, a child's first day in kindergarten or the death of a loved one.

As a tree grows, kids may find that it's the perfect place to build a fort or twirl on a tire swing. Adults may find that the shady spots beneath its branches are just right for planting impatiens or parking a chaise lounge.

Kids and adults together can collect and press the tree's leaves and search the branches for berries and flowers, says Barton. By studying a tree in all its seasons, children learn about the cycles of nature — of growth, maturation, dormancy, death and new life.

Have we convinced you to get your family together and go plant a tree?

Good. Then your first order of business is to check the selection of trees at your local garden shop. Barton advises against planting from seed because the cultivars available at retail outlets tend to be hardier and provide improved horticultural attributes, such as brighter fall colors.

"When you are ready to dig your tree's hole, remember that deeper isn't better," says Barton. "On the contrary, since 80 percent of the roots grow in the top 8 inches of soil, a flat, pancake-shaped hole is ideal."

An adult should dig the hole, but children can get involved in the backfill process. For example, when Barton planted a tree with her daughter's kindergarten class, she had the children use sand shovels to smooth out the backfilled hole.

After filling the hole, everyone can help add a 2- to 3-inch layer of mulch, being careful not to get mulch on the trunk itself. Finally, give the children responsibility for seeing that the tree gets 1 inch of water per week — if not from the clouds then from a garden hose. Tell the children to set the hose at a small trickle and allow it to run for a half hour to an hour.

Cooperative Extension offers "Trees," a booklet that covers the selection, planting and care. The cost is $2.50. Pick up a copy at your county Extension office.

Shared Love For Sheep Shearing Leads To Wedding

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — With sheep shearing clippers in one hand and a bridal gown in the other, Barb Falvey is a woman of the '90s combining career and matrimony plans with ease.

And, it all started when Bedford County sheep shearer, Karl Kaufman said, "yes," to a simple request.

"Barb's dad asked me if I would teach her how to shear," remembers Karl, "And, I said, 'Sure, I have some time.'"

"I never saw anyone catch on any quicker. And, she worked better than half a day without once complaining about her back. That's almost unheard of."

Delving even deeper into the shearing world, Barb enrolled in a sheep shearing school in New York and, it was there she met her finance, Vaughn Wood, better known as "Woodie".

Promising to help her land a job in New Zealand, his native country, Woodie persuaded Barb to travel "down under" where she stayed on his family's farm. "The Woods raise sheep and musk melons," explains Barb. "They are a special type of melon that sells for $15 to $25 per melon on the Japanese market. They are gourmet eating and very much in demand by the Japanese."

"Before going to New Zealand, I thought I was fast at shearing," Barb laughs. "I could shear better than 30 sheep a day. I soon found out I was too slow for the New Zealanders, they were doing 300 to 400. But, with practice, I kept improving. My record now stands at about 180."

Since she was a little too slow to work as a full-time shearer, Barb settled for a "roustabout," job. Every shearing crew in New Zealand has six shearers, six rousies, two wool pressers, and a cook.

The rousies skirt the fleece, take out the black wool and cut out the heads and bellies. Because there is practically no black wool on the New Zealand sheep, the wool brings a good price. "Much of the wool in the United States is imported from New Zealand or Australia," Barb explains.

"Wool would bring a better price in the United States if we would separate the black fibers," she continues. "Black wool does not hold the dyes, therefore making it less desirable."

Sheep shearing New Zealand style is a long, hard day that begins at 5 a.m. and goes to 5 p.m. Barb is quick to agree there's plenty to eat, but the diet in New Zealand is limited.

"We have mutton for breakfast, lunch, dinner, and even mutton sandwiches for snacks. For meals, we get cabbage, potatoes, and mutton."

Barb's stomach was ready for a change when shearing ended in New Zealand and the shearers headed for Scotland. There, the young American woman found cooks to be of a more gourmet variety.

"We were invited to eat in the homes and we had delicious soups, varied main courses, and melt-in-your-mouth brownies," she recalls happily.

By the time she reached Scotland, Barb had enough experience to start clipping on her own. "There were a number of women shearers," she says.

One team consisted of Barb, another girl, Alison, and her baby daughter, Alison's mother (the baby sitter), and one guy. "With that team, we sheared 2,000 sheep in one week."

"Scotland is a beautiful country," Barb said. "It's a like a dream come true to be able to work outside in that kind of scenery all day long. They have stone fences and rolling hills, it's just beautiful."

It was somewhere in these travels that Woodie and Barb felt they would like to share their lives with each other. And, in the proper manner, Woodie called Barb's father, John, to ask for his daughter's hand.

The wedding is planned for May 21 in the Falvey barn and mals as quests, home cooked food, great friends, and a good time for all.

Her first sheep were Suffolks, but it was instant love when Barb first saw the Merino breed. "We went to a sale and when I saw those sheep with all that wool, I wanted one. Before I knew it, I had raised my hand and bought two."

Merinos are a wool breed of sheep. When Barb first introduced them at the Bedford Fair, they were rare. "But, I kept promoting them," she says. "And, this year, I got the grand champion trophy at the Somerset County Fair. It was a first for a wool breed."

"Merino wool is worth more because it is very fine and excellent for weaving," Barb says.

Barb has also participated in and won prizes at the Pennsylvania State Farm Show and the Maryland Sheep and Wool Festival. Despite wedding plans for May 21, Barb and Woodie plan to have a display of Merinos at the Maryland Festival several weeks before the big day.

Merinos, Barb says, originated in Spain and, when first coming to this country, sometimes went for as high as $10,000 to $18,000.

In late October, Barb returned to New Zealand where they will work out the shearing season there. Then, it's on to Scotland before returning to the United States.

Extension Takes Food Study Tour To China Town

LOU ANN GOOD

PHILADELPHIA (Philadelphia Co.) — About 50 persons participated in the Chinese Food Study Tour sponsored by Berks County Cooperative Extension recently.

It was a time to savor new flavors and smells. A time to observe the work ethnic of dedicated laborers in a big city. A time to learn about the culture and customs of an ancient society.

Nipa Hammond of Nipa's Asian Foods, Inc., in Reading led the day-long tour. As the bus load traveled from Reading to Philadelphia. Nipa passed around a jar of dried plums similar to bits of hard candy. The dried fruit, she said, keeps you from becoming thirsty if you suck it slowly.

Eager to share her love for Chinese food and customs, Nipa encouraged participants to taste food even if the name of it sounded repulsive to them. Chicken feet, she insisted, is a wonderful food.

The study included a full course meal at the Joy Tsin Lau Chinese Restaurant. With the help of Fay Strickler, Extension home economist, Nipa had preselected items from the menu that she believed would be most appealing to those unaccustomed to Chinese cruisine.

The meal was served family style. It started with an appetizer of Won Ton Soup. The dishes included Har Kow (steamed shrimp), Bean Curd Skin Roll (soy beans with filling) Spring Roll (bamboo shoot, dry shrimp, mushrooms, and chicken), Angel Hair Noodles served with both dry and fresh squid, imitation crab, and deep fried fish cake, Fried Dumplings (shrimp) Turnip Cake (Chinese chime with wild garlic). Many of the foods were wrapped in a potato or cornstarch wrapper.

"This is authentic Chinese food — not Americanized Chinese food," Nipa said.

The restaurant serves authenic Chinese food to its mostly Asian customers by day and Americanized-Chinese food to their mostly white clientel by evening.

Americans, Nipa said, do not have a true comprehension of real Chinese food.

"Fortune cookies are a American idea," she said. "They have been made in America for 20 years. When a restaurant in China began to serve them recently, the people ask, "What is this?"

Nevertheless the Chinese are fascinated with the idea of fortune cookies and the cookies promise to be a hit in China as well as America.

A stop on the tour included a visit to the the Reading Terminal Market, where unusual fruits, vegetables, and meats needed for Chinese dishes can be purchased. Items such as persimmons, ginger root, and fish sauce were popular purchases by those eager to duplicate Chinese dishes at home.

According to custom, desserts are not served with Chinese meals, but that doesn't mean Chinese do not eat baked sweets. They are commonly served as snacks with tea.

Later, in the day, the group toured a Chinese bakery where favorites included Moon Cake, Black Bean Cake, Pork Bun, and Sponge cakes of mocha, lemon, and other flavors.

While Black Bean Cake and Pork Bun may not sound appealing to most Americans, the food proved to be quite tasty and enjoyable.

Tours were taken of a noodle factory and a fortune cookie factory. These little factories were located in the heart of China Town. Started by entrepreneurial Chinese, the factories buzzed with activity as they filled orders for cities across the states.

In the noodle factory, the dough is mixed and rolled by machines. As the machine rolls out the dough in endless lengths similar to bolts of material, workers fold the dough in blanket folds. The stacks of the dough are sliced in various sizes of noodles and into won ton wrappers for packaging.

The tour group split up into smaller size groups to visit many of the Chinese groceries and store fronts in China Town. Participants found it fascinating to see the ethnic food sold in these shops so unlike the typical American supermarket. Some of the specialties were whole dried duck, with wings spread and the form intact.

Nipa Hammond, standing, identifies the Chinese cruisine to some of the 50 persons who participated in the Chinese food study tour offered by Berks County Extension.

Agnes Tong, formerly of Hawaii and now a dietician at Reading Hospital, accompanies the tour to discover more about her heritage. Here, a fortune cookie factory fascinates her.

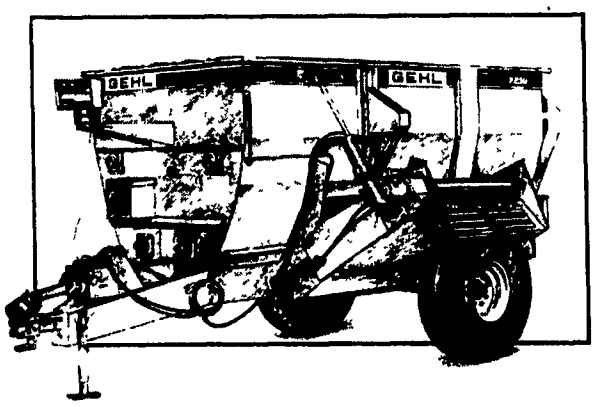
GEHL SKID LOADERS WIN HANDS DOWN

Precise bucket and drive control is easy with Gehl's exclusive Load-Trak T-bar hand controls. Optional hand/foot controls also available.

- Tilt-back cab – Provides easy engine access for servicing.
- Quick-Lock attachment system – For fast attachment changes.
- Eight models – With SAE operating capacities from 750 to 2,050 lbs. to meet your needs.
- A choice of gas or diesel engines – Rated from 20 to 60 horsepower.
- Large selection of attachments – Means versatility.

GEHL TMR MIXER FEEDERS ARE #1



Nothing makes a Total Mixed Ration (TMR) feeding system work better than a Gehl mixer feeder. Here's why:

- Better Mixing Action – Unique four-auger design creates a double figure-8 mixing pattern for fast and complete mixing of all feed ingredients.
- Energy Efficient – Planetary drive system requires less horsepower.
- Built To Last – Patented star couplers absorb shock loads by allowing the bottom augers to flex, providing long service life.
- Six Sizes – 150 to 500 cubic feet capacities.
- Three Styles – Trailer type, stationary and truck-mounted units to fit your operation.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

We left Victoria, on the last leg of our Canadian tour, by driving through Beacon Hill Park. Here we saw a 127-foot cedar totem pole. All during our trip the weather was wonderful except for one day.

Our group had several hours to walk through the 54-acre Butchart Gardens. Their special gardens are dazzling and we had lunch here before boarding another ship of the British Columbia Ferry fleet. Our bus was one of the 450 vehicles that it carried across the Strait of Georgia to Vancouver.

For our protection, our key numbers were not the same as our room numbers. And, one time I forgot my 504 room number and had to wait for our luggage to arrive as the key had 600 printed on it. One evening we took a sundae back to the hotel for a friend but he was not in his room and so Allen had to eat a second one. The friend told us that he loved strawberry ice cream and could not find any.

Vancouver is the third largest city in Canada. Here we saw black squirrels and western red cedar trees that were 400 years old. We took a lot of pictures of flowers in Queen Elizabeth Park. In a Canadian Craft Museum we saw large tapestries exhibited by textile artists. We shopped here in the Pacific Mall for some gifts. The items displayed in the Vancouver Art Museum gift shop were quite expensive.

Our group had a delicious salmon farewell dinner the night before five taxis took us to the Airport. We spent all day on planes and in airports waiting for our suitcases as we transferred from Air Canada to U.S. Air. In Toronto we turned in $230 in Canadian money and got $167 in U.S. money. In Philadelphia our plane was late to Harrisburg so we found our son, Philip, waiting to drive us home. Most of the people in our group had visited Lancaster County at one time or another and this surprised me. It was so nice to be home again.

Restoration

Fall Cleanup

NEWARK, Del. — Sanitation is the home gardener's first and best defense against plant diseases and insect problems, and October is the time for end-of-the-season cleanup. According to University of Delaware Cooperative Extension plant pathologist Bob Mulrooney, a few sanitary practices in the yard and garden now will encourage healthier plants for the next growing season.

"Because dead plants provide winter hiding places for insects and diseases, spade them under or compost the plant tops," Mulrooney says. "You can even compost diseased or insect-infested materials. The only exceptions are plants that have died from wilt caused by Fusarium or Verticillium fungi. These fungi produce overwintering structures that can survive composting."

Mulrooney says that, in general, the benefits derived from compost to improve plant health outweigh the possibility of introducing pathogenic organisms. Most disease-causing fungi and bacteria do not survive composting because they cannot compete against the normal decay-causing organisms.

"Another safeguard is to use compost only when it is fully broken down," Mulrooney advises. "Completely composted materials will be crumbly to the touch and no longer identifiable as leaves, plants or grass cuttings."

If you don't want to remove the crop debris from the vegetable garden, Mulrooney recommends tilling it into the soil. This alternative offers several advantages. Tilling mixes the organic matter into the soil, which improves the soil structure and fertility. Turning the soil over also interrupts the life cycle of many insect pests, exposing pupae and larvae to winter cold.

Another landscape sanitation practice for fall is pruning trees and shrubs. Cut out and destroy all dead wood and any wood that shows evidence of disease or insect infestation. Be sure to prune either before or after the leaves fall. Pruning trees during leaf-drop could open trees to infection or infestation.

As for the fallen leaves, rake and then dispose of or compost. Chopping up leaves with the lawn mower will speed decomposition.

"Discourage Plant Diseases in the Home Garden," a Cooperative Extension fact sheet that gives more detailed information on fall landscape cleanup, is available from county Extension offices.

Advertorial

The University of Wisconsin now evaluates forages using Milk/Acre.

The Department of Dairy Science & Agronomy at the University of Wisconsin-Madison has developed a program that evaluates forage production in terms of milk/acre. The only recognized program of its kind, it allows farmers to assess a forage based on quality (R.F.V.) and yield (tons/acre).

In determining milk/acre, the program assumes a cow weight 1,350 lbs. in mid-lactation stage producing 70 lbs. of milk/day.

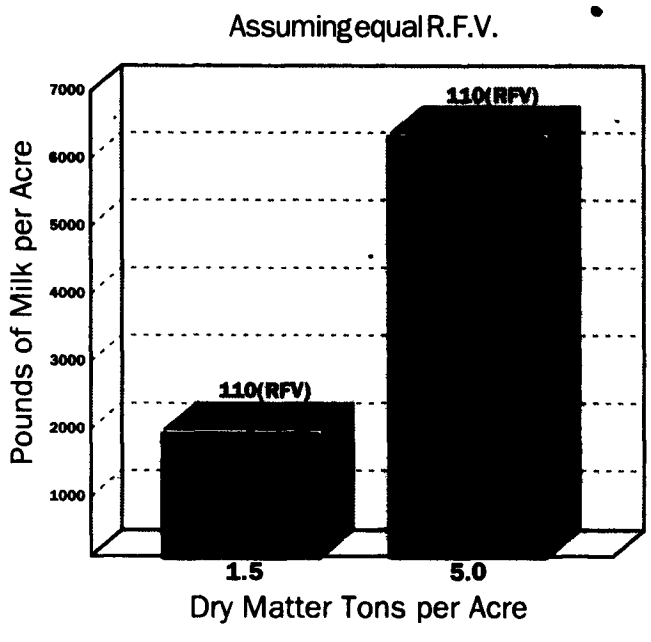
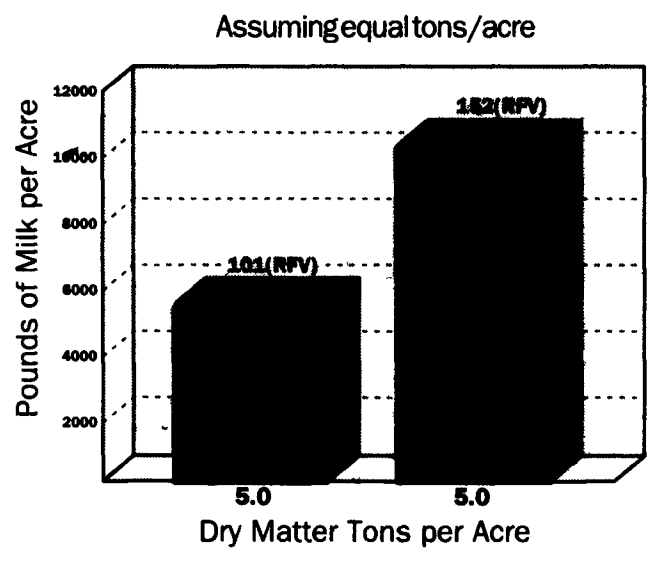
For example, a forage with an R.F.V. of 110 and a yield of 5.0 tons of dry matter produces 6,343 lbs. of milk/acre. Contrast that with a forage having an R.F.V. of 122 at 5.0 tons of dry matter, which produces 8,365 lbs. of milk/acre.

The higher the R.F.V. at an equivalent yield, the higher the milk/acre — and the greater the forage quality. By the same token, the higher the yield at an equivalent R.F.V., the higher the milk/acre

For more information about the program and how to apply it your dairy operation, call Hoffman Seeds at 1-800-776-7929.

Calculating Milk per Acre from R.F.V. and Tons per Acre of Dry Matter





America's Ailing Rivers

A slice of Eden? Hardly.

This 30-acre river marsh was created last spring by the Army Corps of Engineers. It's still a tentative assemblage of dredge soil and nursery-grown marsh plants, held together with stakes, wire and bales of hay.

Nature may never adopt Kenilworth Marsh, but this small improvement on the otherwise silt-smothered Anacostia River, a tributary of the better-known Potomac, represents a new commitment to go beyond cleaning up polluted water and restore some of America's rivers and streams to their pre-Industrial Age quality.

"Kenilworth Marsh is the first positive change in the ecological balance of this river," says Robert Boone, an Anacostia advocate.

Dozens of waterway restoration projects are under way around the country. So far they have tended to be small — a new curve for a creek straightened years ago, a stand of willows for an eroded embankment.

But recovery plans for this summer's rampaging Mississippi River may give the movement new urgency and scale.

"People remember when they were kids. They could swim in rivers, drink the water, catch fish," says Jay West, of the Izaak Walton League of America, who teaches people how to restore waterways.

Those people are seeing the consequences of damming rivers, channeling water through concrete culverts and draining wetlands. Bottoms silt up, banks erode, fish and wildlife disappear. "Their river stinks, it's full of sediment, nothing lives in it," says West.

Many of the nation's 3.2 million miles of rivers and countless more miles of smaller streams have been altered to control floods, drain land for other uses or produce electric power. Only 2 percent of river miles are natural and free-flowing enough to qualify as wild and scenic under the federal definition.

"People don't like what they see," West says. "They're taking back their rivers and streams."

Residents along Clear Creek, which tumbles out of Colorado's Rocky Mountains, have decided their beloved waterway has been abused long enough.

A coalition is looking for money to stop toxic leaks from abandoned mines and is negotiating irrigation schedules with farmers so that the creek won't dry up in the summer. A brewery in Golden, Colo., has created a mile-long fly-fishing run, complete with riffles and pools for trout, from what was a section that had flowed through a man-made channel.

Restorations can be expensive — Kenilworth Marsh cost taxpayers more than $2 million. But problems in small waterways often can be solved with low-cost "soft engineering" techniques.

At the Izaak Walton League's demonstration project on Dunloop Creek in West Virginia, erosion has been stopped by trees cabled to bare embankments. A home for new plant life has been created with bundles of willow branches anchored in the creek bottom. Pools for fish have been scoured out by the pressure of current forced around logs placed at right angles to the shore.

Dams that cut off fish migrations have become a major focus of the river restoration movement. At least a third of American native fish species are extinct or declining, a frequent price of cheap hydroelectric power, says Randy Showstack, of American Rivers, a national conservation organization.

No one knows how many dams block the nation's rivers. Estimates vary from 64,000 to 80,000. Conservationists are trying to alter or remove some of them.

After the Woolen Mills Dam was knocked down on Wisconsin's Milwaukee River, bass and pike returned. Activists are campaigning to have the Gilnes Canyon Dam removed from the Elwha River in Washington state, a spawning ground for all five native species of Pacific salmon.

As 230 hydroelectric dams come up for federal relicensing over the next year, conservationists will argue that the dams should either be knocked down or equipped with ladders and screens to protect fish.

River activists emphasize the importance of the riparian zone, the biologically rich strip of land along waterways.

Communities along Oregon's Willamette River have preserved 255 miles of riverfront greenway for wildlife and recreation. Denver and other cities have created smaller greenways along urban rivers.

Arizona has lost 90 percent of its riparian zone to development or flood-control projects. To make the point, wildlife activists distributed what came to be known as the "bunny map," showing the diversity of life in the remaining undeveloped riparian zone along the Santa Cruz River and its tributaries.

The map caught the public's eye. Tucson, Ariz., now protects buffer zones around waterways. Massachusetts is considering a similar law.

River ecologists argue that lasting benefits require skillful management of entire river systems, which sometimes span many states. The issue figures in deliberations on how to restore the flood-damaged levee system on the upper Mississippi in states such as Minnesota and Iowa.

"Out of this disaster can come an enormous opportunity to restore the basin," says Randy Showstack.

Law requires the Corps of Engineers to rebuild the levees under its jurisdiction. But conservationists, including some in the agency, argue that some recovery dollars would be better spent buying flood rights from farmers.

The only systemic river restoration in the country, a massive revamping of the Kissimmee River to restore Florida's Everglades, is still in the planning stage. The corps will put curves back in the river, which the agency straightened with channels three decades ago to drain the huge swamp for development.

"Like everybody else, we're on a learning curve," admits George Halford, a spokesman for the engineers. "But we're trying."

Straitjacketed into a canal for flood control between 1961 and 1971, the meadering Kissimmee River in south Florida lost half its length and most of its marshes. Now, in the first reversal of a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers project, the river is slated to regain its curves, some already reflooded by test weirs.

Select a company dedicated to forage testing

You can buy your forage products from a lot of companies But only a handful of those companies can back their products with hard core data gathered over years of research We've been conducting forage quality tests on our products for four years now That's four times as long as most other seed companies

And we've assembled that research from field-scale tests Most companies base their findings only on small plot tests Our broad testing programs give us — and you — a much better indication of product performance

Make sure your forage supplier can deliver quantity ... and quality

When it comes to testing a forage product, most companies start and stop at tons/acre But Hoffman Seeds goes beyond that to test actual forage quality

How? By getting individual forage analyses and using the results to assess production in terms of milk/acre So you not only get a measure of yield based on tons/acre, but also a measure of quality based on Relative Feed Value (R F V)

Insist on a broad product offering for Northeast conditions

If you're like most dairy farmers, your forage needs are diverse Grazing Hay Haylage Silage That's why we offer a complete line of products to meet alll your needs Best of all, our products — Funk's G® brand hybrids, alfalfas, forage grasses and pasture formulas — have been genetically selected to meet Northeastern growing conditions

We even offer inoculants to improve bunk life As well as innovative packaging programs like Dairy Pak™ to save you money

Super All Traction 23°

R-1

- New top-of-line bias-ply tractor rear, featuring our long bar/long bar design for tread stability, and heavy bar bracing to extend tread life.
- Long wearing and smooth riding, due to the more uniform, flatter contour of the long bar/long bar design.
- Proven 23° bar angle for traction and open center for self-cleaning.
- Bead and rim protector shields the rim to help keep stubble and soil from getting between the bead and rim flange.

ADC Meets Farmers' Needs

More Than $129 Million in Extra Payments

"At Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, our mission is to maximize returns to members. In the past six years, we returned more than $129 million to members in equity payments, over-order premiums and quality bonuses. That's an average of $36,600 per member. And these extra dollars are continuing at the rate of $1.7 million a month.

Robert B. McSparran
President

"When non-members ask me why they should belong to Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, I am happy to report that we are financially healthy, strong in membership and growing in sales. ADC is the region's largest and most fiscally-sound cooperative, with a guaranteed market and outstanding benefits.

"More dairy farmers joined us last year than at any time in the past decade. If you are not an ADC shipper and are worried about your own milk market, then you should talk to the cooperative that is facing the future with confidence."

FREEDOM FOUNTAINS

Energy-Free All Season Livestock Waterers.
This all year energy-free waterer can help you save money.

Here's how Freedom Fountain does what it does:

- Works like a thermos bottle to keep water cool on a warm day and warm on a cold day.
- Energy free.
- Models for cows, sheep and hogs.
- Insulated earth tube keeps the riser pipe from freezing.
- Stainless steel hardware.

NEW! From RENAISSANCE

STRESS RELIEF

NIA-BIO-VIT Chelate and MAXI-LAC Chelate provide trace minerals in a form that is easily absorbed and readily utilized. Formulated with amino acid complexes and chelated trace minerals, these products are tailored for the cow under the stress of gestation or high production.

NIA-BIO-VIT Chelate
A vitamin-mineral premix containing niacin, live yeast culture, and Lactobacillus acidophilus.

MAXI-LAC Chelate

Research has shown trace mineral amino acid complexes and chelates to aid in:

- ❒ Increased Milk Production
- ❒ Reduced Somatic Cell Count
- ❒ Improved Reproductive Performance
- ❒ Improved Fiber Digestion
- ❒ Improved Immune System Function
- ❒ Improved Hoof Health

Ask Your Renaissance Distributor How NIA-BIO-VIT Chelate And MAXI-LAC Chelate Can Fit Into Your Feeding Program.

Hay Tools To Red

COLDWATER, Ohio — According to Curt Martel, vice president of sales and marketing at White-New Idea, "The change to red helps reinforce our focus on hay tools. With this change, we're also placing more emphasis on the management side of hay production. We feel it is important to discuss how our equipment can help dairy and cattle operations retain as much relative feed value (RFV) as possible for feeding."

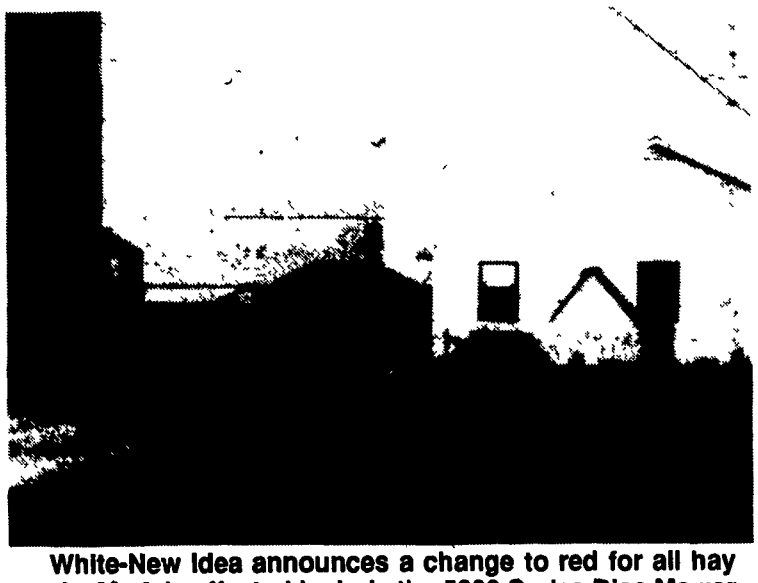
The new color scheme will be used on the entire New Idea hay tool line, including their 5200 Disc Mower Conditioners, 5400 Disc Mowers, 520 Sickle Mowers, 4100 Rakes, 4111 Dual Rake Hitch, and new 4800 Round Balers.

In addition to the new color, White-New Idea is introducing a new line of round balers. The new 4800 Series round balers feature significant design improvements in the pickup, belt rollers, and many other areas. The two larger models are now available with or without net wrap.

Other changes in the New Idea 1993/94 hay tool models include the 5200 Series disc mower conditioners. These will feature an improved cutterbar design that provides additional durability and easier maintenance. Conditioning roll tension improvements will also be incorporated.

The new production of 5400 Series disc mowers also feature numerous durability improvements including a "ball joint" breakaway system and an upgraded disc cutterbar. And the new production of 4100 Series rakes will use new, stronger teeth for longer life.

For more information, contact your local White-New Idea dealer or call (800) 767-3221.



White-New Idea announces a change to red for all hay tools. Models affected include the 5200 Series Disc Mower Conditioners, 5400 Series Disc Mowers, 521 and 522 Sickle Mowers, 4100 Series Rakes, 4111 Dual Rake Hitch, and the new 4800 Series Round Balers.

Shollenberger Returns To Silverdale Office

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Dean L. Shollenberger has been rehired by the Silverdale branch of Keystone Farm Credit, ACA. The announcement was made by Branch Manager Charles Suloff.

Shollenberger rejoined the Silverdale staff as executive loan officer effective September 1 after spending 14 months serving Keystone's members in the Tatamy Branch territory.

A native of Berks County, Shollenberger earned a bachelor's in agricultural economics from Penn State University. He joined Farm Credit in October of 1978 and has held various positions with the field lending staff.

Secretary and charter member of the Montgomery County Farm, Home & 4-H Foundation, Shollenberger also serves on the finance committee of the Advent Lutheran Church in Harleysville.

Two new variable chamber round baler models, designed to produce high-quality bales in sizes to fit most large hay operations and make efficient use of crop transport time, have recently been added to the broad line of Agco Hesston hay and forage equipment.

Ziggity Introduces Durable Stainless Steel Drinker

MIDDLEBURY, Ind. — A durable new stainless steel drinker has recently been introduced by Ziggity Systems, Inc.

According to company president Eldon Hostetler, the Big Acc Stainless Drinker System ensures uninterrupted, consistent water flow to birds of all sizes, while providing faster, easier cleaning and lower maintenance costs for the poultry producer.

Ziggity's stainless steel drinker is designed with exclusive features that appeal to the producer. The key parts of the drinker are the stainless steel seat, the two-stage metering pin, the stainless steel ball, and the cap. These parts are enclosed into the cap as an assembly. This assembly can be removed from the drinker body for inspection. The components are firmly enclosed in the drinker body, eliminating the possibility of parts getting lost in litter during inspection, saving time and money.

All the metal parts are 300 series stainless steel to minimize the damaging effects of medication, minerals, chlorine, or other harsh impurities in the water. The drinker's two-stage metering pin automatically releases a small amount of water for chicks, and up to twice the water for older birds. Birds drink more and gain weight faster because the drinker always provides the right amount of water.

The Big Acc stainless drinker system is available at the same price as other Ziggity assemblies, and can be used wherever the Ziggity single-lock, two-Stage EZ Sip drinker, or the twin-lock, two-Stage drinker have been used in the past.

Owsiany Is Pennfield Salesman

LANCASTER (Lancaster County) — Pennfield Corporation, 711 Rohrerstown Road, has announced the newest member of the feed marketing sales force, Frank R. Owsiany.

Owsiany came to Pennfield in August 1993 with a degree from Penn State in horticulture. He was previously employed by Imperial Nursery in an agricultural-related field, specializing in sales and marketing of nursery supplies in Pennsylvania, New York, and New Jersey.

Owsiany will be a dairy and livestock feed sales and serviceman for parts of Lancaster County.

Low Interest Loans Available

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — State Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff this week announced that farmers can apply for low-interest loans through a program that promotes the use of new technology in Pennsylvania.

Applications to the Agricultural Technology Loan Program (ATLP) will be accepted from Oct. 15 through Dec. 31.

"This program is designed to help our farmers increase their bottom line," Wolff said. "We want them to be able to use the best equipment available to help them do the job."

Farmers demonstrating the greatest need and proposing the most innovative use of technology will be awarded the low-cost loans for projects that will increase productivity or provide entry into new product areas.

Farmers can apply for the loans by contacting Christian Herr in the Bureau of Agricultural Development at (717) 783-8460.

Features Deliver High-Density Bales

ATLANTA, Ga. — Two new variable chamber round baler models, designed to produce high-quality bales in sizes to fit most large hay operations and make efficient use of crop transport time, have recently been added to the broad line of Agco Hesston hay and forage equipment.

Available in two versions, the 555S and the 555T, the 555 Series produces bales sized to meet the specifications of many livestock and custom baler applications. The 555's variable chamber can produce a bale up to 75 inches tall and 46.5 inches wide, weighing up to 1,650 pounds. With the ability to produce a variety of bale sizes, loading and transportation costs are minimized as trailer space is optimized. The end result is more productivity and less time in the field.

Innovation and modernization have made Hesston a 18-year leader in the manufacturing of large balers, and the 555s lack neither quality. With dual twine arms, powered clean out reinks and shortened lower drive roll as standard equipment on the 555S and 555T, bales sustain high density without substantial leaf loss and are secured quickly.

The dual twine arms combined with a twine arm joggle feature offer the operator fast and efficient bale tie-off. Twine spacing is adjustable for differing hay types, while twine arm speed is easily set with a knob. Each twine arm also contains an adjustable leaf spring to tension each sisal or plastic twine individually.

The twine arm joggle keeps the amount of twine equal on the right and left sides of the bale by momentarily moving to the left as the twine arm approaches the cutoff. This puts an extra wrap of twine on the right end of the bale, making handling and storage simple.

Powered clean-out reinks efficiently remove loose crop from the dead space between the front belts, and return it to the pickup area. This features reduces the possibility of crop buildup without staggering or twisting the belts. Meanwhile, crop flaking from the ends of the belts is drastically reduced with a shortened lower drive roll.

MEETS THE CHALLENGE

Brillion has manufactured Pulverizers since 1895 and dominates the market today. Part of that success is because the roller wheels are made in Brillion's own modern foundry. That gives Brillion a big advantage in quality and price.

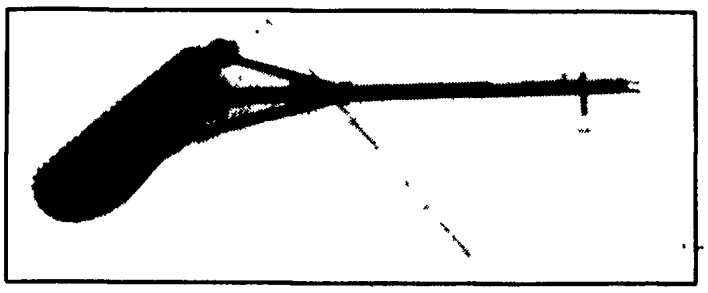
P-SERIES SINGLE GANG PULVERIZERS 10' TO 16' WIDTHS



Pull Type Pulverizers

PDT-14' Pulverizer In Transport Position

This concept of transport is new to the industry. Machine weight is rotated over the tires for transport which considerably reduces the drawbar hitch weight.

- Both model pulverizers offer choice of 20" ductile iron wheel (which carries a 5-year limited warranty), 20" notched rollers, 20" crowfoot, 18" smooth, 16" notched or 15" smooth wheels with sprockets.

Field Cultivator Has Better Residue Flow

MOLINE, Ill. — John Deere has announced its new 980 drawn field cultivator that has better residue flow, more convenient adjustments, and more narrow-frame sizes than the drawn model 960 that it replaces.

The new model 980 also has higher standard trip force, larger frame-tube sizes, a level-lift hitch, and optional electrohydraulic depth control.

For improved residue flow, fore-aft clearance is 123 inches, 34 inches greater than the 960. The 5-bar frame provides 30-inch spacing between the ranks and a minimum on-rank spacing of 18 inches on 4-1/2-inch standard spacing, 24 inches on 6-inch spacing, and 27 inches on 9-inch spacing. Underframe clearance has been increased to 24 inches for both C-shank and S-Tine standards to further promote residue flow through the machine.

The cross-section dimensions of both standards have been increased for greater strength. The C-shank standard's 135-pound trip force helps provide consistent sweep depth, level seedbeds, and thorough chemical incorporation in tough secondary tillage conditions.

The 3-bar coil-tine harrow attachment provides three inches of additional spacing between bars and 4-inch longer tines than the previous model. The new 15-inch bar spacing and 16-inch tines help residue flow easily through the harrow. A 3-inch effective tine spacing thoroughly incorporates chemicals and prepares a consistent seedbed.

When a rougher soil surface is desired, the harrow sections can be rotated out of the soil by removing two pins. Spike-tooth harrows and rolling baskets are also available for more aggressive soil finishing.

The new level-lift hitch maintains level machine operation at all depths for improved seedbed preparation and chemical placement. Adjustments to level the wings and the level-lift hitch are easy to make from the front of the 980, using the handy wrench provided with the machine.

The new crank-adjust, single-point hydraulic depth control makes fine-tuning operating depth quick and easy. Each turn of the crank changes the machine's operating depth by 1/8 of an inch.

An optional electrohydraulic depth control (EHDC) is a John Deere exclusive. By using the electrohydraulic 3-point hitch controls on John Deere 7000 Series and larger 55/60 Series row-crop tractors, the operator has simple, fingertip control of the implement and can set both the operating depth and raise height from the tractor seat.

For example, on the 7000 Series tractors, the operator sets the implement depth and intermediate height on the hitch-command center. One touch of the raise/lower switch moves the implement between the depth and height settings. The intermediate setting makes taking out headland tracks or crossing waterways fast and easy. Holding the switch in the raise position lifts the implement to the full-raise position.

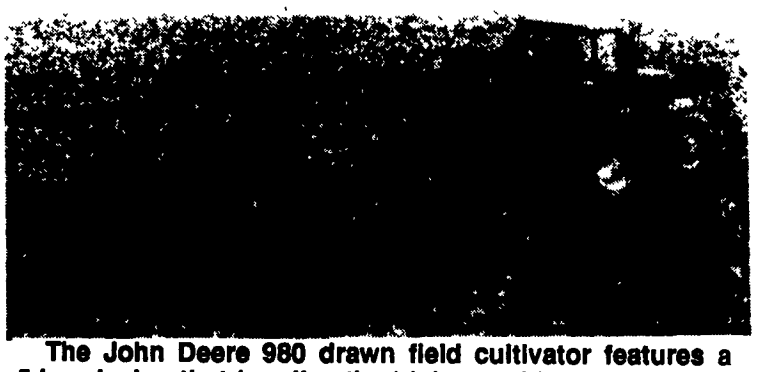
The model 980 is available in rigid, rigid-fold, and flex-fold frame designs in sizes ranging from 12-1/2 to 44-1/2 feet. The narrow-frame, flex-fold 980 offers eight sizes from 20-1/2 to 28-1/2 feet, and it features a 9-foot 9-inch mainframe and wing flexibility, for enhanced performance on hills, terraces, and contours. A transport width of 14 feet 4 inches is convenient for roading these narrow-frame machines and negotiating narrow gates and bridges.

The 980's larger 3x4-inch cross-frame and 2x5-inch end-frame members provide increased strength and rigidity for maintaining consistent depth in tough conditions. The strength and durability of the frame is further enhanced by laser-cut coped-end joints. The patented design enables the ends of a frame member to wrap the radius of the adjoining member. The resulting tight fit provides additional surface area for weld penetration. Robotic welding provides consistent weld size and penetration for strong, durable frame joints.



The John Deere 980 drawn field cultivator features a 5-bar design that handles the higher residue levels associated with conservation farming while effectively incorporating chemicals and preparing a seedbed. Optional electro-hydraulic depth control enables the operator to set both operating depth and raise height from the tractor seat.

The large 5-1/2-inch-diameter rockshaft is positioned at the rear rank of the machine to distribute machine weight for easy tractor hookup and transport stability.

Mainframe tandem Walk-Over™ wheels on all 980 drawn field cultivators provide consistent machine depth in the field and smooth road transport. Wing tandem Walk-Over wheels are standard on 32-foot and larger machines, and optional on smaller models. Single wheels are standard on flexible-folding machine sizes from 20 to 31 feet.

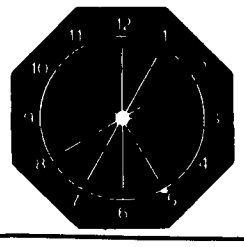
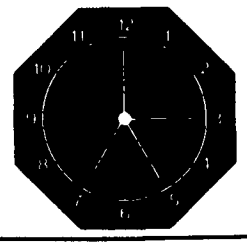
DRAG AUGER FEEDING SCHEDULE?



BIG DUTCHMAN CHAIN FEEDER FEEDING SCHEDULE!



How often do your feeders run in a day? It is generally necessary to operate drag auger feeders as many as eight or more times per day because of limited feeding space and the small quantity of feed presented at one time. That creates tremendous competition for the little feed available. The result of this competition is damaged eggs.. from feet, toes and collisions. Big Dutchman chain feeders can feed your flock by running as few as three or four times a day, with little competition for feed, a calmer flock and fewer cracks and checks.

IF YOU ARE...
FORCED TO FEED
more than four times a day or during peak laying periods, call 911 for your egg casualties or. . . call (717) 393-5807 for information on how our chain feeder pampers your product. . . from cage to carton.

Feed Car Compact Increases Profitability

Business News

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Designed for the stanchion operation with minimal clearance between stalls, ceiling and walls, the FeedCar Compact™ from Alfa Laval Agri delivers all the advantages of automated feeding.

The FeedCar Compact dramatically reduces the backbreaking labor associated with feeding in an old or small stanchion barn or tiestall operation. Considering that 40 to 50 percent of the total cost of producing milk is directly attributable to feeding costs, an exact and controlled feeding has substantial impact on total profitability.

The FeedCar Compact automated feeding system dispenses the correct grain ration for each cow up to nine times a day. It allows the user to match the cow's intake to her stage of lactation to optimize production over the course of her lactation. Every one pound increase of milk at peak yield can represent up to 200 pounds of increased production over the course of her lactation.

Ultimately, this type of exact, controlled feeding results in a healthier herd that converts more milk from each pound of feed. With the FeedCar Compact, it's actually possible to produce more milk with less feed.

The FeedCar Compact shares the same micro-processor as its larger counterparts, the Stanchion-Master® and the FeedCar II, which enables dairymen to control feed consumption by cow or by herd. The FeedCar Compact offers an easy-to-use and well-proven computer design. Its durable, all stainless steel construction ensures long life and low maintenance.

Ideally suited for operations with 30 to 60 cows, the FeedCar Compact is available exclusively through Alfa Laval Agri's network of more than 300 independent Alfa Laval Agri dealers.

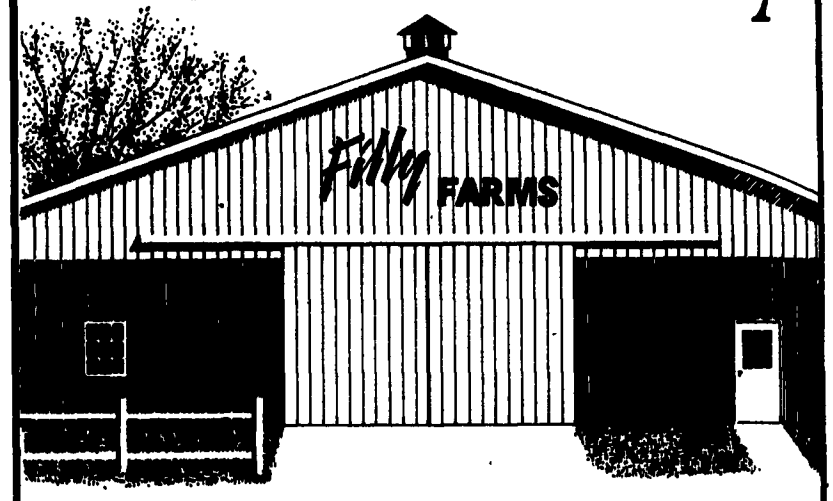
Best in the Country



For rough duty, rougher weather: Rugged, practical, cost-efficient Centurydrain™ roofing and siding.

Centurydrain is the roofing and siding to use for a strong, tight structure that'll carry you through the years of heavy snows, driving rain, and ripping winds.

Wheeling Centurydrain is pure practicality: full-hard, high tensile steel; galvanized for toughness, durability, and rust resistance; and with an exclusive drain channel for a dry, snug interior.

BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds

BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.

MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.

ON-FARM MIXING

A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that

- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

Have you tried toasted grains?
Consider these advantages over traditional roasting methods:
- ◆ Consistent by-pass proteins and low moisture levels.
- ◆ Improved energy density of your rations.
- ◆ Excellent quality control.
- ◆ Exchange programs with feed mills.
- ◆ Economical storage, rolling and grinding available.
- ◆ We also buy corn and soybeans

EBY ALUMINUM FLATBEDS: WE MAKE HARD WORK LOOK GOOD

On the farm or in the city, Eby aluminum flatbed bodies are built for your toughest hauling jobs. Their all-welded construction features 3" aluminum I-beam crossmembers (4" I-beams on bodies 16' and longer) on 12" centers, heavy side rub rail and aluminum diamond floor plate. A full list of options includes slated or solid aluminum sides, tool boxes and tire carrier.

Eby aluminum construction is up to 40% lighter than steel, so you get more payload capacity. The corrosion-resistant aluminum never needs painting and requires minimum maintenance but gives you maximum resale value. That's a winning combination to complement any truck.

In standard lengths to 32 feet and 5 widths from 78 to 102 inches, there's an Eby aluminum flatbed that's matched to your requirements. With Eby value and quality, hard work can look good.

FROM BARN-YARD TO HAY FIELD... "THE SOLID INVESTMENT"

When it comes to building a rugged farm tractor, Case IH wrote the book. Just like its larger brothers, our Model 695 (62 PTO HP), 895 (72 PTO HP) & 995 (85 PTO HP), provides the versatility of barn-yard chores and weight to handle a big roll baler in the field.

With a forward/reverse shuttle transmission available on both 2WD and 4WD models or an optional 16 speed power shift, you can "make hay" while the sun shines.

Truely, a solid investment for today and tomorrow.

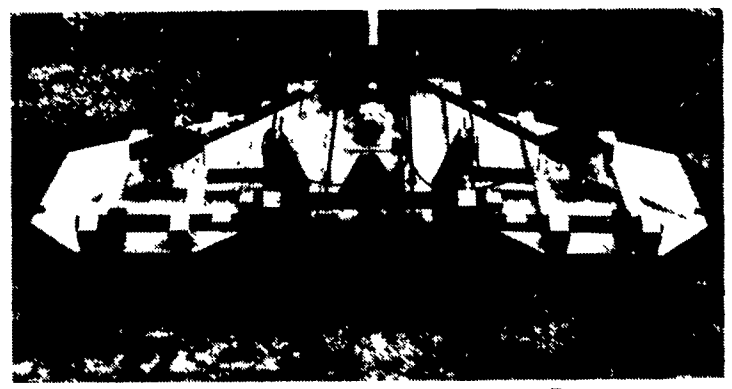
LAND PRIDE
15' ROTARY CUTTER



Land Pride 15' Rotary Cutter offers rugged dependability

Starting with a 10-gauge deck for the center section and wings, we've added effective reinforcement channels to each section for superior strength. With a mowing height ranging from 2" to 14", it can also handle material up to two inches thick. With two self-leveling rods from front to rear, mowing height can easily be maintained, as well as deck-flexing being held to a minimum.

WE'LL GROW ON YOU

Kubota's new L-Series tractors have so many advanced functions for farming and agricultural needs, you may not appreciate all of them at once. But they'll grow on you.

To start, you'll notice the "Ever Clutch", an innovative Kubota first – a wet-type clutch designed to work long and hard without mechanical failure or even much maintenance, and, it's guaranteed for 3 years/1500 hour clutch warranty.

FORAGE QUALITY IN PERSPECTIVE: FACTORS INFLUENCING QUALITY

Dr. Marvin Hall
Penn State University

Fluctuations in milk prices, feed costs, and government programs are forcing dairy farmers to become more efficient with their farm operation.

Since feed accounts for approximately one-half of the total cost of producing milk, and high quality forage optimizes the productivity of the animals, increasing the quality of forage available is one of the best methods of improving overall feeding efficiency.

To effectively produce high quality forage, it is necessary to understand what forage quality is and to keep the factors influencing forage quality in perspective.

Forage quality is defined as the sum total of the plant constituents that influence an animal's use of the feed. Along with its quality, the overall potential feeding value of a forage feed is influenced by the form in which it is fed (e.g., particle size), the palatability of the forage, and by the quality of other feeds in the ration (associative feed effects).

Six major factors affecting forage quality (not yield), ranked by their impact on forage quality, include maturity, crop species, harvest and storage, environment, soil fertility, and variety. The relative importance of each of these factors, along with some exceptions to the ranking, are:

• Maturity (harvest date). Maturity is the most important factor affecting forage quality. Forage quality is never static; plants continually change in forage quality as they mature (Figure 1). As plant cell wall content increases, indigestible lignin accumulates. In fact, forage plant maturity changes so rapidly that it is possible to measure significant declines in forage quality every two or three days.

Crop species. Differences in forage quality between grasses and legumes can be very large. The protein content of legumes is typically much higher than that of grasses, and legume fiber tends to digest faster than grass fiber, allowing the ruminant to eat more of the legume.

• Harvest and storage. Improper harvest techniques can seriously reduce forage quality, primarily through the loss of leaves. Storing a hay crop at an incorrect moisture content, or improper ensiling of a forage crop, can dramatically lower its quality. Estimated averaged economic losses during harvest and storage are shown in Figure 2.

• Environment (climate). Moisture, temperature, and the amount of sunlight influence forage quality. Rain damage is very destructive to forage quality. When bad weather delays harvesting, the forage crop becomes more mature and hence lower in quality. High temperatures may increase lignin accumulation and decrease quality, but drought stress may actually benefit quality by delaying maturity.

• Soil fertility. Soil fertility affects forage yield much more than it does quality. While it is possible to produce high quality forage on poor, unproductive soils, it is generally very difficult to produce high yields of high quality forage with an unproductive soil resource. Proper soil phosphorus (P) and potassium (K) levels help to keep desirable legumes in a mixed seeding and also reduce weed problems. It is necessary to balance soil fertility to avoid mineral imbalances in ruminants. Low soil fertility, as well as very high fertility, has resulted in reduced forage quality.

• Variety (cultivar). After decades of breeding foraged for yield and persistence, attention has recently been focused on developing or identifying varieties with improved quality. Variety or cultivar can affect forage quality, but not as greatly as the other five

*Variety	NE_L Mcal/lb	Maturity stage*
Vernal	0.71	2.7
Multileaf-A	0.75	3.2
Multileaf-B	0.75	2.4
High quality-A	0.77	1.4
High yield-A	0.70	3.2
High yield-B	0.70	3.3

* The higher the maturity stage number, the more mature the alfalfa. A stage reading of 3.0 is at an early flower stage.

 Multileaf-A and -B were selected for the multileaf trait. High quality-A was selected for high quality. High yield-A and -B produced two of the highest yields of 44 varieties tested in the trial.

factors. In alfalfa, selection for improved quality is underway by most commercial companies, and several U.S. firms have initiated selection in corn silage hybrids for improved forage quality.

Several lesser factors also can influence forage quality. Weeds can negatively affect quality, especially in the case of noxious weeds. Insect pests can lower forage quality, particularly if they cause significant leaf loss. Plant diseases can affect quality when they result in a shift in the species present in the field and when they promote leaf senescence. Insects and diseases generally have their greatest impact on yield and persistence of forages.

Forage crops that accumulate a significant quantity of grain may increase slightly in overall quality with maturity as grain content increases in the plant. Some species contain antiquality factors that can lower animal performance. Variety can become the most important forage quality factor in cases where varieties are developed to significantly reduce or eliminate species antiquality factors, as in low-alkaloid varieties of reed canarygrass. Harvest and storage of a forage crop at a moisture content leading to spontaneous combustion would plainly become a most important factor. Or, if prolonged flooding or drought threatens a forage crop, environment becomes as important as any of the other factors. Certain soil fertility conditions, such as a very low pH, could eliminate alfalfa from a mixed seeding, thereby changing the species composition of the stand and greatly diminishing its quality.

All of the ranked factors above can be controlled to some extent through proper management. For example, maturity can be controlled by adjusting harvest dates. The highest quality species that fit the available soil resources should be chosen. Drying agents and preservations may help to avoid rain-damaged forage. Soil testing can identify optimum lime and fertilizer additions. Although variety selection is very important for yield and persistence, it is of relatively less value to forage quality.

Attempts are being made to modify alfalfa plant composition and leaf-to-stem ratio through breeding, as with the multileaf alfalfas, using chemical analyses as the selection criteria. Several alfalfa trials throughout the United States now include forage quality in their evaluation of new varieties. At a given trial site, all varieties are harvested on the same date and then evaluated for forage quality. Any differences in maturity among varieties could influence the ranking of those varieties (Table 1). In other words, some of the reported differences in forage quality between varieties may only be reflecting that they were harvested and compared at different maturities. Keep in mind that maturity is the most important factor influencing forage quality.

Selection for forage quality in corn silage is now being done, and it is likely that many commercial companies will be promoting hybrids on this basis as well. Preliminary studies at Cornell University, Michigan State University, and the University of Idaho indicate that there is a range in overall silage quality among hybrids. It may be possible to breed for higher stover quality while maintaining a high grain-stover ratio, and develop a silage hybrid with overall higher digestibility. As with alfalfa, selection may be based on chemical in vitro analyses, with little or no actual animal performance data to back up forage quality claims. This means that varieties ultimately will be compared for animal performance on the farm by the forage producer. Claims of improved forage quality may be added only after those varieties excel in animal performance tests.

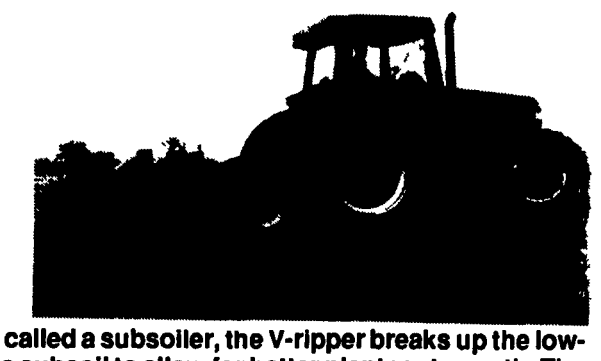
It Takes A Sunflower Ripper To Take This Type Of Punishiment, So Buy Heavy Duty Tillage, Buy Sunflower And A New Case IH Magnum Tractor From Binkley & Hurst For Outstanding Performance



This series of photos shows a deep-tillage device called a V-ripper as it digs 15-inches into the soil to loosen the hard-packed soil. In hay for more than 25 years, the field was used for many years as a parking lot at Ag Progress. Over the years, during dry and wet conditions, cars and other equipment packed the soil, inherently full of rocks and clay, which help contribute to compaction. Also called a subsoiler, the V-ripper breaks up the lower layers of topsoil and the subsoil to allow for better plant root growth. The subsoiling demonstration was one of several tillage demonstrations that visitors could see at this year's Ag Progress Days.

Once A Parking Lot, Now A Deeply Tilled Field By Binkley & Hurst Bros. Heavy Duty Sunflower Tillage Equipment and Case IH Magnum Tractors All Sold And Serviced By Binkley & Hurst Your Dealer For Heavy Duty Equipment

ANDY ANDREWS

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Once upon a time, they needed a place to put cars. So they used a hay field.

The hay field, you see, goes back, way back, to a time before tons of cars and equipment were invited onto it, in conditions rainy and dry, to pack it down.

Its usefulness as a parking lot served well, but for growing crops, well, that was in question. It was solid hardpan. Dusty and rocky. Nearly unfit for farming.

Despite the rocks, clay, hardpan, and dry, dry soil, the V-ripper did its job, and dug down deep — 15 inches deep, to be exact. The subsoiler helped loosen and dislodge the compaction layer so harmful to good root growth and overall crop condition.

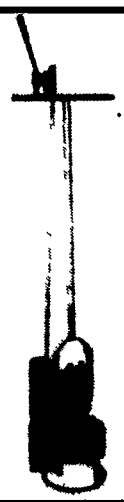
Model 1680 PIT PAL®



AGITATES — PIT PAL's heavy duty pump has the power to agitate a pit, mixing those heavy bottom solids into a pumpable slurry.
CHOPS — PIT PAL'S unique intake-port design provides constant chopping action — up to 5,000 'shearing action' cuts per minute. This cutting action guarantees that straw and fiberous material will be chopped into a pumpable form.
PUMPS — PIT PAL'S handy gate valve permits agitating and/or pumping of 'under-barn' or outdoor manure pits. PIT PAL is portable, giving you the flexibility to use it in many locations
LOADS — Load your slurry wagon by combining your PIT PAL to force feed a vacuum tank or over the top with a load stand
PRIMES — PIT PAL will operate as a priming system for your high pressure irrigation pump.

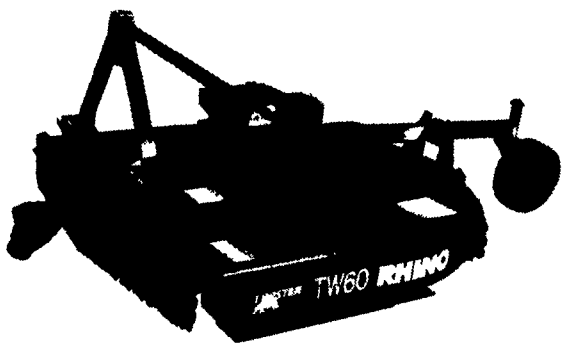
Quality, Dependability, and Performance and three great reasons why the TWISTER family of medium-duty cutters from SERVIS-RHINO is mowing the competition down!

TWISTER

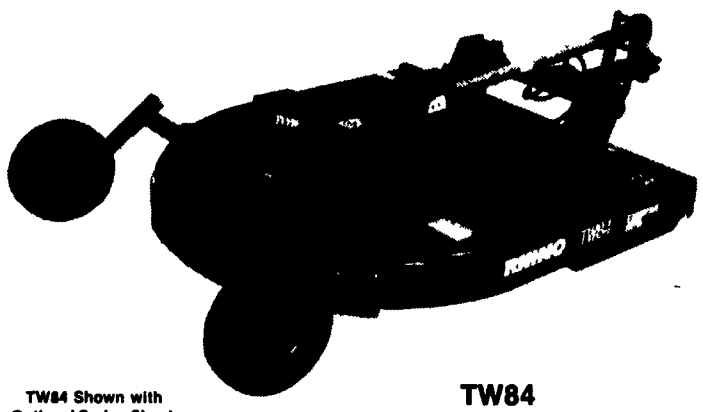


TW60

The TW60 mows a full 5' swath and is available in 540 RPM and three-point lift The TW60 requires only a 30 HP tractor (with adequate front weight) to save on operating costs The tail-wheel beam of the TW60, 72, and 84 lift-type cutters are easily adjustable for different cutting heights

TW72

The TW72 mows a 6' swath of material and can be operated on a tractor as small as 40 HP (with adequate front weight) The floating top linkage of the "A" Frame allows the TW cutters to follow the contour of the ground in rough conditions without damage to the hitch



TW84 Shown with Optional Spring Shock Absorber

TW84

The TW84 mows a 7' swath and is available in 540 or 1000 RPM and as a pull- or lift-type unit to fit a wide range of tractors An optional heavy-duty "A" frame is available for working in demanding conditions The lift-type unit is available with one or two tail-wheels and requires a 60 HP tractor (with adequate front weight) while the pull-type TW84 requires only a 30 HP tractor for many conditions A parking jack is standard on pull-type units

There's nothing more important to a crop than early, even emergence To get it, you need accurate, even seeding

The 5300 has earned a reputation for its seeding precision, a function of its exclusive feed cup design and dependable disk openers. And, to improve placement of seed, the opener drawbars are heavier than on previous models Press wheel and opener bearings are heavier for long life operation.

Along with accuracy, the 5300 gives you fast, high capacity seeding, so you spend less time refilling hoppers.

REMEMBER THE 3 LAWS OF HOOBER RECONDITIONED AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES...

LAW #1- (14) Years Old is not equal to (≠) WORN OUT...
Because of the simple design of the CASE IH Axial Flow Combines, they can be reconditioned by HOOBER'S expert combine mechanics to like-new condition, so they provide 2nd and 3rd owners years of satisfactory and profitable operation.

LAW #2- (3,500) HOURS PLUS (+) HOOBER RECONDITIONING EQUALS (=) YEARS OF DEPENDABLE SERVICE...
(3,500) Hours on a conventional combine usually means they'll be too much trouble to be dependable. Axial-Flow combines with (3,500) hours, reconditioned by HOOBER'S, have proven to run for years when purchased by farmers in PA, MD, DE and NJ

LAW #3- A CASE IH AXIAL-FLOW COMBINE SERVICED BY EXPERT HOOBER COMBINE MECHANICS EQUALS (=) LITTLE OR NO DOWNTIME DURING HARVEST...
When Hoober's expert combine mechanics service and repair AXIAL-FLOW combines in the off-season, they run dependably through the season.

NEW

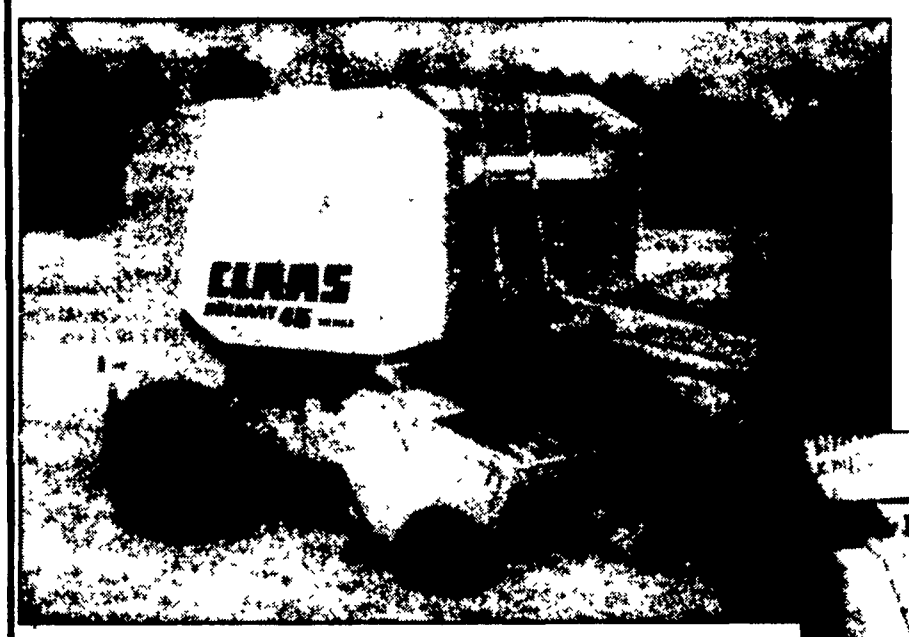
1 Leftover Model At A One And Only Price!



The New
ROTOCUT SILAGE BALER
Cuts Your Crop As It Is Forced Through A Series Of Knives.

The Benefits:
- Even higher bale density
- Easier distribution of bale contents

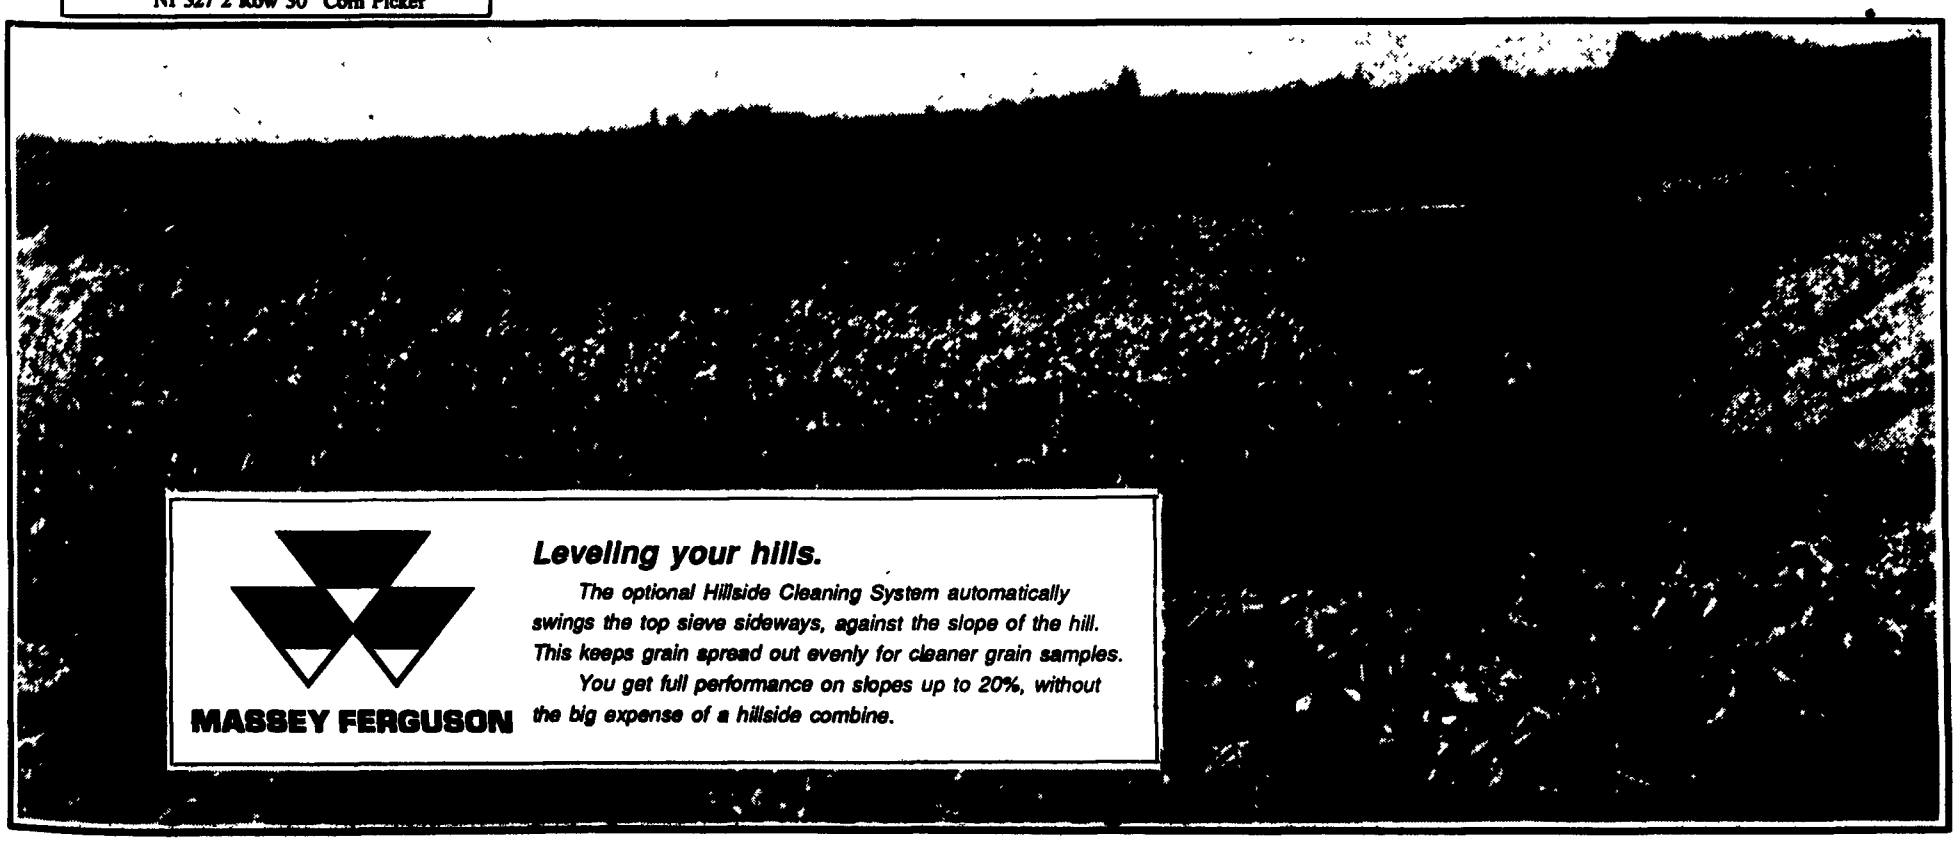
Hard to feed crops are aggressively fed right into this baler. Now you can cut and bale rye, barley and oats at boot stage. Bales fall apart - you can throw them down a hay hole and feed them with a fork.



MASSEY FERGUSON

The optional Hillside Cleaning System automatically swings the top sieve sideways, against the slope of the hill. This keeps grain spread out evenly for cleaner grain samples.

You get full performance on slopes up to 20%, without the big expense of a hillside combine.

NEW

TMR Ruffage Master

These new Oswalt® four auger Model 200/250 mixers are designed to process and mix all feeds, including baled hay, into a fully-blended TMR...better than anyone!

The aggressive, notched, 20"-diameter, full-pitch, four auger mixing pattern, dual shear shelf design and exclusive, self-lubricating Tuff-Glide® liners help feed materials flow more freely, reducing horsepower requirements and virtually eliminating material hang-ups and dead spots.

BARN CLEANERS

JAMESWAY

All-forged Hook-Link® chain... available on Super 300 and Super 500 barn cleaners

Extra thick steel at all wear points

IMPORTANT: Look for the "parting line" on any barn cleaner chain you buy. It shows where excess metal has been trimmed off. It is your assurance that the link was totally forged, not just punched out of a flat steel bar with grain flow in one direction only.
You want a totally-forged link because forging changes the grain on the steel, causing it to curve in unbroken flow lines around the contours of the link, giving the link greater strength to serve you longer.

CONCRETE REASONS WHY A NEW POURED CONCRETE SILO IS YOUR BEST INVESTMENT...

A. Enhancement of cash flow. Improved forage quality results in consistent, and increased milk production.

B. "Safe Silo" Our silos meet or exceed industry standards, reducing/protecting lender liability.

C. Initial Cost. Used or cheap pre-fab silos may have a lower initial cost, but based upon useful life, the new poured concrete silo will have a lower annual cost: due to longer life and lower maintenance costs.

D. Residual Value. Our new, poured concrete silos are built for "generations of use", and enhance the future value of the farm.

E. Storage Losses Reduced. Poured concrete silos consistently out-perform all other methods of storing and preserving the total digestible nutrients in forage crops.

F. Protecting Forage Quality. Oxygen and heat cause the most damage to stored silage and haylage. Our poured concrete silos are the very best system to PROTECT YOUR FORAGE QUALITY... "NOBODY PROTECTS FORAGE QUALITY LIKE WE DO...NOBODY"

CALF STARTENA®

DELIVERS RESULTS

Carl & Sandra Reed and Family market about 2000 dairy beef calves annually. Using PURINA® NURSE CHOW® and CALF STARTENA®, they feed their calves for eight to ten weeks, marketing at 180-200 lbs. Below are their comments on Purina's Calf Program:

- I've never found any feed that calves will eat any better than STARTENA®, and I've fed a lot of feeds.
  - By six weeks of age intake is usually 5#/day or better.
- NURSE CHOW® mixes easily and stays mixed.
  - I recently tried one group of calves on another brand but I know consumption wasn't as high and calves didn't do as well.
- You can pretty much determine how much a calf will weigh by the amount of feed you get into him. The more they eat and the earlier they eat it, the faster they grow.
  - Purina feed may be a little more expensive, but for me the performance more than offsets any additional costs.
